THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF THOMAS COLLIER PLATT

With addenda and edited

By LOUIS J. LANG

With twenty portraits in sepia and other illustrations.

8vo, Cloth, Gilt Top. $5.00 net.

8vo, Full Leather, Gilt Top. $10.00 net.

Platt traces his gradual rise from a Fremont campaign troubadour in 1856 to the absolute domination of the Republican party in the East.

He tells of the influential leaders he made and unmade. The crafty methods to which he resorted to make Garfield, Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt Presidents, and Morton, Black and Odell Governors, and Roosevelt Governor and Vice-President, are disclosed in an unique and masterful manner.

He frankly and boldly discloses National and State secrets hitherto only dreamed of, except by those in his immediate confidence.

His quarrels with Presidents Garfield, Hayes and Harrison, and Governors Black and Odell, are candidly described.

The humanity of one popularly presumed to be merely a cold-blooded conniving politician is divulged through the reproduction of songs, poems and stories composed and written by him.

MEMOIRS OF PRINCE JOHN DE GUELPH

OF

GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND

Introduction and edited

By HENRY W. FISCHER

Illustrated with many photographs.

Cloth, extra, 8vo. $2.00 net.

A personal narrative of the life, travels, researches, public service, and the political persecutions of Prince John Edward Rex Wettin Guelph, eldest son of His Majesty King Edward VII. by the first Princess Consort.

His legitimate lineal descent, and succession to the hereditary titles of the House of Guelph as determined by law, under the provisions of the Marriage Acts of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the ecclesiastical and civil disabilities.

Having steadfastly refused for sixteen years to publish his biography, preferring to give to his King and country the results of his life's work without revealing his identity to the public, he has now no alternative but to publish a biographical sketch; first, for the reason that owing to circumstances over which he has no control, his identity has been published far and wide through the public press; and, secondly, for the reason that owing to the political intrigue and unjust persecution hereinbefore referred to, interested persons have not hesitated to suppress the various plans when submitted in the regular manner.

ADDRESSES DELIVERED AT THE LINCOLN DINNERS OF THE REPUBLICAN CLUB of the City of New York, in Response to the Toast

ABRAHAM LINCOLN,

1887-1909

8vo. Cloth. $3.00 net.

On the 12th day of February, 1887, the Republican Club of the city of New York held its first banquet to commemorate the birth of Abraham Lincoln, and on each succeeding year the event has been fittingly observed. The function is now one of the largest of its kind held in the United States and has assumed proportions of national significance.

The orations published, in response to the toast of "Abraham Lincoln," were delivered by men distinguished for their eloquence, prominent in our national life, and many of whom were personally acquainted with Lincoln. Their speeches, therefore, add valuable material and new and important facts to Lincoln literature.

In the Appendix will be found speeches delivered at the Lincoln dinners by former Presidents of the United States—Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt—and by Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, Lincoln's Vice-President.

This volume is published in the hope that the lessons of Lincoln's life, so eloquently portrayed in its pages, may prove an inspiration to the readers and add to the love, respect and admiration that the world has always manifested for the far-seeing, lovable spirit of our martyred President, Abraham Lincoln.

By J. R. STAFFORD

With four illustrations. Cloth, 12mo. $1.25 net.

It is a modern Western story, written with all the emotional intensity and delicate feeling which this dramatic land of the West holds for the novel reader of to-day. The story overflows with love, hate, jealousy, revenge and breathes the atmosphere where its people are fearless, reckless and unconventional. It is a love story of exceptional charm, full of moving incidents, with a hero who will surely stand high and have the sympathy of all who read this tale; and the beauty and strong love of the heroine will make her beloved by all.

THE CANVAS DOOR

A Novel

By MARY FAIRLEY SANBORN

With a frontispiece in full color by H. Richard Boehm.

First, last and throughout a love story, sweet and wholesome, sad and glad, but seldom in the first work of an author does one meet with a love story of such rare beauty. Fantastic in its conception of the reincarnation theme, it is nevertheless so exquisite in style, so subtly clever in execution, as to carry a certain conviction, while the characterization of Allegra—beautiful, whimsically feminine and altogether charming Allegra—strikes a keynote in the new season's fiction.

Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

MR. JACKSON

By HELEN GREEN

Author of "At the Actors' Boarding House," "The Maison de Shine."
Illustrated by Wallace Morgan.

This new volume by the author of "At the Actors' Boarding House" introduces new characters; but her "under-world" delineation is as strong as ever. "Mr. Jackson" himself is the "Raffles" of New York confidence men; polished, educated, resourceful, daring.

In the recital of his varied adventures Mrs. Green is at her best; she knows the shady side of New York life as does no other woman writer; and in the book's shrewd analysis and quick action even the jaded reader will find some unexpected thrills.

Cloth, 12mo. $1.25.

SAMUEL THE SEEKER

By UPTON SINCLAIR

Author of "The Jungle," "Money Changers," etc.

Mr. Sinclair in this book has abandoned the field of muck-raking, although it embodies his theories of the relation between capital and labor.

As a novel it is a very thrilling story of a young man carried away with his enthusiasm for the laboring classes.

"A most interesting book, full of the most elemental ideas in present day society, is Upton Sinclair's 'Samuel the Seeker.' It is written with almost childish simplicity, as if the author, wishing to impress his truths upon even his simplest readers, had used every means to make his story and his arguments clear."—Indianapolis News.

"Samuel is of the simple and trusting order of men, who, when believing a thing is right, set to work here and now to establish that thing. He is a youth of the working classes struggling for employment; a youth greatly puzzled at the luxury and idleness side by side with the poverty and drudgery. While its plainness of purpose frequently carries it beyond the rigid realm of art, it is nevertheless a book full of human import, a book well worth our reading. It is a novel of bold ideas, one that will arouse a conscience and set the mind athinking."—San Francisco Examiner.

"By nature essentially a seeker after enlightenment, indefatigable and fearless in his efforts to obtain and use it, Samuel is nevertheless much of the idealist, and starts out on his quest with the false premises that all men are bound to be consistent and unimpeachable. It is inevitable, of course, that he becomes disillusioned and the ultimate effect of the process upon his mind is to make him an uncompromising enemy of the monied classes."—St. Louis Star.

"Samuel was a youth up north somewhere, and went to the city to seek his fortune. The simplicity of his mind was such that he became the fool of crooks low and high. He got a little inkling of evolution and the survival of the fittest as narrow-minded scientists see it."—Minneapolis Journal.

"He seeks a solution of the problems of life, liberty and happiness. He tests every solution offered him with the acid of practice, and every solution fails, and Mr. Sinclair leaves us to conclude that he believes the only solution is that suggested in the hymn of the group of socialists with which Samuel connects himself."—N. Y. Herald.

"Mr. Sinclair has given us in his new novel a very thrilling story of a young man carried away with his enthusiasm for the laboring classes. The author has abandoned the field of muck-raking, although the story embodies his theories of the relation between capital and labor."—Detroit News.

" 'Samuel the Seeker' is as interesting as anything this author has written. It starts off as a modernized, 'work-and-win' story of our boyhood days, but develops into a thorough-going Socialistic novel, presenting our leading citizens as petty grafters and whitened sepulchres. It will never be popular as a gift book among capitalists, politicians and the clergy."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

12*mo. Cloth.* $1.50.

THE PLAYERS O' LONDON

By LOUISE BEECHER CHANCELLOR

A dainty romance of the most romantic period in history, and having as hero Shakspere himself.

Phyllis, the twin brother of a boy player in my Lord Leicester's company, takes the part of Juliet in the poet's new play; and unknown to all the rest she unwittingly wins his love—this in brief is the story, but it is as beautiful and sad-sweet a prose poem as has ever been written around the life of the great dramatist.

The make-up of the book is in keeping—printed in two colors throughout with page decorations by John Matthews, bound in lavender, white and gold and handsomely boxed for holiday giving.

Cloth, extra, 8vo. Illustrated. $1.75 net.

MY QUEST OF THE ARAB HORSE

By HOMER DAVENPORT

Homer Davenport, the cartoonist, is a man with two hobbies—his drawings and his Arabian horses. How he got a special iradé from the Sultan, allowing him to export from Turkey nineteen pure-blooded Arabs; how he traveled into the heart of the desert, won the friendship of the "Sheik of Sheiks," the ruler of the Bedouins, was made a blood brother to the tribe, and through this fellowship secured a score of the best horses of the Arabian stock, horses that the average foreigner might have spent thousands of dollars, in vain, to obtain—all this is told in "My Quest of the Arab Horse." The book is illustrated with some fifty pictures taken by the Davenport party and numerous cartoons from drawings by the author. It will interest every lover of horses and reader of genuine present-day adventure.

Cloth, 8vo. Illustrated. $2.00 net.

THE DELINEATOR'S PRIZE $3000 HOUSES

Every prospective house or bungalow builder will be interested in this book of "The Delineator's" prize houses. Several thousand dollars in prizes and much labor was spent to get together the plans and designs comprised in this book, many of the most prominent architects in the country competing. The result is a revelation to those who think utility and beauty inconsistent with moderate cost.

The book gives the complete plans, together with perspectives and plans for landscaping and including much material not in "The Delineator" series. Beautifully printed, it gives in the text in each case detailed directions for building and furnishing and careful estimates of cost. The $3,000 limit of price is a popular one; and these plans combine in a unique way the best practical thought with exclusive and thoroughly artistic designs.

ARE THE DEAD ALIVE?

By FREMONT RIDER

A careful and authoritative summing up of a half-century's progress in psychical research, written in a way that almost compels an absorbing interest.

When this book, in a condensed form, ran serially in "The Delineator," the comment aroused was almost unprecedented, literally, thousands of letters being received by the author.

A unique addition are the statements of personal belief on the question of the book's title, prepared especially for it by such scholars and writers as Sir Oliver Lodge, Count Tolstoi, Sir William Crookes, Professor Richet, Dr. Lombroso, Professor William James, etc.

The book is very fully illustrated with photographs, many of them never before published, illustrating every phase of psychical phenomena, and is provided with a complete index.

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF METHUSELAH

By JOHN KENDRICK BANGS

Illustrated in two colors by F. G. Cooper.

It was inevitable that the literary remains of Methuselah, the fruition of a long and active life, should sooner or later be gathered into permanent form. The choice of Mr. Bangs as editor was a peculiarly felicitous one; undoubtedly few men could handle more sympathetically the salient points of the patriarch's career and personality.

His reminiscences of his great grandsons Shem, Ham and Japheth strike a familiar chord, while the old gentleman's position on such burning questions as woman suffrage, child culture and trust baiting give food for the thought of the serious reader.

Mr. Cooper's illustrations are in full accord with the sympathy and scholarly spirit of the text.

The publication of a new book by Rudyard Kipling is a literary event. When, further, it is a book of his never before published earlier stories, stories of the period of "Plain Tales from the Hills" and "Soldiers Three" and like them in theme and style, interest is doubled. Some of the Anglo-Indian tales in "Abaft the Funnel," like "Steipner, Late Thurinda," "The Likes o' Us," and "The New Dispensation," are known by hearsay to enthusiastic Kipling lovers; others of the thirty-odd stories making up the volume are quite new.

A BIRD CAGE

By WALLACE IRWIN

Author of "Love Sonnets of a Woodsman."

Drawings in color by Edna Morse. 4to. Cloth.

"A Bird Cage" has two claims to popularity, either one of which would make a book of more than usual merit. The verses by Wallace Irwin are in his most delightful manner. Need more be said? Certainly not to those who know the sprightly humor of Wallace Irwin's muse. The illustrations of Edna Morse are a book in themselves. If they were not fortunate enough to have the help of Mr. Irwin's text, they could have been published alone, and would have made the children's picture book of the year.

The experiences of a draught-ox from his irresponsible calf-hood to his final position as loved and trusted leader of the team, are woven into a most interesting story of "trekking," or teaming, in South Africa. Mr. Hyatt writes with a sympathetic understanding of the nature and feelings of that patient but important part of the African economy, the trek-ox, equal to that of Seton-Thompson or Kipling, and his subject and the setting of it are something new in animal stories.

Over 250 illustrations by Carton Moore-Park.

Jewett, John Howard — FRIENDS OF THE HUNTED

Pancoast are in full sympathy with the spirit of love of animals and the outdoor boy world.

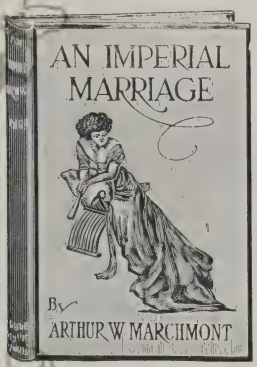
AN IMPERIAL MARRIAGE



If you should happen to fall in love with the charming daughter of a proscribed Polish conspirator, and if an Imperial favorite, for whom the Kaiser had selected a very different bride, should fall in love with an opera-singer and allow it to be supposed that he was in pursuit of the Polish lady, greatly to the Kaiser's disgust—and if the unscrupulous son of a high police official should be really in love with the beautiful Polish lady, using his knowledge of her father's political crimes as a weapon to compel her to accept him—and if you should happen to be a rather obstinate and pugnacious Englishman, you would be apt to run into various interesting kinds of trouble, don't you think?

All these things and more happen to the hero of "An Imperial Marriage." How he fights his way through his difficulties one by one to a happy consummation, makes a most exciting and absorbing romance of love and imperial politics.

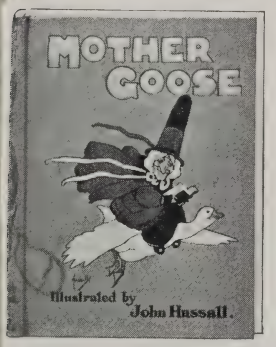
Mother Goose's Nursery Rhymes



In this handsome volume Walter Jerrold, who is the best living authority on this interesting branch of literature, has gathered together and carefully edited over four hundred of these favorites of our early childhood. Never before have so many different nursery rhymes been given in a single volume. A special feature of the book is the large number of illustrations by John Hassall. Brilliant as all the work of John Hassall undoubtedly is, probably the most lasting of his drawings will be the wonderful pictures which he has made to illustrate the good old nursery rhymes. It is safe to say, therefore, that this is the most complete and the most lavishly and attractively illustrated Mother Goose on the market.

Since the foundation of the Society for Psychical Research a great mass of material has been published on such subjects as Thought Transference, Crystal Gazing, Ghosts, Mediumship, Physical Phenomena and other so-called "occult" manifestations. BY PRINCIPAL P. T. FORSYTH, D.D.

THE WORK OF CHRIST. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This new volume by Principal Forsyth is a further valuable contribution to the traditional view of the doctrine of the atonement. It may be regarded as supplementary to "The Cruciality of the Cross," and carries the subject a step farther by giving it a wider and more direct application. The chapters are as follows: I. The Difference between God's Sacrifice and Man's; II. The Great Moving Work is to Reconcile; III. Reconciliation, Philosophic and Christian; IV. Reconciliation and Atonement; V. The Cross the Great Confessional; VI. The Judgment Cross, the Triumphant Cross, the Creative Cross.

THE CRUCIALITY OF THE CROSS. By Principal P. T. Forsyth, D.D., author of "Modern Preaching," "Missions in Church and State," etc., etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

"Dr. Forsyth is one of the very few modern writers on the Atonement who is satisfying, because his teaching rings essentially true to the New Testament and to the awakened conscience of sinful man." — Rev. Principal W. H. Griffith Thomas, in The Record.

"Dr. Forsyth has made this theme very specially his own, has thought it through, and, if we may say so, found his life in it and in the reality behind it." — British Congregationalist.

IN THE DARK AND CLOUDY DAY. A New Volume of Studies by Rev. G. H. Knight, M.A. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

This author has found a large audience in America through his earlier books, "The Master's Questions to His Disciples" and "In the Secret of His Presence." This present book will be welcomed for its messages of sympathy and comfort. Some chapters are: Is it All a Mystery?; The Bow in the Cloud; The Perils of the Darkness; On the River's Brink; Beside the Grave; The Sorrow of the Hopeless; The Home Beyond, etc., etc.

THE LIFE SPIRITUAL: Studies of the Life of the Spirit. By Reverend Professor W. T. Davison, of the Wesleyan College, Richmond. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

Contents: The Holy Spirit in Modern Christian Thought and Life; Divine Immanence; The Hidden Life; The Freedom of the Spirit; Prayer in the Spirit; Tides of the Spirit (Revivals); Plenitude of the Spirit; The Spirit-filled Church; Mystical Religion.

BY REV. W. M. CLOW, B.D.

THE SECRET OF THE LORD: The Self-Revelation of Christ. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This book expounds and enforces the self-revealing teachings of Christ which immediately preceded and followed the transfiguration. It is prefaced by an opening discussion on The Law of the Secret, The Place of the Secret, The Time of the Secret. The secret itself is the fully awakened consciousness in Christ of His mission in the world. Then follows a tracing out of the manner in which the revelation was conveyed by God to Christ and by Christ to man. The chapter headings are: I. The Revelation of the Christ; II. The Disclosure of the Cross; III. The Unveiling of the Glory: IV. The Open Things of the Secret. It admirably supplements "The Day of the Cross" and "The Cross in Christian Experience," two books which have won for this author a place in the hearts and sympathies of Christian people.

THE DAY OF THE CROSS. By Rev. W. M. Clow, B.D. A companion volume to "The Cross in Christian Experience." 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

The book consists (we quote the preface) of a "series of studies of the events of the last day in the earthly life of Jesus, and is an endeavor to reconstruct its scenes, to set its personalities in a revealing light, and to enter into the significance of their words and deeds. Above all, it has kept in view the interpretation of the mind of Christ, and of the supreme act of His service and sacrifice to God."

"To say that these sermons are from the first word to the last interesting is to say too little. It is not exaggeration to say that they hold the attention in quite an unusual degree." "Here is a man," the reader says to himself, "who knows how men and women actually live, what the difficulties and temptations and vices of rich and poor really are. There is no beating the air. There are no men of straw created for the sake of effect. We are in contact with reality all through." — Dr. MARCUS DODS in the British Weekly.

"'Modern' in the best sense." — The Scottish Review.

THE CROSS IN CHRISTIAN EXPERIENCE. By W. M. Clow, B.D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

CONTENTS: — I. FOREWORD — II. THE LOVE AND GIFT OF GOD — III. THE PASSION AND WORK OF CHRIST — IV. THE CHRISTIAN EXPERIENCE — V. THE CROSS AND THE EVANGEL — VI. AN AFTERWARD.

The president of one of the leading theological colleges in England, whose name we are obliged to withhold, has written as follows: "Will you permit me to express my most grateful thanks for 'The Cross in Christian Experience'? I have read it with unfeigned pleasure and I trust with not a little spiritual profit. It is one of the freshest and most helpful presentations of the Old, Old Story, that I have read for many a day. In a paper which we issue to all former students I have already called attention to this book and recommended it to over five hundred men. I have also had other opportunities of mentioning it to friends. It is so seldom, nowadays, that one is able to find the old objective and substitutionary view of the Atonement presented, that my joy and satisfaction are all the greater. I hope we shall soon have some more work from this pen. HENCEFORWARD THIS BOOK WILL BE PLACED SIDE BY SIDE ON MY SHELF AND IN MY MIND WITH DENNY'S 'DEATH OF CHRIST.'"

"The writer goes at once to the centre of things, and in each chapter sets forth the meaning and message of the Cross in relation to human sin and need. The atmosphere of the book is sacramental, the language homely and simple, and the evangelical earnestness of the man who loses himself in his message is apparent on every page." — Methodist Times.

BY PROFESSOR JAMES ORR, D.D.

SIN AS A PROBLEM OF TO-DAY. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

"What we name sin is, from the religious point of view, the tragedy of God's universe." So, in the opening sentence, the problem is stated: "In its very conception sin is that which ought not to be; which ought never to have been." Then what is sin? How did it come? Why is it permitted? These are the questions which Professor Orr answers in this volume. His discussion of the problem is divided under three headings: I. Sin, its Nature and Magnitude; II. Sin as a Moral Transgression—the Primary Certainties; III. Sin and Divine Holiness—the Moral End.

THE FAITH OF A MODERN CHRISTIAN. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

Professor Orr lays down as his foundation stone of modern faith that "in Scripture we have a revelation divine, historical, progressive, given in divers portions and divers manners." Commencing with "The Problem of the Old Testament," he traces God's progressive revelation of Himself up to the birth of Christ, after which the book deals in detail with the problems of the New Testament: The Gospels and Modern Criticism, Miracles, The Incarnation, The Faith of the Modern Christian, etc.

THE BIBLE IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY. By Prof. A. S. Peake, D.D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

Among the leaders of the present school of practical and practised Bible scholars, Professor Peake takes a forward place. This volume deals with the place of the Bible in our life and work, the Bible as a guide to right living, and many other phases of the status of the Bible in the present century.

THE GOSPEL FOR TO-DAY. By Rev. Principal A. E. Garvie. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

Studies of the tendencies that are dangerous to Christian faith, and suggesting material and method for necessary theological restatement.

SUNDAY EVENING SERMONS. A New Volume by Rev. G. H. Morrison. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.35

The annual volume of sermons by Mr. Morrison has come to be awaited eagerly by that goodly company who have derived such refreshment and profit from this author's "Unlighted Lustre," "Flood Tide," "The Return of the Angels," etc., etc. The present volume is a worthy successor to the earlier books.

BY PROFESSOR DAVID SMITH, D.D.

THE DAYS OF HIS FLESH: The Earthly Life of Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. New and cheaper edition. 8vo. Cloth Net $2.00

This "Life of our Lord," by Dr. Smith, has come to be reckoned among the really great books on its subject. It has its own distinctive place in that it happily and successfully combines accuracy of statement, scholarship in a rare degree, beauty and imagination in the telling of the life-story, and a popular, readable style. The late Principal Dods said of this book: "Happily, Mr. Smith possesses, over and above these necessary qualifications, imagination enough to see the various scenes and incidents which he describes, as well as ability to reproduce them in graphic and vigorous language. It is not going too far to say that there is no Life of Christ in which the whole gospel narrative is reproduced in so readable and intelligible a form."

MAN'S NEED OF GOD AND OTHER SERMONS. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

The great interest attaching to the splendid work of Principal Smith has made a demand for more of his work. This volume reflects his style of work and thought.

THE EXPANSION OF CHRISTENDOM: A Study in Religious History. By Mrs. Ashley Carus-Wilson, B.A., Author of "Clews to Holy Writ," "Irene Petrie," etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

For over twenty years the title and general idea of this volume have been in the writer's mind, and its subject-matter has provided themes for many lectures and addresses. It is neither a text-book of missionary information for students nor a general exhortation to those who generally read religious books, enjoy missionary meetings, and subscribe regularly to societies for evangelizing the world. It appeals, rather, to the average church-goer who regards Christian missions as uninteresting, and gives casual aid and yet more casual thought to them. Dealing with a subject that should concern all Christendom, and emphasizing the points of agreement rather than of difference between different communions, it sets aside as irrelevant most ecclesiastical and many doctrinal questions, but indicates how preachers of the gospel abroad rise above petty distrusts and suspicions between Christian and Christian at home.

Author of "St. Paul the Traveller," "The Letters to the Seven Churches of Asia," etc., etc.

THE THOUSAND AND ONE CHURCHES. By Prof. Sir W. M. Ramsay and Miss Gertrude L. Bell. With over 400 illustrations, diagrams, and charts, over 580 pages. Octavo. Cloth Net $5.00

"The Thousand and One Churches" of the Kara Dargh, the "Black Mountain" near Iconium, have aroused considerable interest in recent years. This book is the outcome of a careful examination of the whole site, which resulted in the discovery of many unknown monuments, together with important Hittite inscriptions. Professor Sir W. M. Ramsay, D.C.L., LL.D., describes the history of society and religion during seven successive centuries in the "Black Mountain," from the Hittite period down to the time when Turks and Christians divided the whole city between them, and also, by churches in the mountain. Miss Gertrude L. Bell describes the churches and monasteries, and discusses the evolution of architecture in the "Black Mountain."

THE REVOLUTION IN CONSTANTINOPLE AND TURKEY IN 1909. By Prof. Sir W. M. Ramsay. With many illustrations from photographs especially taken for this volume. Octavo. Cloth Net $3.75

"It is a fortunate circumstance for English readers that the task of reporting faithfully, minutely, and vividly the events in Constantinople which marked the final triumph of the Young Turks over the party of reaction, has been undertaken by one so familiar with the Near East, and so unprejudiced a witness, as Sir William Ramsay. To read this volume is to be brought very near to the marvellous developments of the Turkish Revolution, and to be stirred as one can only be by a narrative which reflects the constant movements and quiverings of a palpitating expectancy and uncertainty, such as possessed the Turkish capital when the Army of Liberty was on the march, and no man knew whether order or anarchy would prevail. The diary form in which the narrative is cast enhances rather than detracts from its powerful dramatic interest. A set treatise, composed when the hurly-burly had become a mere memory, could not atone in its methodical precision for the freshness and vivacity native to the pages of a diary in which every passing phase of emotion, every thrilling story of excitement and alarm, was dutifully recorded. Even the inaccuracies have their charm." — Glasgow Herald.

CHRIST AND THE NATIONS: An Examination of Old and New Testament Teaching. By the Rev. Arthur J. Tait, M.A., Principal of Ridley Hall. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

The aim of this book is twofold. In the first place it is to show that the evangelization of the nations of the world in these latter days is part of the counsel of God, which was revealed with growing clearness through the Old Testament prophets, and was declared anew by Christ, and embodied in the final commission which he gave to the Church. In the second place, it is to trace the steps by which the exclusiveness of Judaism was made to give way to the Catholicism of Christianity. The content of the evangel is only incidentally referred to. The ways and means by which the Church of post-Apostolic days has sought to fulfil her obligation and the progress which has been made are not touched upon. Attention has been concentrated upon the obligation itself and the gradual unfolding of the Divine plan.

THE DIVINE CHALLENGE and Other Sermons. 320 pages. 12mo. Cloth Net $0.50

The latest volume by the author of "The Evangelistic Note," "The Empire of Love," etc., etc.
The keynote of the Challenge and of this book is, "Do men believe in Christ?"
The most notable quality in this volume is Dr. Dawson's wide charity and brotherliness,—his genius to intercept and answer the perplexities of the reverent doubter.

ONE NIGHT IN BETHLEHEM: A Christmas Story. With six original illustrations in color. Decorated boards. 12mo. Net $0.75

Dr. Dawson tells the story of some of the unnamed travellers who were sheltering in the inn on the night of the birth at Bethlehem. With the sure knowledge of one who has been in the East, he recreates the scene, sketching his characters vividly with strokes of power and tenderness: the tired mother; the innkeeper and his reception of the travellers; the kindly helpfulness of the broken gladiator. The story is full of the spirit of Christmas,—the first Christmas, that night at Bethlehem.

HEROES AND MARTYRS OF FAITH: An exposition of the Eleventh Chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews. By Prof. A. S. Peake, M.A., D.D., Author of "Christianity: Its Nature and its Truth," "A Guide to Biblical Study," etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This volume, by the brilliant author of "Christianity: Its Nature and its Truth," contains a devotional and practical study on the eleventh chapter of the Epistle of the Hebrews. While the book is mainly concerned with the Old Testament narratives and personalities mentioned in that chapter, these are discussed from the standpoint of the epistle rather than from that of modern criticism. It has been the author's aim to be faithful to the meaning of the epistle, but also to bring out the significance of its teaching on the insight and victories of faith for the practical and speculative problems of our own day.

ST. PAUL THE ORATOR: A Critical Historical and Explanatory Commentary on the Speeches of St. Paul. By Rev. Maurice Jones, B.D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

No work has heretofore been published in English dealing with the speeches of St. Paul as a whole. They have been dealt with separately in all the commentaries on The Acts and in the extensive literature which has grown out of the study of the great apostle's life and labors, but never as a whole. In this volume the biographical and historical materials of most recent scholarship and research are made explanatory of the speeches. They are grouped under three main headings: I. St. Paul's Missionary Sermons; II. St. Paul's Addresses to Christian Assemblies; III. The Speeches of the Trial.

RESPECTABLE SINS: A volume of addresses by Rev. John Watson, D.D. (Ian Maclaren). 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

This book professes to be a volume of essays on religion addressed to young men. It is much more than that: it is a final and intimate revelation of the sources of nobleness and strength of one of the wisest practical Christians of our day and generation.

SOME OF THE SUBJECTS ARE: Evil Temper — A False Tongue — Jealousy — Egotism — Bigotry — Discontentment — Why a young man is not a Christian, etc., etc. Ian Maclaren, the novelist, represented but one side, and many think the smaller side, of John Watson. Of late he has been coming more and more into his own as a preacher of unusual power and originality. This present volume is strikingly attractive and thoroughly modern.

BY THE LATE PRINCIPAL MARCUS DODS, D.D.

CHRIST AND MAN and other Sermons. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This volume contains some of the best sermons of a great preacher and a greater man. "As you listened to one of his spacious, massive sermons—in which there was not a single unreal phrase—you felt shut up to accept his conclusions by an irresistible cumulative impression alike on conscience and mind. . . . But at least this may be affirmed, that as a continuous expositor of Scripture Dr. Dods had no living equal. . . . His manhood was behind every word. Those who knew him well will understand me when I say that Dr. Dods' face, as he stood in the pulpit, was an argument for the truth of Christianity. It had in it a calm and wholesome power that enabled men to give him their trust. He held men to religion by character." — Rev. Prof. H. R. Mackintosh.

FOOTSTEPS IN THE PATH OF LIFE: Meditations and Prayers for every Sunday for a Year. 12mo. Cloth. Gilt top Net $1.25

This beautiful volume of meditations reveals the secret of a great man's joyful confidence in Christ. Dr. Marcus Dods was in his daily work and conversation a living evidence of Christianity. "He was a Christian," wrote Sir William Robertson Nicoll, "in the full sense of the word, and all that was pure and high in him was reinforced by faith, by prayer, by the practice of the presence of God, by the imitation of Christ." Dr. Dods, who often dwelt on his favorite subject of St. Augustine's Confessions, once remarked that "St. Augustine was one of the few who really loved God." Dr. Dods was another. "I am the Almighty God; walk before Me and be perfect," was an injunction ever in his mind. "He was a friend of God." These meditations have not a little of the fragrance of St. Augustine; they are rich in spiritual experience, and together they form a devotional book of rare beauty and of great value.

THE RETURN OF THE ANGELS. By Rev. G. H. Morrison, D.D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.35

A new volume of sermons by the author of "Flood Tide," "Unlighted Lustre," "Sunrise," &c.

This new volume of addresses by the author of "Flood Tide" has all the brilliance and distinction of the former works. It is not wonderful that Mr. Morrison's sermons are in demand. He is a born preacher. He knows what to keep out of his sermons, and few there are who learn that lesson. He knows also what to put into his sermons. Then he studies simplicity; he shuns theological and, indeed, technical language of all kinds. He translates his thoughts into the language of the common people. He works hard at the task of finding acceptable words. Then he works hard also to ascertain the meaning of his text, and lays the foundation in exact exegesis. Then he studies his people, knows what they are thinking, what they need, and how they feel. So his sermons are a real present message, really addressed to a real people.

THE PRE-EMINENT LORD. By Rev. J. Stuart Holden. 12mo. Cloth. Net $1.25

CHRIST IN INDIA: A Study in Indigenous Christian Development. By Rev. C. F. Andrews of Delhi, India. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This remarkable book is a fearless plea for church unity, and is the result of the life and work of a man who is recognized as the most able and fearless missionary in India. His conclusions are reached as a result of his work in India. Two appendices lend peculiar interest and attraction to the work, one by S. K. Rudia, M.A., the first native Christian in India to become principal of a prominent university, and the other by E. S. Stokes, an American, a man who lives the life of a Franciscan and in intimate and close relation to the life of India.

ANTOINETTE BOURIGNON, Quietist, Her Life, Times, and Doctrines. By the Rev. A. R. Macewen, D.D. 12mo Net $1.25

Two hundred years ago the name of Antoinette Bourignon was well known in many parts of Northern Europe. Her writings were widely read in the Netherlands, France, Germany, and England. Her disciples were, as a rule, men of learning and piety, and her teaching seemed likely to become a factor in the religion of the modern world. In Scotland, where it was specially acceptable, some discreet observers thought that it threatened the dominance of Calvinism. A generation later, John Wesley published portions of her writings for the edification of his Societies. Her doctrines were condemned by all the Church authorities of her time. . . . Hundreds of ministers of the Church of Scotland now living have publicly disowned "Bourignianism." Yet her life and doctrine have passed out of common knowledge. "The character and adventures of Antoinette Bourignon (1616–1680) are of no little interest; and as a religious enthusiast who, in an age of dogmatism and secularism, abandoned all definite Christian dogma, she has received too little attention from the historians of mysticism. This study by the Professor of Church History, New College, Edinburgh, will be welcome to students of religious thought and history. — The Times.

THE NEVER–OLD STORIES SERIES.

Miss Lettice Bell, the author of the attractive and popular "Go-to-bed Stories," has extended her work to two new volumes. Each book has an appreciative introduction by Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, D.D.

ASPECTS OF CHRIST. By the Rev. W. B. Selbie, M.A., Principal of Mansfield College, Oxford. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

The general subject of Principal Selbie's book, which is his first of importance, is the Christ of history and experience.

From the author's very interesting introduction on "Historic Fact and Christian Doctrine," the following is quoted: "Christianity is a historical religion. It arose at a certain period in time, and as the outcome of certain definite events. It has a historical Person as the centre of its thought and devotion. Christian theology is the interpretation of this Person — the attempt to relate Him to our idea of God on the one hand, and of human life and conduct on the other. It is obvious, therefore, that this process of interpretation must be profoundly modified by the view we take of history. When the world was young and men naïve and simple in their ideas, facts were facts, and the acceptance and explanation of them presented no difficulty. Credulity was a virtue. But in these latter days, when more critical and philosophical conceptions of history are in vogue, when the idea of development dominates every department of thought, and environment is a factor to be taken into account, the position is very different."

THE PRIMITIVE CHURCH AND THE PRIMACY OF ROME. By Prof. Giorgio Bartoli. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

The author of this striking work was until quite recently a member of the Society of Jesus, teaching science, literature, and languages in the Society's colleges in Europe and in India. But he was accused of defections in doctrine, and his superiors forbade him to live in large cities and centres of culture or to preach, and finally commanded him never to go out of the house without one of his brethren, who was to keep a watch upon his private conversation and report upon it. So he left the Jesuits, and by the publication of this book set himself in open opposition to the Church of Rome. "The work" (we quote from the Scotsman) "sets out, with a learning and open-mindedness which any candid theologian must recognize, why he has come to the conclusion that the Roman Church and the true Church are different things, and how many matters, touching both doctrines and church government, are held unquestionable by Roman Catholics which have no warranty in the Scriptures or in the Fathers."

LIFE ON GOD'S PLAN: Sermons by Rev. Prof. Hugh Ross Mackintosh of New College, Edinburgh. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

"Life on God's Plan" is the striking title of this volume of sermons by the Rev. Professor Hugh R. Mackintosh, Ph.D. They are mainly the fruit of Dr. Mackintosh's ministry in Aberdeen, where he preached to a congregation composed in an unusual degree of school teachers. In their latter form, however, the discourses date from his years at New College, Edinburgh. It should be said, however, that the sermons comprising this volume are quite unacademic in tone, and are addressed to the plain man, even those which partake of a theological character being practical in their issues.

THE MIND OF CHRIST IN ST. PAUL. By Rev. J. G. Greenhough, M.A., author of "The Cross in Modern Life," etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

Dr. Greenhough's books are marked by mature thought, reverent reflection, and unpretentious scholarship framed in the most lucid and graceful English, for refined and picturesque style, and felicitous expression. His work is firm in Gospel truth, with ample treasures of mature Christian experience.

"It will not be in vain that preachers and teachers will turn for stimulating thought and practical helpfulness to Rev. J. G. Greenhough's useful work. . . . Truths precious to the Christian heart are elegantly and poetically expressed, and the reader is reminded again and again of the incalculable debt the Church owes to the great Apostle of the Gentiles for his application of Christ's teaching to the relationships and concerns of our common life." — Christian.

LIGHT FROM THE ANCIENT EAST (Light from Anatolia). The New Testament and the new and recently discovered manuscripts of the Græco-Roman world. By Prof. Adolf Deissmann, D.D. With illustrations. Octavo. Cloth Net $4.00

The last decades of the Nineteenth Century have opened up to Science, in the numerous Ancient Inscriptions and the quantities of newly-discovered Papyri and Fragments of the Græco-Roman world, a source which is of the greatest importance for the many different branches of research. In his new book, "Light from Anatolia," Professor Deissmann came to the fore with a number of fresh observations concerning the language, literature, and religious history of the Early Christian Church, deepening former research, and availing himself of the results of his studies on a tour to the Centres of the Early Christianity in Asia Minor and Greece. After a short résumé about the discovery and publication of the new manuscripts, there follows in the three chief divisions a demonstration of their language and results as to the history of religion, for the acquisition of knowledge of the New Testament and Early Christianity. A great number of the more important manuscripts are reproduced in facsimile, many of them for the first time in print. Professor Deissmann has decided to write the book popularly, so that it can be understood by everybody, and not only by theologians, but by the laity. The New Testament appears in a new light through the discoveries which help us to recognize the simplicity and creative-religious power of Early Christianity.

THE REFORMATION IN SCOTLAND: Its Causes, Characteristics, and Consequences. The Stone Lectures at Princeton Theological Seminary for 1907–1908. By D. Hay Fleming, LL.D. Octavo. Net $3.00

These lectures were delivered in Princeton Theological Seminary, and have now been greatly enlarged. In the opening one the Scottish Reformation is traced from its early beginnings down through the Lollards to the period of Patrick Hamilton. Of the secondary causes special attention is devoted to the corruption of morals, ignorance, irreverence, credulity, imposture, and rapacity which prevailed among the clergy, the abuses connected with the conferring of benefices, and the ineffective remedial legislation of the Provincial Councils. The primary causes are shown to have been books and pamphlets, ballads and plays, the teaching and influence of the martyrs and reformers, and the circulation of the Scriptures in English. Proof is given that so early as the second decade of the sixteenth century it was seriously proposed to renounce the supremacy of Rome in civil and ecclesiastical matters. The leading characteristic of the Scottish Reformation was its thoroughness, and the keynote was sounded by Knox in 1547. This thoroughness is apparent in the First Book of Discipline, the Book of Common Order, and the Confession of Faith of 1560, and in the completeness of the overthrow of the Papal jurisdiction by Parliament. Great importance is shown to have been attached to preaching, to the right administration of the Sacraments, to simplicity of worship, and to ecclesiastical discipline. In discussing the consequences, the destruction of altars, images, vestments, and works of art, and especially of ecclesiastical buildings, is fully considered; and attention is directed to the freeing of legitimate traders from clerical opposition, to the extinguishing of the fires of persecution, to the removal of unscriptural and pernicious bars to marriage, to the revived interest in education, to the introduction of the lay element in the government of the Church, to the high moral ideal set before the nation, and to the heritage and the heirs.

MEN IN THE MAKING. Addresses to Young Men. By Ambrose Shepherd, D.D., author of " The Gospel and Social Questions," etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

Dr. Robertson Nicoll in The British Weekly says: "Dr. Ambrose Shepherd's new volume to young men is one of the freshest, most original, most interesting books of the kind I have ever read. Others may be more eloquent and passionate; few, if any, are more reasonable, more lucid, more persuasive. Dr. Shepherd's point of view gives originality to all he says. He is one whom life has deeply interested. His own life and the lives of others he has watched with attentive eyes. He has remembered them and pondered them. . . . The number of suggestive and true thoughts and records of human life in these pages is wonderful. . . . We do not find a needless word or a superfluous sentence. . . . It is one of the books for young men that young men will read, and I can imagine no higher praise."
"Robust manliness, sound common sense, and intimate acquaintance with human life, are revealed on every page; and for 'Men in the Making,' no wiser or healthier guide could be desired." — Scotsman.

DR. J. R. MILLER'S MOST IMPORTANT WORK

DEVOTIONAL HOURS WITH THE BIBLE. By Rev. J. R Miller, D.D. In eight volumes Each, Net $1.25

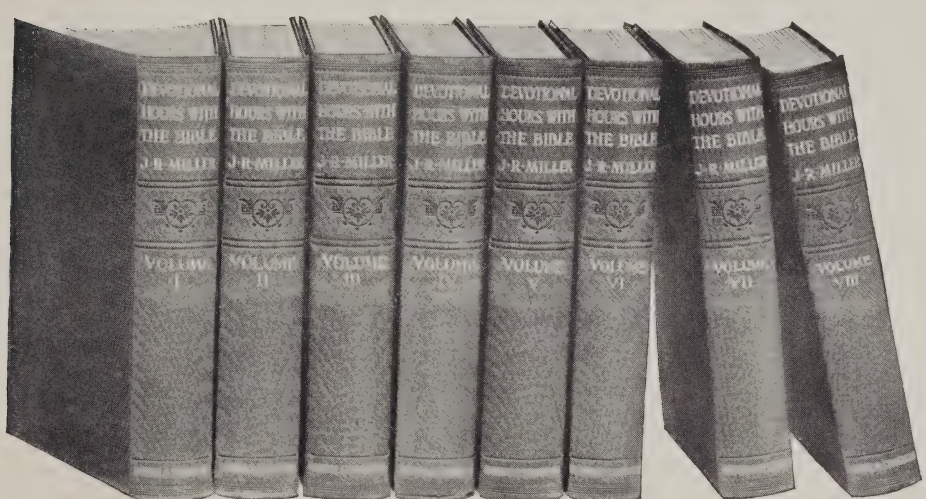
Now ready, Volume I. From the Creation to the Crossing of the Red Sea.

Volume II. From the Crossing of the Red Sea to the Close of the Life of David.

Volume III. The Gospel of Matthew.

Volume IV. The Historical Books from Solomon to Malachi.

Covering the period of the International S. S. Lessons for 1911.



This is really the most imposing and important work undertaken by Dr. Miller. In his preface he briefly states his method as follows: ". . . Then another way of studying the Bible is in order to get from it practical lessons for our own daily common life. What does the passage teach us? What Divine instruction have we in it for ourselves? It is this purpose that is in mind in this work. It is not a commentary in the usual sense. It is not an exegetical study of the Scriptures that is proposed. No textual criticism is given. There is no discussion of questions of dates, of localities, of authorships, or archæological researches. Its single aim is to suggest some of the spiritual and practical lessons which may be gathered from great passages.

"The book does not attempt to cover every chapter; to do this would make it altogether too long — it deals only with what appears to be leading and representative portions of the Bible.

"It is a book for use in the inner chamber where life receives its impulses for conduct, for duty, for service, and for devotion. The Bible is a very ancient book, but it is also a book for to-day. It brings us face to face with God, and its teachings are meant to guide us in all our ways.

"Dr. Miller never fails to manifest a genuine sympathy with the average man in his struggle and aspiration; he is pre-eminently an encourager. After all, this is one of the prime secrets of his power. These reflections, and a good many more like them, are suggested by this book of devotional hours. It is the first of a series of volumes designed to gather up the spiritual and practical lessons of the great passages of the Bible in so far as these passages bear on the common life of the passing day."—British Congregational.

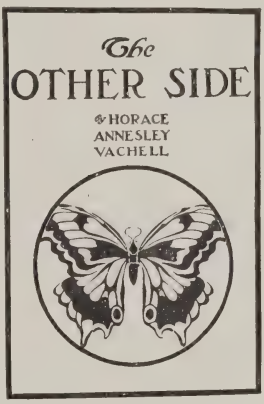
FICTION

PETTICOAT RULE: A Romance of France. By Baroness Orczy. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

In this latest novel Baroness Orczy returns to the period of "The Scarlet Pimpernel," where she scored her great successes. As the title indicates, the book deals in sprightly fashion with the influence of women upon the history of France. It is full of vivacity and humor, re-creating the character of Louis the Well-beloved, the Young Pretender, Madame Pompadour, and other great ladies of the court. A dashing, vivid story, such as the Baroness can write so well, such as her admirers delight in. Full of go, of picturesqueness, and of all the naughtiness, the intrigues, and whiffs of scandal of which we can well believe the Court of Louis XV. was capable.



THE OTHER SIDE: A Novel of Life and Afterwards. By Horace Annesley Vachell. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

Here is the life-story of a musician told with a delicacy and fineness and an intimacy of rare quality and beauty. In its power it reminds one of "The Divine Fire"; in its sweet pathos, of "The Music Master." Through struggle ending in seeming failure there is a temporary transition of the musician to the other world, from which is garnered a fresh and inspiring view-point, giving the novel a mystic touch. Among the really worth while novels this one must surely find a place.

THE FRONTIERSMAN: A Tale of the Yukon. By H. A. Cody. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

Mr. Cody tells a story of stirring adventure in the Yukon. It is packed with action, and filled with a tremendous atmosphere of reality. The characters are vividly and strongly drawn, especially those of the Indians. He has caught a phase of Yukon life never before depicted, and has woven into it a love story of rare originality. For years Mr. Cody has been the frontier missionary in the Yukon, and through the opportunities thus afforded reaches the heart and touches upon the deeper sympathies of the native and settler people among whom his story is laid.

'LIZABETH OF THE DALE. A Novel. By Marian Keith, author of "Treasure Valley," "Duncan Polite," "The Silver Maple," etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

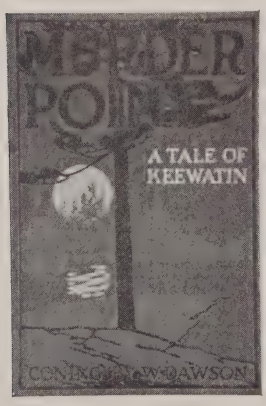
This new novel by the acknowledged interpreter of the new-old Eastern Canada life is the author's best effort to date.

Each succeeding book by this charming writer evidences marked development in story-telling power. "'Lizbeth of the Dale" is a clear-cut, clever story of the folk in an interior town of Ontario. The author's humor is deliciously subtle and engaging. Her sympathy is complete, and her character-sketching as true as a portrait. Altogether the book ranks in class with the work of Ralph Connor and Miss Montgomery.

OUT OF THE NIGHT. A Novel of Mystery. By Mrs. Baillie-Reynolds. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

Mystery and romance, tragedy and pathos, are interwoven into this thoroughly human and absorbing story, making it the best and most satisfying novel by this popular author. The action is laid in a British Columbia fruit-ranch, and shifts to the exile of the heroine in a South County of England. The scene which gives the title to the book is an exceedingly clever piece of work. Types of life and emotion are vividly contrasted, and the unfolding of the mystery of the story fascinates and entertains.

The Boston Globe says that of her many successes this is the most successful book by this author — a thoroughly wholesome novel.



MURDER POINT: A Tale of Keewatin. By Coningsby W. Dawson. 12mo. Cloth $1.50

The district of Keewatin is that enormous stretch of land between the Northern boundary of Ontario and Hudson's Bay on the North and East. It is known best to the trapper and the trader, but has seldom before been the subject of fiction. And it holds many a thrilling adventure and many a tragedy. Mr. Dawson has been remarkably successful in getting hold of the real atmosphere of Keewatin — this from actual life in the district. This is a book filled with adventure and elemental passion. A book to make a man wonder and think.

THE FOREIGNER: A Tale of Saskatchewan. By Ralph Connor. Two hundredth thousand. 12mo. Cloth $1.50

Immensely superior to the earlier stories by the same author, for Ralph Connor has grown tremendously since the days of "The Sky Pilot." — San Francisco Evening Post.

After reading this new novel by Ralph Connor, it is not surprising that the first printing of it aggregated more than 195,000 copies, for it is the best book that he has written to date. — Pittsburgh Chronicle.

So far, Ralph Connor's best. — Washington Star.

Has the same charm as "Black Rock" and "The Sky Pilot." — Chicago Record-Herald.

In this novel Ralph Connor has exceeded himself. — Hartford Courant.

THE OLD WIVES' TALE. A Novel of Life. By Arnold Bennett. 12mo. Net $1.50

A CRITIC'S JUDGMENT — There is no book in the fiction of recent years that I should rank as equal to it. The first part is not the best, and readers are in danger of breaking off after about a hundred pages. If they do they will lose a great deal. The story is a masterpiece, and it only lacks a touch of poetry to put it in the very front rank. The book has its proper share of color and vivacity; but the main thing is that it is a real book. I have read none like it for a very long time. — Dr. W. Robertson, in The British Weekly.

"They who read THE OLD WIVES' TALE — and who will not? — will find therein a pleasure far beyond the pleasure of the reading of any English novel of the hour, the year, or the current lustrum. It is a novel worth the approval of both the few and the many, and its destiny should be the survival of the fittest." — Boston Transcript.

"Not for many months has a piece of fiction appeared which conveyed all impression of such magnitude, such finished workmanship and such a fund of reserve power." — The Bookman.

A BEAUTIFUL REBEL: A Romance of Upper Canada. By Wilfred Campbell. 12mo. Cloth $1.50

The days of Brock and 1812 were romantic days and history was made rapidly if maps were not altered. Dr. Campbell brings to his novel writing the grace of the essayist and the romance of the poet. Small wonder then that dramatic setting, excellent workmanship, and sympathetic pen should produce a splendid novel — for such is "A Beautiful Rebel."

"The book is replete with dramatic situations and daring escapades, and the action is brought to a most satisfactory conclusion. As a whole it is a well-written story, clear, simple and natural." — The Interior.

THE FATAL RUBY: A Romance. By Charles Garvice. 12mo. Cloth $1.50

As a writer of romantic fiction Mr. Garvice has few equals. In England his books have had an enormous vogue, edition after edition of successive books being in demand. "The Fatal Ruby" is a thrillingly interesting novel of society and of mystery, then adventure, all the while following the fortunes of as adorable a pair of lovers as you ever read of. It is a book avowedly to entertain, and this it does most successfully.

This book, as with nearly all by this same author, deals with English social life of the present time.

TREASURE VALLEY: A Tale of the Oro. By Marian Keith, author of "Duncan Polite," "The Silver Maple," etc. 12mo. Cloth $1.50

In this novel Marian Keith fully justifies the promise of earlier work. In this book she arrives at her best and has written a novel of power and pathos filled with subtle humor. It is of the excelling rather than of the extremely popular class.

"The characters are . . . cleverly drawn, and provide the novel-reader with something comparatively new in color and characterization." — Daily Express.

"The plot . . . is . . . intensely interesting and unhackneyed, and it is worked out with a subtle delicacy which is in itself a perpetual charm, quite apart from the issues involved."

THE COMPACT: The Story of an Unrecorded Conspiracy in South Africa. By Ridgwell Cullum. 12mo Net $1.20

In this exceedingly clever book Ridgwell Cullum has created striking and dramatic situations which he has handled splendidly. His is fascinating, wholesome romance that makes the blood tingle yet keeps the heart pure.

JOLLY IN GERMANY: A Humorous Baedecker. By Arthur E. Copping. With over 100 illustrations by Will Owen. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

A book of rollicking realism describing the extraordinary adventures, while sight-seeing on the Rhine and in the Black Forest, of a modest old gentleman who carried firearms and became mixed up in the love affairs of Dora Westwood and certain other young ladies. Mr. Owen and Mr. Copping visited Germany with the intention of producing an amusing travel volume. But they fell in with Mr. Jolly, and the result is a book that must be avoided by all readers who cannot endure the physical distress caused by sustained laughter.

GENERAL

THE CALL OF LIBERALISM. By David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.00

No one man in recent years has held the responsibility of so greatly shaking up a nation as has the present Chancellor of the Exchequer in the British House of Commons. This book of Speeches serves to introduce the man to his American audience where, whether in agreement or disagreement, he is recognized as one of the great political forces of the age.

WHY I AM A SOCIALIST. By Charles Edward Russell. Large 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This book is a most sane and tremendous indictment of the present existent capitalistic basis of society. The writer has been a reporter and journalist, travelling all the world over, Europe, America, Asia, Africa and Australia, for the past three decades. He commenced life as a contented individualist, now he is a socialist — and why? His reasons for the change are given in a series of illustrations — typical injustices which he has observed and been called upon to investigate in his capacity as a newspaper man during the last thirty years. His method of explanation is by giving the illustration, tracing the specific injustice home to its generic origin, and then sanely and convincingly pointing out how the same cruelty is of necessity practised the world over and in all walks of life. He does not limit himself to mere vague assertions: every one of his assertions is set forth with facts, figures, dates, and names — all of which are capable of being verified in the authentic sources which he indicates.

THE NEW SOCIALISM. An Impartial Review. By J. T. Stoddart. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.75

"This is by far the most thorough and scholarly history of latter-day socialism that has been written as yet; in fact it is the only completely truthful one. There are others which trace out a certain phase of the subject, or which deal with it from the point of view of some one nation or some one person, but none, to my knowledge, which is international, unpartisan, complete in its survey, and, at the same time, popular." — An American Critic's Judgment.

"It supplies the information that can be had nowhere else in English. A book to be read and re-read — a book which for its learning, its candour, its simplicity, deserves to rank with the very best of its kind." — British Weekly.

LIBERALISM AND SOCIAL PROBLEMS. By Hon. Winston S. Churchill. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

"There is not a more outstanding figure in world politics today than Winston Churchill, M. P. What he has to say, and the manner of his saying, concerning the great social problems is international in import and of intense interest to all students of sociology. This volume contains his most striking speeches thoroughly revised."

"To the American reader these addresses will afford a remarkably clear presentation of English political and social problems." — Boston Globe.

DERBY DAY IN THE YUKON: And Other Ballads and Songs of the Northland. By "Yukon Bill." Illustrated by Griselda Marshall McClure. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.00

There is a strength and force to these poems that would be possible only from the living of the life depicted. "Yukon Bill" is a prospector with the soul of a poet, bringing the true story of the heart of the North Country into rhythm and rhyme worthy of a Bret Harte.

When opportunity permits, read the poem entitled "The Malamute." In it you will find as great a study in as fine a setting as is seldom found in contemporary verse.

FAIR AMERICA: The story-history of America told in records of opportunity, achievements and liberty. By Katharine R. Crowell. Illustrated by a series of progressive picture maps and original drawings by Horace Taylor. Large 4mo. Cloth Net $2.00

Katharine Crowell possesses to the full the first great requisite of the historian,—the power to enthuse. This she does by the creation of legitimate and romantic atmosphere. She causes us to visualize the adventure of the pioneering days of which she writes, and by her patriotism makes each nobility of the past an example for to-day. The great advantage of her narrative is its brevity and orderliness: it gives us a bird's-eye view of the making of America from earliest times. Brief histories are usually lacking in realness: they tend to become mere compilations of facts and dates. Katharine Crowell's imaginativeness and high spirits save her from this error. History is for her a wonderful fairy tale which has in some mysterious way come true.

MOTOR TOURS BY MRS. RUDOLPH STAWELL

Companions to "Motor Tours in Wales."

MOTOR TOURS IN YORKSHIRE. With 48 illustrations from photographs, and map. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.75

"This charmingly-written account of motor travels in Yorkshire has no feature in common with the ordinary dry-as-dust matter of fact guide-book. . . . The book is full of history and of appreciation of the wonderful beauty of the great country which stretches across England from Lancashire to the German Ocean. . . . The volume is one of the most fascinating books of home travel, within its own assigned limits, with which we are acquainted. . . . The volume is full of exquisitely finished photographs." — Standard.

MOTOR TOURS IN THE WEST COUNTRY. Fully illustrated. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.75

In common with Mrs. Rudolph Stawell's other books of Motor Tours, this delightful volume is specially written for those who like to know something of the history and antiquities of the places through which they pass, and for lovers of beautiful scenery. At the same time all the principal roads of Devon and Cornwall are discussed in considerable detail, and though Somerset is not fully dealt with, there are two chapters on that county. Each chapter is preceded by a summary of distances, etc. The book is illustrated by 50 photographs by R. de S. Stawell, and contains an index and maps of the routes. This is indeed a delightful travel book — a book for the open road. The pictures are exquisite and add greatly to the charm of the work.

VICENZA: The Home of "The Saint." By Mrs. Prichard Agnetti. With a Preface by Antonio Fogazzaro. With 8 illustrations in color and over 26 illustrations in half-tone. 8vo. Net $3.50

To most visitors to Italy Vicenza is only known as being about mid-way between Verona and Venice. Few people are aware that it is not only one of the most interesting cities of Northern Italy, but also the home of one of the most famous of living novelists, Antonio Fogazzaro, the author of "The Saint." In "Vicenza: The Home of 'The Saint'" Mrs. Prichard Agnetti, already known for her admirable translation of Fogazzaro's great trilogy, has made a careful and scholarly survey of the Vicentine school. In addition to the Art section, probably the first English contribution to the subject of the Vicentine painters, Mrs. Prichard Agnetti gives an admirable summary of the eventful history of the town, and her account of the architecture and topography of Vicenza ought to bring many English pilgrims to "The Home of the Saint."

MENTONE AND ITS NEIGHBORHOOD: Past and Present. By Dr. George Müller. Edited by the Rev. J. E. Somerville, B.D. Fully illustrated. Octavo Net $4.00

This new work on "Mentone and its Neighborhood" is from the pen of the late Dr. George Müller (a cousin of Max Müller), long resident in Mentone. For many years he was engaged collecting materials for the work, but was cut off by death before he was able to give it to the public. The author was given to historical research, and explored many sources of information not accessible to English readers. In this way he collected a large amount of out-of-the-way information regarding Mentone, and also the many villages in the neighborhood. The work is not a description of the district, but is largely antiquarian and historical.

THE BOOK OF THE DOG. By A. Croxton Smith. With 82 illustrations from photographs. Large 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

An American kennel manager says of this book: "The chapters on hints to buyers, breeding, and the care of young puppies are especially good and will give pointers to the veteran, to say nothing of the novice. The illustrations are superb, and will be a revelation to the professional as well as the amateur photographer. The book embraces every breed of sporting and non-sporting dog recognized by the English Kennel Club. Every dog-owner, man or woman, amateur or professional, should possess a copy of this book."

WHERE'S MASTER? A Story of the King's Dog as told by "Caesar." Illustrated. Decorated boards Net $0.50

The pathetic and almost human grief of Cæsar, the favorite dog of King Edward VII., suggested this story. The lover of a dog will find it a singularly touching and appealing story. Apart from being an exceedingly clever piece of dog-lore, it reveals a very human and lovable side of the late king.

GEORGE MEREDITH: An Introduction. By James Moffat. Net $1.25

Illumined not only by a sketch of the plot of each novel, but by the piercing criticism of Meredith as a whole contained in the Introduction to this primer, the non-Meredithian has a rare opportunity of joining the charmed circle of Meredith's admirers. Dr. Moffatt gives a masterly analysis of "the Comic spirit" of Meredith, as representing an attitude to life tending to moral sanitation and the annihilation of Despair. The great and, in some respects, Shakespearian writer could not have found a more appreciative interpreter of the deeply founded humor, sympathy, and humanity which underlie his dominating intellectuality.

HERBERT STRANG'S BOOKS FOR BOYS.

Herbert Strang has come to be the premier writer of really worthy books for boys. The Glasgow Herald, in reviewing a recent book by this author, says: "While reading, we find ourselves thinking of Thackeray, which suggests a standard by which very few writers of books for boys will bear being judged. Herbert Strang offers literature for boys." Another reviewer, commenting upon the wisdom of selecting some great event either of historical interest or present value as a background for satisfactory and informing books for boys, yields to Henty former prestige in this field, but awards first place to Strang for historical knowledge and narrative skill.

The following are now ready, each book illustrated by several colored plates specially drawn for these books:—

RUBAIYAT OF OMAR KHAYYAM. With plates in color and decorative designs by Edmund Dulac. Quarto. Cloth Net $5.00
Special limited edition, signed by the artist, with special proof prints, bound in vellum Net $20.00

The sensations created by the exhibition of Mr. Dulac's paintings illustrating "Stories from the Arabian Nights" and "The Tempest" have been quite outdone by the profound impression created by the drawings for "Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám." Mr. Dulac could not have found a better subject for his art than in the verse of the astronomer-poet of Persia. The spirit of the East is in his pictures, and the spirit of enchantment as well. They are full of mystery and of the richest Oriental color, and their general effect is weird and exquisite and wonderful. It is safe to say that Edmund Dulac proves himself the ideal interpreter of "Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám."

Reduced from one of Dulac's drawings

THE SLEEPING BEAUTY AND OTHER FAIRY TALES FROM THE OLD FRENCH. Retold by A. T. Quiller-Couch. Illustrated in color by Edmund Dulac. Edition de luxe in vellum Net $20.00
Quarto. Leather-cloth Net $5.00

By his paintings illustrating "The Arabian Nights," "The Tempest," and "The Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám," Edmund Dulac has placed himself at the head of all living illustrators of great works of the imagination. Whenever he is illustrating the spirit of enchantment and fairyland, he is at his best, for there he has full opportunities to introduce those exquisite decorative effects, the soft blendings of blues, browns, pinks, and ivories which make his scenes appear most ancient, and stamp all that he does with genius and outstanding originality. In the paintings which accompany this volume he gives fresh proofs of his versatility. Nothing he has done has surpassed in delicacy his illustration of the Prince discovering the Sleeping Beauty. In the accumulation of small touches—the total humanity of his conceptions—the poetic genius of Edmund Dulac reveals itself. By this his latest achievement he has added brilliantly to his reputation and to the pleasure of the art-loving world.

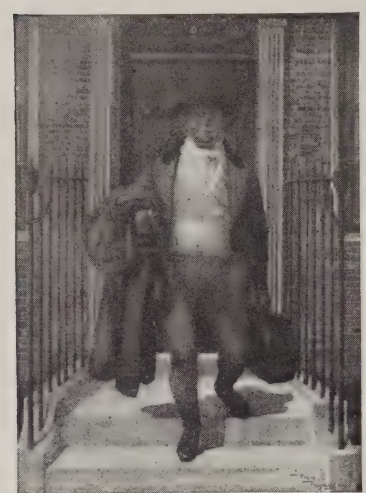
MR. PICKWICK AND HIS FRIENDS. By Charles Dickens. Illustrated with 40 plates in color by Frank Reynolds. Edition de luxe Net $20.00
Quarto. Cloth Net $5.00

To illustrate "Pickwick," an artist must bring to his task those same qualities of journalist, emotionalist, and jester which Dickens had. For some years it has been urged by Mr. Reynolds's friends that he was the man for this work. That they were right in their judgment is now proved by his paintings for "Mr. Pickwick." They are not caricatures, as were some of his predecessors', but living men accurately portrayed. Mr. Reynolds is a close observer of the oddities of mankind. His humorous contributions to Punch are among the most subtle and masterly that have ever appeared in those famous pages. He is a student of the finer shades of character, and his eyes are always kindly. Mr. A. E. Johnson writes of him, in a volume on "Frank Reynolds and his Work": "His humor but flavors, as it were, the skill and charm of his technique. One feels it to be an accident only that his vehicle of expression is pictorial rather than literary. He occupies amongst artists the place which the novelist holds among men of letters." And again, when Mr. Reynolds had only just commenced his series of "Pickwick" portraits, "One is inclined to think that, until we see that wonderful gallery of fanciful personalities by the pencil of Frank Reynolds, we shall have to wait still for the perfect edition of Dickens." Here is that perfect edition of "Mr. Pickwick" which Mr. Reynolds's friends have so long expected.



SHAKESPEARE'S TRAGEDY OF HAMLET. Illustrated with 40 plates in color by Frank Simmonds, with an introductory story of the tragedy by A. T. Quiller-Couch. Edition de luxe vellum. 4to Net $15.00
Quarto. Handsomely bound in cloth Net $4.50

Mr. Simmonds is an artist with a fine eye for color and a trained instinct for that which is dramatic. He has conceived his illustrations for "Hamlet" in a spirit of largeness, and carried them out with a masterly finality of detail. He possesses just those qualities which an illustrator of "Hamlet" most requires, —the sense of tragedy, psychological insight, and historic scholarship. He has striven to see the play through Shakespeare's mind. The types which he has portrayed are typically Danish; the floors are skin or rush covered; the castle is built of wood, raised high on piles,—accuracies of detail which help to recall the historic setting of the play. He has produced an illustrated edition of "Hamlet" as strong and original as it is faithful.

THE FABLES OF ÆSOP. Illustrated by 25 plates in color by Edward Detmold. An edition strictly limited to 500 copies. Vellum. 4to
Net $20.00

Mr. Edward Detmold's work will, we are certain, give unbounded pleasure to the lovers of Æsop. The artist's mind does not work upon conventional lines, nor is he an imitator of any modern master in the field of colored illustration. As a proof of the freshness of his work, we need only say that hardly any one of his pictures is exactly what an admirer of the fables would have expected. On a close examination we almost invariably find that Mr. Detmold's drawing reproduces the spirit of Æsop infinitely better than our own vague mind drawing. We must give the artist special praise for the really wonderful expressiveness of his animals' faces. The height of his art lies in the care he gives to eyes and their expression. Never were there more eager, fiery, and brilliant eyes than those of the hare, in the fable of the hare and the tortoise. The beautiful work of Mr. Detmold will restore to public favor one of the world's gayest entertainers and greatest moral teachers.—From the British Weekly.

THE GOLDEN LEGEND. By H. W. Longfellow. Illustrated in color by Sidney H. Meteyard. Quarto. Cloth. Boxed
Net $2.50

Of all Longfellow's poems, "The Golden Legend," by reason of its mediæval pomp and pageantry, affords the poet-painter the most splendid opportunities, and at the same time, because of its historic period, gains most by illustration. Mr. Sidney H. Meteyard has wonderfully seized upon and realized in his paintings the poem's immense and fairy imaginativeness. The brooding, poignant ideality of a cloistered age is present in all his illustrations. They are at once original and interpretative. As masterpieces of composition, each is worthy to stand by itself. On their execution he has lavished the care and genius which most men reserve for their gallery paintings. He has laid hold strongly of the poem's mystery and set it forth with a master hand. As a result, this is the most sumptuous and artistic edition of "The Golden Legend" that has ever been published.

SHAKESPEARE'S COMEDY OF THE TEMPEST. Illustrated with forty plates in color. By Edmund Dulac. Introductory story of the Comedy by A. T. Quiller-Couch. Quarto. Handsomely bound in cloth. Net $4.50

Mr. Edmund Dulac is particularly well fitted to illustrate "The Tempest," for his great imaginative powers, his originality, and his ability as a colorist find splendid scope in Shakespeare's Comedy. His delicate and brilliant rendering of the play marks him out as an ideal interpreter of Shakespeare's fancy, and it is certain that no more beautiful edition of Shakespeare has ever been issued. The text is printed on specially made paper, while Mr. Dulac's drawings are reproduced in original color under the supervision of the artist. They are separately mounted and bound in the text, a method specially adopted to secure the strength and durability of a work which it is confidently expected will prove to be the standard edition of Shakespeare's Comedy.

SHAKESPEARE'S COMEDY OF TWELFTH NIGHT. Illustrated with forty plates in color. By W. Heath Robinson. Introductory story of the Comedy by A. T. Quiller-Couch. Quarto. Handsomely bound in cloth Net $4.50

"Twelfth Night" has been called Shakespeare's farewell to mirth. "Delightful to read and so much more delightful to witness — a play that is all of a piece, holding you throughout to its mood and defying you to take it more seriously than it chooses." "Twelfth Night," undoubtedly presents a very difficult task to the illustrator. The choice of Mr. Heath Robinson to illustrate the play has been eminently successful. There is imagination and color as well as good draughtsmanship and composition in his pictures. As works of art they deserve high praise; as illustrations to one of the greatest of Shakespeare's Comedies they are strikingly effective and excel in humor as in fancy.

"Mr. Robinson has got far away from tradition. He owes nothing to his contemporaries, either of the pencil or of the stage. He has treated the subject with the splendid originality of an artist with high imaginative powers and no mean gift of technical expression. . . . Mr. Robinson must be accepted henceforth as a water-color painter of high rank, with a very valuable and refreshing gift of originality and poetry." — Westminster Gazette.

The editions de luxe of Dulac's "Tempest" and Heath Robinson's "Twelfth Night" have all been sold and now command a premium.

OUR HOMES, and How to Make the Best of Them. Edited by W. Shaw Sparrow, editor of "The British Home of To-Day," etc. Illustrated with many photographs reproduced in color and black-and-white. Large quarto Net $3.50

Ruskin, speaking to householders and ratepayers, once said, "You will say to me: We cannot make architects of ourselves. Pardon me, you can — and you ought. Architecture . . . is so simple that there is no excuse for not being acquainted with its primary rules, any more than for ignorance of grammar or of spelling, which are both of them far more difficult sciences. Far less trouble than is necessary to learn how to play chess, or whist, or golf, tolerably." This quotation might well be adopted as a motto for "Our Homes," the aim of which is to acquaint householders with the different points of architecture and of decoration that are constantly met with in the making of homes.

The Chapters run thus: Past and Present — From Hall to House — Hindrances to Success in Home-Making — Householders and the House Plan — Homes from Outside — First Considerations — Roofs — Walls and their Materials — Windows and Doors — Furniture — Rooms and their Decoration — Flats and Flats.

The illustrations include twenty-four single-page color plates, six double-page plates in color, and many black-and-whites by the best architects of to-day. The contributors number more than fifty. Architecture is an art for all men and women to learn, because all are concerned with it, and here is a really inexpensive book that explains its primary rules and makes them interesting as well as instructive.

SUPLEE, THOMAS D.

SUPLEE'S TRENCH ON WORDS. From the latest English edition. Revised by Rev. A. L. MAYHEW, Oxford. With an exhaustive analysis, additional words for illustration, and questions for examination by THOMAS D. SUPLEE. Trench "On the Study of Words," originally in the shape of lectures, and retaining that form in publication, was but poorly adapted for use in the school-room as a text-book. The editor has long deplored this, in common with many other teachers, hence no apology is necessary for the appearance of the present volume. The advantages claimed for it over all other editions are self-evident. 400 pp. 12mo. Cloth. Net $1.00

FROM the portrait of Edward Osborne seated before a table bearing his ledger and telephone, a conception so realistic that, as his wife declares, "you can almost hear the bell ring," down to the last detail of the English merchant's home and family, Mr. Benson draws with a sure touch a strong picture, at once convincing and fascinating. You smile to yourself over the money-made aristocracy and the social blunders of the Osbornes in their progress through the various strata of society; but when all is said and done, a whole-souled honesty and goodness of heart shine through every action of the merchant and his wife, and you love them both. They stand in awe of a title and admit it frankly, but you know they are true blue. Mr. Benson has given us living characters, and you will have a warm spot for the old merchant and his wife whose worldly success and money have never spoiled them.

The Edward Bok Books of Self-knowledge for Parents and Young People

Size, $3\frac{3}{4} \times 5\frac{7}{8}$; pages, about 75; binding, cloth
*Net, $0.25

THESE little books aim to place, at a modest price, within the reach of parents and young people, simple and clear information on the subject of self-knowledge. Each volume has been selected and edited by Edward Bok, editor of "The Ladies' Home Journal."

Special care has been taken to choose only those books which could safely be put into the hands of parents and young people: they are free from all medical terms, or too frank reading, and will, when the series is completed, be the best little books, selected from the literature of the world, on this subject to be had in any form. It is designed to make this little set the Standard Library of Self-Knowledge.

Volume I. How Shall I Tell My Child?
By Mrs. Rose Woodallen Chapman.

This little book explains to parents why the story of life should be told to every child, when it should be told and how. Nothing is simpler, more beautiful and more possible to every mother than the story as the author here explains it as she told it to her own child.

The Water Goats and Other Troubles

By
Ellis Parker Butler

Author of "Pigs is Pigs," etc.

Size, $4\frac{1}{2} \times 7$; pages, about 50, illustrated; binding, cloth, decorated $0.50†

FROM the moment when the aldermen of Jeffersonville accept a New York landscape-gardener's report and decide to have gondolas in their park lake—not knowing precisely what gondolas are—you will laugh steadily until the tragic close. Alderman Toole makes the discovery "that the dongola is some fancy kind of a goat."

"Go along wid ye!" exclaimed Dugan. "Would ye be puttin' a goat in th' lake for th' kids t' ride on?"

"Not th' common goat I wouldn't," says Alderman Toole. "But dongola goats I would."

What happened to the goats—and incidentally to Alderman Toole and Animal Keeper Fagan—is a story which Mr. Butler tells in his own inimitable way.

There are two other stories in the volume: "Mr. Billing's Pockets" and "Our First Burglar," and those who are so fortunate as to know Mr. Butler through his other books will know the feast of humor that is in store for them.

THE great success achieved by "Elizabeth and Her German Garden" will be fully equalled by this charming story from the same author, for it is told with a freshness and quaintness that are really delightful.

It is the tale of a caravan tour through the English countryside, made by a German Baron and his wife in company with some English friends, and much after the fashion of the famous journey of "Three Men in a Boat."

You will laugh heartily from page to page over the comical adventures of the various members of the party. The Baron has married a second time, and his unique plan of celebrating the silver jubilee of both his marriages at once is only one of the humorous details of the English outing. Being firmly convinced of the general superiority of all things German, of his own quick perception of humor, and of the necessity of obedience and pliancy in a wife, the Baron finds much that is disturbing in an English party that contains a Socialist Member of Parliament, with strange notions about women's rights, and several ladies who are inclined to sympathize with the Baroness.

The party sets out with three caravans for a month's wandering and comes abruptly to an end through an amusing circumstance in which the Baron is the chief, though quite unconscious, actor.

READY IN SPRING OF 1911

A ROMANCE of the ambitions, triumphs, failures, loves, and hates of a great and much pampered opera-singer. "La Marmora" is as beautiful, as cruel, as relentless as the sinuous panther from whom she gets her name. Her ruling passion is not ambition, but love of ease and admiration. The most commonplace acts of her everyday existence assume the importance of drama; the most sacred of human relationships are mere capital to satisfy her longing for attention. "She looks like a Madonna," said an admirer, in her youth, coming suddenly upon her with her child Fifi; and, accordingly parted hair, soft lullabies, and her child in her arms are for a few years her greatest stock in trade. But Fifi, the daughter, grows; she is dispatched to boarding school only to be "brought out" some fifteen years later when she becomes her mother's rival—for La Marmora has not taken into consideration the possibilities of her daughter's beauty. The love story of an opera singer and an English Lord is an old tale. In this case, the lord loves the daughter, and has to reckon not only with the frantic protest of his own family, but also with the jealousy and bitter resentment of La Marmora, the mother.

Joyce of the North Woods

By
Harriet T. Comstock

Size, 5¼ x 8; pages, 390; illustrations, four in color by Frank Stick; binding, cloth, decorated

*Fixed price, $1.20

UP in an isolated North Woods village, amid primitive men and women and a few strayed souls from the outside, the story of Joyce Birkdale and John Gaston unrolls itself—with some of the strongest turns and most tense situations imaginable. Joyce, married by her father to a drunken rascal of the place, awakens to real womanhood in the realization that she loves this stranger with the unknown past. One night in terror of her life, she flees to his cabin for protection—and stays there, to the scandal of the simple community, but to the regeneration of Gaston, who treats her as his sister. The way in which this tangled relation evolves into triumphant happiness is a profound study of the human heart and its aspirations; and Mrs. Comstock is to be congratulated on a really notable novel of this shut-in country.

Verses and Sonnets

By
Julia Stockton Dinsmore

Size, 5¼ x 8¼; pages, 153; binding, cloth, decorated

*Net, $1.25

THIS sheaf of golden wheat forms a unique volume in that the author offers it, at the age of seventy-seven, as her first contribution to literature. Miss Dinsmore is one of those lovable Southern women whose close companionship with nature is combined with a love of books and music. Very much of her long life has been spent out of doors, and she is still frequently in the saddle. Her verses reflect her intimate knowledge and love of nature, bearing the "sweet scent of Kentucky mint" as they sing of "Noon in a Blue Grass Pasture," of "Love Among the Roses," of the tobacco field, and of the dark bayou. The delicate sentiment mingles with the glad sunshine and melody of the birds, and is always cheery though the eyes be tear-dimmed.

The Power and the Glory

By
Mrs. Grace
McGowan Cooke

Size, 5¾ x 8; pages, about 350; illustrated; binding, cloth, decorated

*Fixed price, $1.20

MRS. GRACE McGOWAN COOKE has done nothing before that is so compelling or so large and popular in appeal as this splendid story of a fine, strong girl's struggle through poverty and ignorance. Johnnie Consadine, infant daughter of unthrifty mountain-folk in the South, sleeps the first night of her life in a borrowed cradle; but, through her early girlhood both her body and her soul grow into beauty and strength and independence. At eighteen she leaves home and goes down to work in a cotton-mill to help her mother and the younger children. Conscious of her illiteracy, she eagerly reads the books that Gray Stoddard, a young mill owner there, lends her. His interest in the stalwart, ambitious mountain-girl arouses the dangerous jealousy of an operator in the mill, like her a mountaineer, who, after the manner of his kind, has assumed that the girl is going to be his "woman." But Johnnie looks first of all neither at Stoddard nor his rival, but at the interests of her helpless, struggling "kinfolks" and family. This situation is the center of the movement.

So well sustained is the glory throughout that the editors of the magazine, in which it appeared with great success as a leading serial, constantly received requests from readers for "advance sheets of the next instalment." One manuscript reader reported: "This is easy to read and hard not to."

THE same broad sympathies and truthful portrayal of American middle-class life which have won such wide popularity for Mrs. Cutting's stories in the past are to be found in this delightful romance. It is just every-day people that she gives us—the neighbors we know, the strangers that we meet from time to time—with a humanity and life-like naturalness about them that are very refreshing.

In Evelyn Gaynor, Mrs. Cutting has drawn a heroine after her readers' hearts, one who is femininely charming and quite understandable. Bred in a country town and graced with a good education, she longs to escape from the rural provincialism, to get out of the narrow groove and live her own life. After two years of struggle in New York she almost despairs and decides to give it up, when the unforeseen occurs.

In the Vincents one finds, in the author's best style, an intimate picture of that type of friend in which a thin social veneer does duty for real friendship. Charlton Race, the writer, irresponsible and indolent, has a charm of his own; while Douglas Forbes brings quite an unusual power to the narrative through the sacrifice that could be made only by a man of iron will. Evelyn, who marvels at the ease with which people marry, half divines in herself a very great power to love, though she knows it will require some tremendous feeling to make the possible actual.

And in this interplay, this counterpoint of emotions among her protagonists, and especially in the mild philanderings of Charlton Race, Mrs. Cutting has given us a story of human interest, one that carries a sense of here-and-now reality.

Reminiscences of General Basil W. Duke

Size, 6 x 9¼; pages, about 400; illustrated from photographs and portraits; binding, cloth

*Net, $2.50

PROBABLY no man alive to-day saw as much cavalry service during the Civil War or had a more varied military career than General Basil W. Duke of the Confederate Army. Morgan's Cavalry, or Morgan's Raiders, as they were sometimes called, were the most picturesque figures in the border warfare which was waged in Ohio, Virginia, Kentucky, and Missouri. General Duke was Morgan's right-hand man and mainstay, and after the latter's tragic death, he commanded this cavalry until the close of the war. His services were not limited to this command, however. At the outbreak of the war he played a prominent part in the struggle against General Lyon and his "Wide-Awakes," leading the minutemen in the attempt to hold St. Louis and Missouri for the Confederacy.

General Duke describes the last counsel of war of the doomed Confederacy at which he was present, and his custodianship of the Confederate Treasury when it was carried South from Richmond in carts, shortly before Jefferson Davis was taken prisoner. The work is not merely another edition to the already monumental mass of Civil War history, but is a series of amusing and entertaining autobiographical reminiscences of a cavalry leader's active service in the field. It is full of humor, and anecdotes of famous persons and events. To those who have read General John B. Gordon's "Recollections" or Lord Wolsey's "Story of a Soldier's Life" we can say that General Duke's book is fully as enthralling. To many readers there will be the added interest of relationship or personal acquaintance with many of the persons of whom he speaks.

The "Every Child Should Know" Books

THE "Every Child Should Know" series, of which some of our foremost literary people are acting as the editors, has been accepted everywhere as a standard collection of children's classics. Many of our schools have indorsed it, and no effort is being spared to make it in fact—as in name—a garnering of all that "Every Child Should Know."

Mr. Mabie here deals with those old, old stories which have, with slight variations, been familiar to all peoples—the folk tales which are, in truth, the very warp and woof of human life. They make a fascinating collection, these tales of the races of the earth; narratives of ingrained beliefs, superstitions, and quaint fancies which have lost none of their charm for the child of to-day.

EVERY person who has grown up with a love for music without the knowledge of it will want to present this volume to the children he or she cares for. It is easily within the comprehension of readers from the age of ten on, and makes fascinating reading, giving a thorough understanding of a few of the world's favorite operas. It is neither a history of the opera-form nor a work of criticism, but an admirable introduction to those operas which every one should know.

The reader becomes conversant with the full story of each opera included, and in addition is informed of the most interesting events which took place in the life of the composer. Small snatches of melody and motifs are interspersed in the text, and the names of the original cast are recorded. The volume is at once a necessity and delight and should find a wide appeal.

NOTHING in myth or fairy tale is half so fascinating as the true story of the earth's origin and development, if told entertainingly. Just as sure is the hold that study of the stars in the evening sky lays on children, if the presentation is simple and unhackneyed. Earth study in the garden, in the brook bed, up the steep bank—these prepare the way for mountain and glacier, for volcano, cavern, and coral islands, too remote to be seen, except by means of pictures. Earth's buried treasure in veins of precious metals, gems we should pass by as dull pebbles, vast coal beds, and reservoirs of oil and natural gas, rich deposits of iron ore and copper and lead—these are but a few of the themes that furnish material for chapters. How marvellous is the procession of plants and animals that have flourished on the earth, the passing of giants of man's kind and gradual development of the horse from a little creature the size of a fox.

It is enough to say of Miss Rogers' second book for young readers that she has seen the unusual opportunity to lead them in the two greatest fields of nature study. The illustrations are on a par with the text, and both are refreshingly different from the ordinary text-book presentation of the story of earth and sky to children.

THIS book might have been called "Why and How to Avoid Illness"; to preserve one's health is even more desirable than to restore it. Very skillfully the author puts before you a new idea of health, leading from physical to moral and intellectual well-being. His advice is practical, and will not make morbid individuals forever feeling their pulses; rather will it develop that precious bump of order, without which so many of us make a muddle of things.

Mr. Fisher's volume is one that will appeal to the practical person, for it is full of simple suggestions looking to the preservation of health —a fortune which most of us are born to, too often take for granted, and never fully appreciate until it is lost through carelessness.

Two on the Trail

By
Hulbert Footner

Size, 5¼ x 7¾; pages, about 375; illustrated; binding, cloth, decorated

*Fixed price, $1.20

"WILL Mr. Garth Pevensey be good enough to oblige an old lady by calling at the Bristol Hotel this evening? Mrs. Mabyn will be awaiting him in the parlor, and as it concerns a matter of supreme importance to her, she trusts he will not fail her, no matter how late the hour at which he may be able to come."

A young man received this message in the town where the railroad ends and Canada's Northwestern wild begins. He obeyed the summons and found his feet set upon a strange trail —in the company of the altogether charming girl with whom he had had an embarrassing experience shortly before, at the primitive eating house.

This plunge into romance and the primeval wilderness is the opening of a tale of adventure about which a publisher hesitates to express himself frankly; for you would hardly believe that a new author could produce a romance so full of youth and joy and the call of the woods and tense, dramatic situations.

You'll know Mr. Footner's name better in a year or so—and then we need exercise no restraint in telling just what bully stuff he's surely going to be responsible for.

"The harvest of a quiet mind"

AT last Mr. Grayson is back with a new book —and its quiet pervasive charm reconciles one to the long wait. For this is the kind of tale which cannot be "turned out" even in these days of hurried authorship; it shows in every page that it has grown, as the "harvest of a quiet mind." The genial philosopher who described before his "adventures in contentment" here continues his account—with an even fuller human interest than in that first book, which has steadily widened its circle of friends since its publication in 1907. A few of the chapter titles alone give some taste of the book's quality:

THE human race has accepted the axiom, "There is a time to dance." This book explains the importance and universality of Rhythm in human life, and it endeavors to make intelligent use of this instinct for Rhythm in various ways. The great aim is to assist in planning and executing an intelligent social festival to replace haphazard and meaningless celebration by individuals. Particularly the author shows the meaning and use of folk dancing. These folk dances are discussed from various standpoints—health, grace, and particularly with regard to their adaptability to American conditions, how they may be carried out in connection with school, social, and playground life. They differ from other dances in that they have a meaning, and that they relate to group action rather than to dancing in couples. Dr. Gulick has been identified with the new movement for teaching all sorts of folk dances in the public schools, and makes special reference to the practical conduct of folk dancing in the public schools of New York.

Queen Sheba's Ring

By
H. Rider
Haggard

Author of "Ayesha," "The Brethren," etc.

Size, 5½ x 8¼; pages, about 350; binding, cloth, decorated. Colored frontispiece and four line drawings by Sigurd Schou

$1.50†

MR. HAGGARD here returns to the style of those inimitable romances "She" and "Ayesha." Dr. Richard Adams, in searching for his son Roderick who had been captured by Mahdi tribesmen when a boy, discovers that he is held by the Fung, an unknown race of natives in North Central Africa, whose idol is a huge Sphinx. They believe that if the idol is destroyed the nation must flee. He obtains this information from the mysterious Queen of the neighboring Abati, Maqueda, who gives him a ring, believed to have come down from the Queen of Sheba herself, graven with characters which greatly excite his Egyptologist friend, Ptolemy Higgs, when he relates the story to him in London. These two, with Captain Orme, lured by their respective desires of rescuing the young man and of finding wonderful treasure and relics, start for Egypt, equipped with arms and some terrific modern explosives. With this opening, Mr. Haggard works out a story of thrilling adventure, complicated by the love affair between Captain Orme and the beautiful veiled Maqueda. The author's knowledge of Egyptology and his unequalled skill in fashioning a swiftly-moving tale of dramatic surprises, are here shown at their best.

O. HENRY'S audience, like his titles, is large. This new volume, "Whirligigs," perhaps is more representative of his varied genius than any that have already appeared. There are stories of South America, an arena of his so familiar to readers of "Cabbages and Kings"; stories of the West, in the vein of his earlier volume, "Heart of the West"; more stories of Manhattan and her four million people, who are the dramatis personæ of the census. When the first story of the volume, "The World and the Door," was published in a magazine, it was declared by numerous critics to be the author's best piece of work. On its merits the author was hailed by a foremost literary journal as "the great American novelist," despite the fact that he is essentially a writer of short stories. For those who are jaded and uninterested any longer in conventional fiction, these little stories will be a treat and a stimulant. No man handles as cleverly the elements of surprise in story-telling—a surprise that is never artificial or forced.

Other stories in the collection that have been particularly acclaimed are "The Ransom of Red Chief" and "Blind Man's Holiday." The entire volume is one on which the author may well rest his claims.

A postal card will bring you, free, a little booklet on "O. Henry and How He Works."

Size, $5\frac{1}{8} \times 7\frac{3}{4}$; pages, about 350; binding, cloth, decorated

$1.50†

ANTHONY HOPE has turned to a fresh field in his new novel. Unlike his earlier successes, this book is a picture of modern English life with London and a country house for the settings.

Vivien Wellgood, the fiancée of Harry Belfield, is drawn with fine skill. She is one of those rare creatures whose very gentleness is a tower of strength. Harry Belfield is on the threshold of a brilliant political career when he becomes engaged, and in the interweaving of these strands of love and public life, Mr. Hope has found possibilities which are as dramatic as they are powerful and unusual.

The sense of the reckoning that may not be escaped is the dominant note sounded in "Second String," and the story moves to its climax with a sureness that is irresistible and fascinating—the "gentleman" gradually sinking from his position, while his admiring follower, the man of the people, as steadily rises by sheer force of character.

It is a new Anthony Hope that is discovered in "Second String," but one who is none the less enjoyable.

Rewards and Fairies

A new series of tales of Dan, Una, and Puck

By
Rudyard Kipling

Size, $4\frac{3}{4} \times 7\frac{3}{8}$; pages, about 350; illustrations, 8; binding, cloth, decorated

$1.50†

OF course every one believes in fairies. You may scoff at the notion in a moment of misguided superiority; but after all there is an unconquered corner of your soul just large enough for such winsome creatures as Puck. And like the spring, Puck has come back.

This is a new series of tales of Dan, Una, and Puck, and it has all the witchery of Mr. Kipling's first collection. There is the story of "Cold Iron" and the lad who left the People of the Hills for the folk that live in housen; "A Doctor of Medicine," who read the secret of the great plague in the stars; "The Wrong Thing," the quaint story told in the old carpenter shop while Dan fashions his boat; and "The Conversion of St. Wilfred." Even Philadelphia, and several American heroes appear in these new-old Saxon fairy tales. These and many others spin out the new chronicle of Puck's frolics with Dan and Una.

The stories shimmer in that wondrous halfway place between reality and dream. A tremble and it is the world of Flesh and Blood; a flutter and you are with Puck and the People of the Hills. And you slip into it all as if it were the customary thing. Mr. Kipling has omitted nothing of his old skill. It is the same forthright story-telling that carries you along willy-nilly—not that you will be loath to go. And if half the story is the telling, there is nothing wanting in this, for the tales are set down in homespun Anglo-Saxon that is a delight in itself.

IF you were asked to name one volume of verse during the last ten years which the whole civilized world accepts as containing undoubtedly real permanent poetry, it's probable that the first title which would come to your mind would be Mr. Kipling's "Collected Verse"—in which the author has definitely placed the poetical work by which he wishes to be represented. The distinguished artist, W. Heath Robinson, has undertaken, with Mr. Kipling's collaboration, to make a worthy holiday presentation of this definitive work; and the result will commend itself to every lover of real poetry and a really sumptuous illustrated book. The artist has triumphed over the obvious difficulties in a remarkable fashion and the constantly growing throng of Kiplingites will get solid satisfaction from these audacious and effective interpretations.

One Hundred Masterpieces

By John LaFarge

Author of "Great Masters," "The Higher Life in Art"

Size, 7 x 10; pages, about 350; illustrated; binding, cloth, decorated

*Net, $5.00

MR. JOHN LA FARGE has given a key to the art beauties of all time in this splendid volume; a work which holds open to the average reader the door to the storehouse of the ages—the gallery of immortal paintings. In his earlier works Mr. La Farge made detailed studies of the masters. In "The Higher Life in Art" he analyzed with fine skill the work of Delacroix, Daubigny, Decamps, Rousseau, Corot, and Millet; in "Great Masters" he studied Michael Angelo, Raphael, Rembrandt, Rubens, Velasquez, Dürer, and Hokusai. In the present volume he treats not of a group or school, but of those imperishable achievements of the greatest painters of the world. Enforcing his words with exquisite illustrations, Mr. La Farge has made his pages quick with the very spirit of the masters and has interpreted to us their finest works in a manner which is not only understandable but truly inspiring.

With the assured position of one of America's foremost artists, Mr. La Farge comes to his task with the skill of a master-workman, with an eye for those beauties which are at once the delight and reward of years of painstaking labor in the service of art.

The book is, indeed, a veritable treasure-house of all that is worth while in the history of painting, wholly free from technical criticism, and discovering the artist only in its illumination of those finer touches which would otherwise be lost to your eyes.

By
Selma Lagerlöf
Translated by
Velma Swanston Howard

Size, 6 x 8¼; pages, about 400; binding, cloth, decorated

*Fixed price, $1.30

THIS announcement of a second volume of "The Wonderful Adventures of Nils" will be welcome news to many, for the author's first collection was hailed as the best thing "since the days of Hans Christian Andersen." Indeed, no child's story-book has had higher praise bestowed upon it, and in this new volume Miss Lagerlöf has told tales of the further adventures of Nils which are full of the wonder and enchantment of the fairy world. As one critic remarks: "She can speak all languages: the language of animals, and the language of flowers; but first and last, childhood's language."

Miss Lagerlöf is recognized as Sweden's greatest writer of fiction, and since the publication of her first stories of Nils she has been awarded the Nobel Prize, an honor which she shares with Mr. Kipling, with whom she has been compared.

He tells of the new and fascinating story of primitive man, revealed by the skulls recently found in France (carrying back human history probably 100,000 years!); and dozens of other subjects as far apart as eels and comets (did you know, by the way, that Halley's Comet, visible this year, had been traced back at intervals to 400 B.C.? And that it made such a sensation in the year when William the Conqueror invaded England that its portrait is to be found woven into the Bayeux Tapestry?). All is told so simply and untechnically, and with such a general grasp of diverse sciences as to make a unique book.

The Inscription on the Walls of the Mysterious "Hollow Needle"

IS there really to-day a vast secret cavern beneath that rocky promontory, "The Hollow Needle," so wonderfully described by M. Leblanc—a secret going back to remotest antiquity and handed down as a crown treasure from one French king to another? And did our friend Arsène Lupin actually make this the headquarters of his almost supernatural forays? Perhaps not. Yet it is a tribute to this splendid romantic tale that when the reader finishes it he finds himself mentally deciding to speed over to that French coast and look for the little grotto with the letters cut deep into the stone, and follow the puzzling cipher's directions to the mouth of the cavern whither Beautrelet, the schoolboy, finally tracked his quarry, Lupin. M. Leblanc proves his quality afresh in this new record of his famous character; it shows the same irresistible Lupin (in love this time), but is utterly different from all the other tales. Indeed, it is just as surprising, unexpected, bewildering, as if one had never read those other entrancing romances; and in addition, the present story has a largeness, a feeling for the grandeur of the rocky cliffs, which reminds one of the greatest French fiction writers.

WHEN we published Mrs. McClung's delightful first book, one of the cleverest women in the book trade was so wrought up over it that she sat down and wrote us a most welcome scolding for not insisting more loudly on its charms, remarking:

"Pearlie is just as lovable and deliciously original as Rebecca. . . . My best regards to the lady who can preach drudgery, temperance, and charity sermons and sugar-coat them so beautifully that we, like all children, cry for more candy."

Having in mind this good friend's merited admonition—we hereby serve notice on you, that Mrs. McClung (who has in the last year made a great success as author and public reader) has written a further account of Pearlie Watson. And she is the same comical, honest, motherly, warm-hearted, unexpected, effective, and altogether delightful little Irish girl that made one's heart grow warm and brought the smiles to one's face every few moments. Her experiences as she grows to young ladyhood, and the way in which she makes the numerous Watsons transform that run-down farm, "The Second Chance," are worth your while—and we know if you read this book you'll want to pass it on.

THESE brief surveys of our great sources of natural wealth, from official sources and each written by our best authority on the subject, will be under the editorial direction of Mr. Pinchot.

The first Primer—on Conservation—will be written by him. It will be an authoritative book giving in the briefest compass a complete survey of the whole subject in the United States.

WE do not think it's an exaggeration to say that Mr. Rackham stands to-day as the foremost living illustrator of imaginative and poetic classics. He has chosen for this season as inspiring a theme as artist ever had: that colossal story of the Nibelung's Ring through which the genius of Wagner has made these misty Norse legends a vital fact in the life of the modern world. The artist has outdone himself on this subject, and we are convinced that this volume (and the succeeding one, which will round out the "Ring" with the remaining two operas, "Siegfried" and "Götterdämmerung") will win an even wider appreciation of the beauties of Mr. Rackham's unequalled gift books. It will be many years before another artist will need to give form to the characters of this great Epic.

R. P. BURNS, M.D., whose fiery hair (not to mention a similar temper) earned him the nickname of "Red Pepper" among his friends, was a country doctor of the old school—one of those whole-souled enthusiasts who would rather relieve some neighbor's suffering than eat his dinner. And Mrs. Richmond, who has clearly studied her hero from life, makes a highly lovable personality out of this impetuous, brilliant, powerful, high-minded young doctor. There are few writers who can create so convincingly real, average human beings, and the surroundings and atmosphere of a small town, where many of the finest "old-fashioned" qualities of American life still persist. The author of the delightful "Juliet" stories does not fail to give a charming lightness and feminine grace to the love story which dominates the book.

MRS. RICHMOND has declined a dozen times to write another "On Christmas Day in the Morning"—for magazines and publishers alike besieged her after the appearance of that heart-moving little tale. At last, however, she writes that another story, with the above title, has come of its own accord. It is published uniform with the other volume and should repeat the history of that perfect little holiday remembrance.

MR. SCOTT leaves America and chooses Russia as his arena, telling the dramatic love story of a young Chicago man and a beautiful Russian Princess. It is a story of an exalted purpose which stands out against the grim background of present-day Russia with its conflicts, its intrigues, its mutter of revolution, its constant struggle of elemental forces. Mr. Scott knows Russia at first hand, and has for many years been a sympathetic student of the revolutionary cause. Furthermore his wife, Miriam Finn Scott, is a Russian woman, well known as a writer and lecturer on this topic. Many of the dramatic episodes of the story were suggested by the actual experiences of Mrs. Scott's immediate family with the secret police and in the prisons at St. Petersburg.

Henry Drexel, travelling over Europe preliminary to taking up his wealthy uncle's business interests in Chicago, meets in his compartment of the train an agitated woman whom he seeks to help. He is thus at the very beginning of the story caught in the current and the reader with him. The story moves quickly, surely, and intensely to the end.

WHEN Rolf Kittling crawled out of the window of his little attic room that night to escape his infuriated and brutal uncle, there was no refuge for him to seek except the camp of his chance friend, old Quonab the Indian, who had initiated him into the mysteries of training a 'coon dog. Having thus taken to the woods, perforce, his education in woodcraft became not a matter of choice, but of daily existence; and the story of his life outdoors, of the fight with the monster snapping turtle, of the journey to the great North Woods, and of how the boy (under this ideal teacher) came to know the intimate life of the wild creatures, will make any boy's, or man's, heart beat faster with admiring envy. Mr. Seton has put into this tale the wonderful story-telling ability which has made his books appeal to hundreds of thousands, and the patient accumulation of thirty years' study of nature and wild animals. It differs from his "Two Little Savages" in that the boys there were at play, while this most readable tale shows the fundamental uses, in life's necessities, of a knowledge of the fascinating nature world that lies all about us.

Recollections of Alexander H. Stephens

Containing the Prison Diary of Mr. Stephens, 1865; edited and with a Biographical Introduction by Myrta Lockett Avary

Size, 6 x 9¼; pages, about 400; 16 illustrations; binding, cloth

*Net, $2.50

WRITTEN off guard and coming direct from the Vice President of the Confederacy and a chief statesman of the Union before and after the War of Secession, Mr. Stephens' Prison Journal has unusual value as a political and historical document.

It is a record of his experiences from his arrest at his home, May 11, 1865, to his return on parole, October 26th. It describes his journey with President Davis and other distinguished prisoners from Savannah to Fortress Monroe, from which point he was carried to Fort Warren. Here, he wrote in it from day to day, the Journal being an outpouring of the man as he really was. He indulges in some personal recollections of his youth and early Congressional life; states his political creed and the basis of his connection with the Confederacy; gives his estimate of various public men with whom he was thrown in close personal relationship; sets forth without reserve his views of Davis and Lincoln and their administrations; discusses points of policy on which he was at issue with Davis; and discloses what he believed to be the cause of the Confederate collapse. Several references are made to His Hampton Roads Conference with Lincoln. A number of letters which he wrote at the fort are reproduced. The last pages recount his journey home with stops at Boston, New York, and at Washington, where he had a confidential interview with President Johnson in which the views of both on the Negro problem, and on Negro suffrage before it was tried or even decided upon, are given. Mr. Stephens' ideas on the race question as presented throughout the Journal constitute not one of its least values, as his attitude toward Negroes, particularly those who had served him, is not one of its least charms.

As a human document and a psychological study, the Journal has a most appealing interest. Its simplicity, pathos, and sweetness, with its struggling gleams of wit and humor, illumine a sombre theme. A great heart and soul are laid bare. A personality as refined and tender as a pure woman's keeps company with us. The necessary monotony is part of a drama in which we witness the endeavors of a brave spirit to make the best of its double prison of invalid body and dungeon walls. We cannot read this record of a wrong without thinking better of our fellows and remembering that all men are brothers when we see how, by reason of his lovableness and their humanity, his keepers become his friends. The good people of Boston take up his cause; statesmen who had been his nominal enemies visit him and seek to set him free.

As an exquisite unfoldment of a rare fraternal love—that between himself and his youngest and half-brother, Judge Linton Stephens—the Journal is a classic.

The book opens with a review of Mr. Stephens' life, bringing it up to the date of the first entry; and closes with the completion of this review, which catches up the thread at the end of the Journal and continues it to his death in 1883.

BESIDES being a beautiful and elaborate gift book, this is extremely entertaining, and has a definite historical value. It comprises a large number of contemporaneous descriptions of holiday celebrations, from the earliest Colonial times up to the beginning of our National life—intimate human documents, telling in the words of an actual observer just how our forefathers' holidays were spent. Quaintly worded accounts they are, full of humor and ofttimes scintillating with wit, from the mouths of prominent figures in our American history; and from them we catch the most intimate glimpses of the more human and personal side of these great men.

It is most interesting to note the evolution of the Colonial attitude toward holiday festivities, from the extreme of Puritan intolerance, as displayed in the bitter tirades of Bradford, Endicott, and Sewall, to the gradually growing indulgence of innocent gaiety which is amusingly illustrated in an account of a New Year's dance at the home of the Endicotts in Salem, descendants of the austere old Puritan who persecuted the merry-makers of Ma-re Mount.

THIS is Mr. White's first book for younger readers, and the hundreds of thousands who delighted in "The Blazed Trail," "The Riverman," etc., can easily imagine what an ideal boy's tale he makes of the outdoor experiences of Bobby, the son of Orde "The Riverman." Bobby's first lesson in walking the logs of a lumber boom; his awakening to the difference between Celia Carleton and other despised "girls"—and the manner in which she obtruded herself into his initial experiments with the new printing press; the shooting match which brought the youngster the coveted Flobert rifle, and the unforgettable expeditions wherein he learned the thrilling joys of hunting ducks, squirrels, and partridges; the dramatic use of his newly acquired sportsman's knowledge in clearing his old friend from a murder charge; and the final passing of "Little Boyhood" with the exchange of his "Flobert" for a "sure enough" 16-gauge shotgun—all these and many more healthy outdoor adventures make a most absorbing volume.

THIS story is big with the bigness of the California Sierras and their gigantic forest trees; but it is also big with human character, strong men doing America's work in the forefront of advancing industry. Bobby Orde, son of "The Riverman," follows the lumber industry in its migration from Michigan to the virgin forests of California; and here, first as lumberman, then as forest ranger, he finds his work in the world. The tale is full of adventurous and outdoor interest, and the climax, where young Orde finds himself between his official duty on one side and his father's business interests and his personal safety on the other, is the culminating point in a complicated and absorbing plot. While the author evidently believes that out there on the firing line of civilization woman doesn't claim so overwhelming a proportion of a man's life as modern novels would show—there is a charming love story, simple, healthy, deep, and open-air, like the rest of the book. In addition, there is more insight here as to the real difference between the pioneer methods of work and those of to-day, more sane light on the proper relation of the Government forest service to the captains of the lumber industry than we have seen in any discussion of that great subject.

SCORES of "impressions" of Americans in England have already been written. "A Plain American in England," however, reveals so many new and unnoticed sidelights, is so rich in fun and a sense for the ridiculous, so crowded with laughable situations and reflections, that the book must stand as a rare gem of humor—a refreshing contrast to the fine-humored jokes about "our English Cousins." It is a confession of faux pas of one who has made a dozen journeys to England, returning each time a wiser though by no means a sadder man, and whose experiences every visitor who wishes to hold his head up in good society ought to know.

PRETTY Lys d'Angeley sitting next to a tall, handsome chauffeur (in disguise) on the tour through the Riviera in Lady Turnour's blue motor-car—never was romantic situation more providentially devised. For the tall, handsome chauffeur proved a much-needed protector more than once, and Lady Turnour, but for him, would be hardly—but let us not anticipate!

It is one of the freshest and most entrancing of Williamson love comedies. The quaint, charming spots along the Southern coast of France which they "tour" will appeal strongly to motorist and reader alike, and a prettier background for this sprightly romance one would seek far to find.

It is not too much to say that this new story by the authors of "The Lightning Conductor," "Set in Silver," and other successful romances, will captivate a host of readers.

READY SPRING OF 1911

THE cleverness, versatility and rare story-telling ability shown in such great successes as "Lord Loveland Discovers America," "Set in Silver," and others of the Williamson novels, will fall far short of preparing the reader for the really extraordinary and unique romance, "The Golden Silence," by C. N. and A. M. Williamson. It is supposed to be quite the customary tactic of the publisher to call his novels "unusual." Frankly, however, there is no other term to use in the present instance.

Beginning, in London, with the betrothal of Stephen Knight to Margot Lorenzi, under what are quite tragic circumstances, and the subsequent departure of the young woman for a visit to Canada, the scene of action is suddenly shifted to Algiers, whither Stephen goes to visit a college chum while awaiting the return of the woman he is to marry.

Stephen Knight's odd meeting with Victoria Ray, the quaint little American dancer, and the wholly extraordinary element which her strange quest brings into the story, contrive to make one of the most fascinating tales that has been written in many years. Few authors could have brought into their pages so wonderfully the sense of mystery and charm, of that Oriental richness and color, which—for the West—is symbolical of the Desert and its people.

The rich perfume of this land of golden silence and mystery is in these pages, and in dealing with the search of Victoria Ray for her lost sister, the authors have given us a series of exquisite descriptions which have about them all the witchery of the East itself. The characters stand out as sharply as the white houses of Algiers against the blue sky, and the story, with its prismlike lights of romance and humor, tragedy and adventure, holds one fascinated to the end.

The Best Supplementary Reading for Class or Home Use and for School Libraries

This is a complete list of the books issued by the Educational Publishing Company for Supplementary Reading and for School Libraries.

The books have been very carefully assigned to the several years of the School Course in which they can be most profitably read. The grading is the final result of the judgment of the authors and of experienced teachers, fully acquainted with the Subject Matter and with the mental grasp and appreciation of pupils in the several stages of progress from the first year of school life to the closing of the high school.

The aim has been to suggest for each year only such books as can be read and mastered by the pupil with greater ease than the regular reader usually assigned.

Besides the grading into years, the books are all classified into subjects. Such classification greatly facilitates the selection of the books for the special needs of the pupils for Classes, Home or Library.

In the High School Grades, a somewhat different division into subjects obtains, but it will be found quite as convenient and suggestive.

A brief characterization is given under each title, which will be found a safe guide in making up orders for classes or libraries without previous examination.

The figures found in many cases at the right of a title, indicate the years in which the book may be read, or begun and completed.

Complete Graded Index and Price-list

Arranged alphabetically by titles. Figures following titles indicate the grades or years of school life in which the book is best read. The x in the columns of Boards or Cloth shows the book is not so bound.

While the treatment is comprehensible and critical, it is yet simple, forceful, stimulating.

Briefly, the method embraces a preparatory part in which history, author, environment find explanatory consideration, then an outline in vigorous and sympathetic lines of the structure or plot, of the characters, and of the literary and ethical values of the masterpiece.

The White River Raft.

By LEWIS B. MILLER

The scene of this stirring tale is laid in the Mississippi Valley more than half a century ago, when the river steamer, flatboats and rafts were the principal means of communication throughout that section. The country was new and scantily settled and the mighty river was not only the main highway through which people had to travel, but also sheltered swarms of pirates and other lawless folk whose activities, together with the perils of storm and flood, often tried the courage and endurance of the voyager. The author does not depend upon superhuman feats or improbable events, finding the stern realities of the time replete with excitement and adventure. It is as described the largely true story of a logging trip into the flooded forests of Arkansas, followed by an eventful raft voyage down the great river to New Orleans. Illustrated by J. W. F. Kennedy. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50

LUCK AND PLUCK STORIES FOR BOYS

Low to High Gear Series

By EDWARD S. ELLIS

Mr. Ellis has long been recognized as the leading living writer of boys' books. His phenomenal faculty of knowing how to reach the "heart of a boy" is proverbial. His heroes are always manly, so that the young reader imbibes high ideals of character unconsciously while thinking he is only reading an absorbing story.

This series, comprising some of the author's most famous books, is now offered at a low price to meet the popular demand, and is printed, bound and illustrated in precisely the same manner as the original editions.

Cloth, 12mo. Assorted cover designs stamped in gold and various colored inks. Illustrated by J. W. F. Kennedy. 75c.

From Low to High Gear.

The hero in learning to drive an automobile, has an adventure with a bull dog, is attacked at midnight, etc.

The Lost Dragon.

Another automobile story forming a sequel to "From Low to High Gear," distinctly fresh, timely and up-to-date, with a theme that will appeal to every American boy.

The P. Q. & G.

A railroad story written in the author's most charming vein, full of delicious humor and stirring incidents.

Plucky Jo.

The story of an honest, captivating and sport-loving Princeton undergraduate. How he won the baseball championship for his Alma Mater is graphically described.

Patriot and Tory.

The hero is captured by the British and barely escapes being shot as a spy during the Revolutionary War. An incident of the story is a memorable account of George Washington and his relations to the history of that period.

True Blue.

The hero of this highly interesting story succeeds through hard work and faithfulness to duty when another boy places his confidence in luck.

Lucky Ned.

Ned Greenwood is the leader in all the athletic contests of the village and neighborhood. The author has never written a more interesting story.

Unlucky Tib.

Tiberius Marshall believed for a long time he was the unluckiest boy that ever lived. The story, which is luminous with humor, pathos and incident, tells of his experiences and how a change finally came about.

The Minute Boys Series

This series of books for boys, written by Edward Stratemeyer and James Otis and illustrated by J. W. Kennedy and A. Burnham Shute, needs no recommendation. We venture to say that there are few boys of any age in this broad land who do not know and love both these authors and their stirring tales. These books, as shown by their titles, deal with periods in the history of the development of our great country which are of exceeding interest to every patriotic American boy — and girl. The books are attractively bound, each volume having an individual cover from a design by Amy Sacker.

Cloth, 12mo, fully illustrated. $1.25

The Minute Boys of Boston.

The latest addition to the Minute Boys Series is one of his best. Mr. Otis has long been noted for the historical accuracy of his stories. In the "Minute Boys of Boston," he tells of the conditions existing in and around just previous to and during the battle of Bunker Hill. The quarrels between the townspeople and the king's soldiers, the sufferings of the former, the lack of food and supplies, the camp at Cambridge and finally the battle of Bunker Hill are described in a most realistic manner. The stirring adventures of the young hero and his friends and companions, "the Minute Boys," during these exciting times, make extremely interesting reading.

The Glad Lady.

A timely and spirited account of a remarkably pleasant and profitable vacation spent in an unfrequented part of Northern Spain. This summer, which promised at the outset to be very quiet and commonplace, proved to be exactly the opposite. Event follows event in rapid succession and the story ends with the culmination of at least two happy romances, one that of the Glad Lady who throughout the entire book has proved to be an intensely interesting and attractive character. The story throughout is interwoven with vivid descriptions of real places and people of which the general public know very little. These, while in no way interfering with the plot, add greatly to the reader's interest.

Cloth, 12mo. Illustrated by L. J. Bridgman. $1.50

Wits' End.

Instinct with life, color, and individuality, this story of true love, which has for its setting a certain island of Casco Bay, beloved by many, cannot fail to attract, and hold to its happy end, the reader's eager attention. The word pictures of sea and land are masterly; while the poise of narrative and description is marvellously preserved. Through the book blows the crisp cool tang of the sea, the fragrance of wild roses, growing "up along," the life-giving breath of the pines, standing like sentinels upon the rocky shores. Illustrated by L. J. Bridgman.

Cloth, 12mo. $1.50

A Journey of Joy.

A fresh and charming story of the travels and adventures of two young American girls and an elderly companion in Europe. It is not only well told, but the amount of information contained will make it a very valuable addition to the library of any girl who anticipates making a similar trip. The author takes her heroines on a six months' trip through Italy, Switzerland, France, down the Rhine, through Holland, England and Scotland. Their many pleasant experiences end in the culmination of two happy romances, all told in the happiest vein. Illustrated by L. J. Bridgman.

Cloth 12mo. $1.50

What Robin Did Then.

By Marian W. Wildman, author of "Loyalty Island," etc.

A charming story of the doings of three young orphans, compelled by losses to emigrate to the mountains of Northern California and seek a home among the mining camps of that interesting region. Their hardships and successes are most convincingly and interestingly told. Illustrated, cloth, large 12mo. $1.50

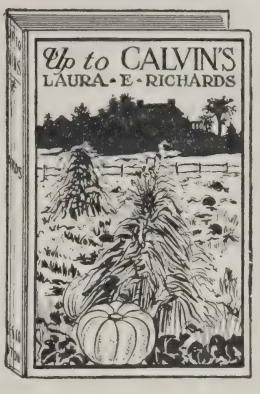
Fiction

Up to Calvin's.

By Laura E. Richards.



While not necessarily a sequel to "Calvin Parks," "Up to Calvin's" chronicles the further adventures of Calvin Parks, Mittie May, Ivory Cheeseman and many of the other lovable Down East characters who proved so entertaining in the previous book. Many new and some extremely interesting ones appear, and Mrs. Richards, who has no equal in ability to portray the shrewd and kindly intelligence, the homely characteristics and the quaint speech of the Down East Yankee, has done both herself and her subject, or perhaps we should say subjects, full justice in this her latest book. Cloth, 12mo. Illustrated by Frank T. Merrill. $1.25

The Wooing of Calvin Parks.

By Laura E. Richards.

In this story, Mrs. Richards reverts to one of the happiest of her many phases of activity. With loving touch and without the suspicion of exaggeration or unkindly caricature, she acquaints us with the homely virtues, droll conceits, and pithy saws of the fast vanishing New England types. It is a book with a laugh on every page, a surprise in every chapter, and not a tear from beginning to end. Cloth, 12mo. Illustrated. $1.25

Wayward Anne.

By Curtis Yorke, author of the "Other Sara," etc.

The plot of "Wayward Anne" is simplicity itself — but it is the simplicity of the art which conceals art. An unconventional friendship of a man, who is under a cloud, with a girl who believes in him, forms its basis; and surrounding this initial episode are a series of events and incidents and happenings which lead up to an inevitable climax, and which are related with all that enchanting purity of thought and style and method which are characteristic of this author's work. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50

Hilary Thornton.

By Hubert Wales, author of "Cynthia in the Wilderness," "The Old Allegiance."

In "Hilary Thornton," the originality of the theme is not less apparent than the splendid courage and consistency with which the author carries it to an inevitable termination. Superadded to a story of piercing emotion are conceptions of public life and private duty, which, though they touch upon matters of opinion, do not tend to lessen the power and interest of the story. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50

The Sands of Pleasure.

By Filson Young, author of "The Happy Motorist," "Christopher Columbus."

The author has proved himself master of his subject. The descriptions of the lighthouse building are intensely interesting, and the atmosphere of the surroundings is in perfect accord. In the pictures of gay Parisian life — the Bohemia of to-day — no modern English author has been so successful. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50

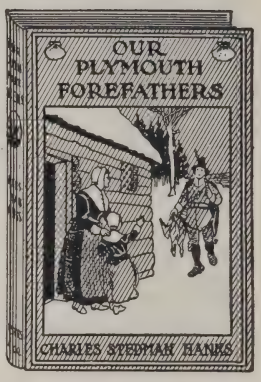
Our Plymouth Forefathers.

By Charles Stedman Hanks, author of "Hints to Golfers," "Camp Kits and Camp Life."



Mr. Hanks, Boston lawyer of high standing, eminent golfer by right of priority and devotion to the "Royal and Ancient game," railroad investigator, and friend of President Roosevelt, was as diverse in his writings as in his accomplishments and avocations. His contribution to Colonial history undoubtedly will take as high a rank in its field as did his notable work on golf when it appeared seven years ago. "Our Plymouth Forefathers" bears evidence of the same painstaking care and historical research that characterized all of his literary work. Beginning with the departure of the Pilgrim Fathers from England and their settlement in Holland, the author traces the religious movements of the times that led to the expedition to America. The story of the Plymouth Colony and its relation to those stirring events in our country's earliest history is given with the impressive detail that is devoid of pedantry, while the style is simple, forceful and convincing. The work is extra illustrated with numerous beautiful double tone plates and has a complete index.

Biographical

Journals and Letters of Samuel Gridley Howe.
Volume I., The Greek Revolution.
Volume II., The Servant of Humanity.

Edited by his daughter, Laura E. Richards, with an introduction and annotations by Frank B. Sanborn. Complete in two volumes, sold separately.

The publishers take great pleasure in announcing the appearance of the only full and complete account of the life services of this most distinguished philanthropist. Previous publications dealing with separate phases of endeavor and success in this many-sided life, such as his work among the blind, have appeared, but the full story is yet to be told, and this can best be accomplished in his own words, and therefore the present work is compiled from his journals and letters, with only so much narrative as may be necessary to supply the missing links.

Inspired by his love of freedom, his hatred of cruelty, and his eagerness to relieve suffering, perhaps prompted also by the example of Lord Byron, this young American physician gave up ease, custom, and money-getting, and hastened over seas to fight a savage foe among savage mountains for love of that dear land which was next in his affections to his own, the land of the imperishable Ideal. The second volume deals with the many interests and activities which followed his initial exploits in behalf of the Greeks. His successes in the cause of education of the blind; his participation in the anti-slavery agitation; his intercourse with Kossuth and others struggling in the cause of freedom; his Civil War time activities; these and many other events of equal interest are told of in his journals, which give wonderfully vivid accounts of a career destined to live throughout the course of history. They have been compiled, connected, and annotated by the expert hands of Mrs. Richards and Mr. Sanborn, to form a work of unique interest and value to thoughtful readers of all time.

MEMOIRS LIBRARY

Edited by HELEN KENDRICK HAYES

In the Shadow of the Guillotine.

Written by Grace Dalrymple Elliott, intimate friend of Philippe Egalité.

Being the personal reminiscences of a close friend of the Duc d'Orléans, they are the more worthy of earnest study. Mrs. Elliott gives at close range and at first hand a clear portrait of Philippe Egalité, first at the beginning of the Revolution and then after falling into the clutches of the arch-conspirators.

Colonel Hutchinson — Roundhead.

The Record of His Life, by Lucy Hutchinson, his Widow.

Although written in 1670, these memoirs were not published until the nineteenth century, and are now modernized for the greater convenience of the reader and the student of the stirring times of the great Civil War which devastated the English nation during the reign of Charles I.

Du Barry — Enchantress.

Any narrative of the checkered career of that celebrated courtesan, the Comtesse du Barry, must necessarily be scanned with mingled emotions. In collating the literature of the half century spanned by the life of the woman born Vaubernier, one becomes aware of many discrepancies and must believe that much that is inaccurate and untrue has been written concerning the last mistress of Louis XV.

Financial

Money and Investments.

By MONTGOMERY ROLLINS, author of "Government Bond Values Tables — Interest Payable Quarterly," "Tables of Bond Values."

This volume comprises a manual of expert reliable information on the vitally important subject of "Money and Investments," which interests us all, particularly at this time, as never, heretofore, has there been such widespread interest in financial affairs.

It is Practical, Concise, Simple

There has been most urgent need of a concise work to make clear to all the many intricate terms and usages of the financial world; and how to distinguish the merits of one class of a security from another.

It is Complete and Comprehensive

The first part of the work is devoted to general suggestions as to investments, speculation, banks, financial conditions — present and future — and to the many fundamental principles in the use of money or its investment, of which the less experienced may not have clear knowledge. Then follows nearly 450 large full pages, alphabetically arranged, covering almost every conceivable (over 2,500) financial term and subject. All subjects in relation to exchange, stocks, and the stock market, such as buying upon a margin, selling short, etc.; the different kinds of securities in the way of bonds, stocks and notes; the distinction between one kind of a security and another, etc., etc., are all plainly set forth.

It is Sound and Authoritative

The author is an acknowledged expert, with a very wide connection in the best banking and investment circles, as evidenced by the long list of works he has already produced on various separate financial specialties.

8vo, cloth, gilt top, $2.00

Municipal and Corporation Bonds.

A Pocket Reference book containing matters of interest to all concerned in this vast field of investment.

By Montgomery Rollins. Author of "Money and Investments," "Government Bond Values," "Convertible Securities," etc.

A book for investors, bond dealers, clerks, and salesmen, who need some concise book of reference which may be carried conveniently in the pocket.

The author's aim has been to give in simple and concise language a complete but condensed treatment of investment bond business. Not only is almost every conceivable kind of a bond fully explained, but much information has been given which is of absolute interest to the bond dealer in his routine of business, and a great amount of detail with which the investor should be just as familiar as the broker.

It contains about 600 subjects compressed by careful study and work into less than 200 pages.

Printed on a high grade writing paper, strongly and handsomely bound in full red flexible leather, stamped in gold. 60c

General

Glossary to Shakespeare.

By Alexander Dyce.

The glossary to the complete works of Shakespeare by Alexander Dyce (1798–1869), the noted English clergyman and Shakespearian critic, is everywhere recognized as a standard work of reference, but it has not been readily accessible to the book-buyer of small means. The present one-volume edition contains all of Dyce's invaluable references for the illustrative quotations from Shakespeare, with the addition of several new features.

Dyce's references are only to volume and page of his own edition. For these (which are useless except to owners of the Dyce edition), references to the particular play, with act, scene, and line (Cambridge numbering), or the particular poem, with title and line, have been substituted. References to the Cambridge text have been inserted when the word defined, as given in that text, varies from Dyce's text.

In defining words, Dyce sometimes merely refers to his notes on the play or poem for explanation instead of giving it in the glossary. For these words the information in the notes has been transferred to the glossary, making it complete in itself.

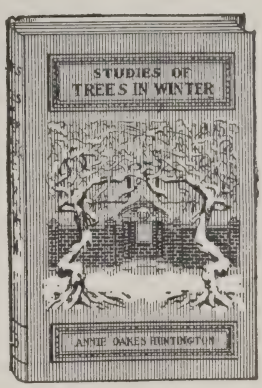
Trees in Winter.

New, revised and enlarged edition.



A description of the deciduous trees of Northeastern America by Annie Oakes Huntington, with an introduction by Charles S. Sargent, LL.D., Director of the Arnold Arboretum and author of "Sylva of North America." Illustrated with about 70 full-page half-tone engravings from photographs and 12 colored plates by Mary S. Morse.

Cloth, size 6 x 8½. $2.50

Lovers of trees will welcome this attractive book. Its purpose is to enable persons not familiar with the characteristics of trees to recognize them in winter. The book is admirable for its simplicity. It contains no notes on forestry nor suggestions on planting. It has the charm of a walk through the woods with a friend who knows trees. A better teacher than Miss Huntington could not be desired. She knows how to write in a manner at once interesting and absolutely practical and lucid. She realizes that besides the special charm that a tree has in its winter's aspect, it presents, though leafless, tangible means whereby its identification may be made by the student. There are a number of features in "Studies of Trees in Winter," that make it a very valuable book to every student of forestry and to every lover of outdoor nature.

Poems by Samuel Minturn Peck, author of "Cap and Bells," "Alabama Sketches," etc.

These poems are purely lyrical. Some of them are of that fascinating sort usually termed avers de societe for lack of a better phrase to define it. Some style such poems patrician rhymes. Many of the lyrics treat of love, others of nature, others still give shy and unexpected glimpses into deeper recesses of the human heart. None are pretentious, and all display a grace, a lightness of touch, a lilt and charm that are Mr. Peck's own.

The Poems of Christina Rossetti

With an introduction by

ALICE MEYNELL

Illustrated with 36 colored plates and numerous full page and vignette black and white drawings by

FLORENCE HARRISON

This magnificent work is printed on hand-made deckle-edge paper. The colored illustrations are all mounted and inserted as plates. Florence Harrison stands at the head of her profession, and her brilliant work, rare imagination and deftness of touch are familiar to those who are interested in high art Juveniles. This is her first serious work, and it is to be remembered that she is a poetess of distinction, so that with her other accomplishments she has displayed in this impressive series of drawings the same insight and inspiration as the poems they illustrate. For, while her work is quite capable of defending itself against any charges of needless assimilation, there are certain predilections of technique and composition eloquent of the artist's sympathy with Dante Gabriele Rossetti — the brother of Christina, — a sympathy which is especially evident in her transcription of the more introspective poems. This edition of Christina Rossetti's poems is bound to be much sought after by collectors. Three hundred and fifty pages, large 4to. Beautifully bound in various shades of linen cloth. Cover design by Miss Harrison in gold, gilt top. $6.00 net

Great Masters Series

By WALTER ROWLANDS

Mr. Rowlands has succeeded in writing a series of books, which are not only instructive, but also readable, fresh, and exhilarating. His style is both explicit and suggestive, and the unusual amount of information contained within the three hundred odd pages in each volume is never allowed to impede the graceful flow of the narrative. While accurate and scholarly, they are distinctively popular and well suited to the holiday trade.

The illustrations form one of the chief features of this series. Each volume contains thirty-two beautiful half-tones, printed in double tone ink on heavy-coated paper. These half-tones are reproductions of famous paintings by the greatest artists; many of them very rare, and procured only by the expenditure of a great deal of time and at large expense.

Our Northern Domain.

Alaska: Picturesque, Historic, and Commercial.

An extremely interesting and timely book on that rapidly growing section of our country, which as recently as twelve years ago was considered by the general public a vast extent of snow and ice, of which very little was known and less expected. The discovery of gold and the consequent influx of people from the United States and Canada was necessarily followed by the rapid development of its agricultural and commercial interests. Alaska is now rapidly coming into its own. Much has been written regarding it, but this volume by one of our foremost literary men and an authority on the subject must prove of great interest and value. It deals with the country from its discovery to the present time. It tells its history, describes its people and scenery and the wonderful improvements that are being made by its rapidly increasing population. Large 4to, cloth, with an appropriate cover design, illustrated from photographs. $2.00

Old Time Recipes for Home Made Wines.

Cordials and Liqueurs from Fruits, Flowers, Vegetables, etc.
Compiled by Helen S. Wright.

This work will, we are assured, appeal to many. In compact but attractive form it combines a list of valuable recipes, and a beautiful and artistic gift book. The compiler has been most thorough, introducing us to a wonderful variety of rare and treasured old formulas for the preparation of a great variety of home-made wines and liqueurs, over whose wealth of color and delicacy of flavor the eyes and palates of bygone generations of our country and gentlefolk delighted to linger. The volume is decorated by beautiful marginal drawings by A. J. Iorio.

Cloth, 12mo, gilt top. $1.50

N. B. These recipes are all of undoubted authenticity, having stood the test of long and wide use. The only modification, in any case, made at the present printing, being in the reducing of the quantities to suit the scope and limitations of modern housekeeping.

Living on a Little.

By Caroline French Benton, author of "A Little Cook Book," "Saturday Mornings."

A most valuable volume of practical hints to young people, enabling those beginning housekeeping on small means to so arrange their living expenses as to realize the best results and make both ends meet, even in these times of inordinately high prices. The author has contributed many effective articles on household economics and kindred subjects to Good Housekeeping and other magazines, and her suggestions are unquestionably most acceptable and useful. Like all of her Housekeeping Works, it is soundly and convincingly practical. A list of the subjects treated includes:

I. At the Very Beginning — Dividing the Income; II. Saving for Staples — The Kitchen — Buying — Linen; III. Arranging the Meals — Cooking — Dresses — The Table — The Dinner; IV. Soups and Meats; V. Vegetables, Salads, Desserts; VI. Breakfast, Luncheon, Supper — Odds and Ends; VII. The Emergency Closet — Winter Preserves — Cake; VIII. The Game of Menus; IX. Two Dinner Parties; X. Reducing Expenses; XI. Luncheons for a Little; XII. In the Country; XIII. Midsummer Housekeeping — The End of the Holiday. Cloth, 12mo. $1.25

Sunday Night Suppers.

By Christine Terhune Herrick, author of "Liberal Living on Narrow Means," "The Little Dinner," etc.

A valuable work on a fresh subject by a well-known writer of books on domestic science. The title explains its character and occasion. To quote from the author, "In most homes the Sunday night supper is an unsatisfactory compromise. The housekeeper, however successful in her method for other times, leaves this meal to Providence, with the usual result that awaits upon blind trust in Providence unbacked by human endeavor." That there are great possibilities in the Sunday night supper is shown most convincingly in this desirable work. A book all must have. Unique cover design, cloth, tall 12mo. $1.00

Cloth, tall 16mo, gilt top. Net, 75c

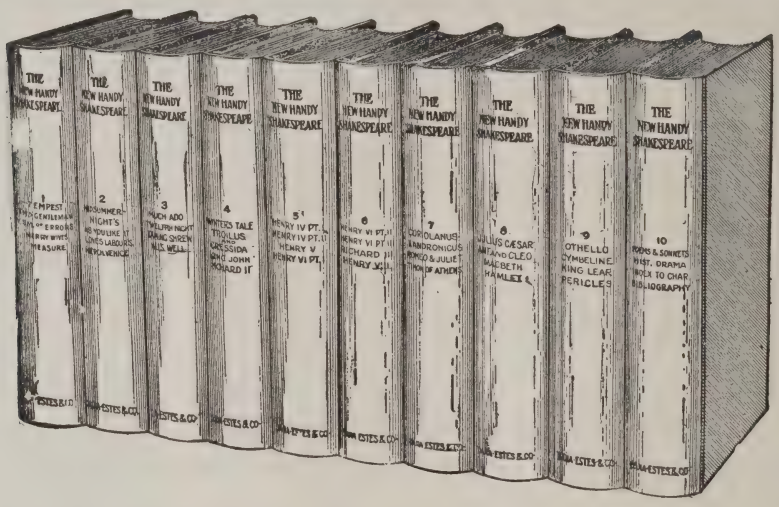
New Handy Shakespeare

Notes by Israel Gollancz, with a formal introduction by Wm. T. Rolfe, Litt. D.



This is in all respects the finest handy volume edition of Shakespeare's plays and poems ever made. It is most complete, but although the text and commentary occupies 8,500 pages, the excellent thin Bible India paper used reduces the bulk of the volumes so that they are not more than three-quarters of an inch thick. The work comprises the complete plays and poems according to the Cambridge text, from the latest edition of William Aldis Wright. The commentary is most complete, and derived from the greatest Shakespearian authorities. It includes introductions, notes, and glossaries by Israel Gollancz, editor of the Temple Shakespeare, together with the complete notes and variorum readings of Alexander Dyce, a general introduction by William J. Rolfe, Litt. D., and a history of the drama and general criticism by Henry N. Hudson and others. Other features are an index of characters; also biographical and genealogical prefaces to the historical plays by George Russell French, edited by Dr. William J. Rolfe. OF THE WRITINGS OF

Jane Austen

The writings of Jane Austen possess qualities that place them far above those of her contemporaries except Scott. She is one of the supreme literary artists of the world, for she made no compromises, and never wrote a line to please any one but herself. That is precisely why she pleases all readers' taste and intelligence. Lord Macaulay said of her works, "There are no compositions which approach nearer to perfection. . . . In the delineation of character she approaches nearest to Shakespeare." The Cabinet Edition comprises her works and letters and an introduction by Prof. William Lyon Phelps, Ph.D., Lampson Professor of English Literature in Yale University, together with an essay by Lord Bradbourne relative to the publication of her letters. The edition is illustrated by thirty full-page drawings in color by C. E. and H. M. Brock. The works in cloth binding, gilt tops, sold in sets or separately, as follows:

British Poets. Cabinet Edition.

This is altogether the most valuable and attractive library collection of the better known British poets published. In the fairly compact compass of fifteen handsome cabinet size volumes are presented the complete authoritative text of the poetical works of the authors listed below. Valuable annotations, as well as biographical and other editorial matter from most expert sources, are included. The works are beautifully illustrated with etchings and photogravures, portraits and scenes from drawings or paintings of celebrated artists. Commentary matter includes appendix to Burns's poems and a memoir to the poet, to which is added Dr. Currie's description of Burns; a memoir to Hood and notes to his poems; a preface and notes to the works of Shelley by Mrs. Shelley, and a memoir by James Russell Lowell. In addition, the works of Keats are edited by W. T. Arnold. To the works of Gray are added a " Life by Rev. J. Mulford," with notes, etc. The " Songs of the Dramatists " is edited by Robert Bell, and contains a collection of songs from the English dramatists, beginning with the writer of the first regular comedy and ending with Sheridan. The want of such a collection has long been felt, and that it has never been supplied before, must occasion surprise to all readers who are acquainted with the riches of this branch of lyrical poetry.

Illustrated Cabinet Edition

OF THE COMPLETE WORKS OF

Honoré de Balzac

In 36 volumes

Balzac is universally conceded to be the greatest novelist of France if not of the world. In his "Comédie Humaine" he set out to portray contemporary French life of all classes and types, and in the accomplishment of this task was marvellously successful. His stories contain two thousand characters drawn with a realism and imaginative grasp unapproached by any other writer since Shakespeare. His analysis of motives and subtlety of insight are equalled only by the power and rush of his narrative, which has a dramatic intensity hard to match elsewhere in literature. Balzac is the master of many styles — the idyllic, impassioned, fanciful, and sententious, but he always enchains the attention and fascinates the mind. He was the amanuensis of society. Human nature seemed to put itself permanently on record through the medium of his pen. His astonishing fertility is the standing marvel of all literary workers who have come after him. Although he died as recently as 1850, he seems to be as assured a classic as Dante, Cervantes, and Goethe, — one of the eternal men. The popular demand for Balzac's works has had a tremendous impetus within a few years, and it is coming to be true that not to have read "Père Goriot," "Eugénie Grandet," and other of his masterpieces, is to write one's self down ignorant of the best in modern literature.

This edition of Balzac is a new translation into English, made with unusual charm of style and fidelity to the original. The introduction to each volume is contributed by George Saintsbury, M. A., Professor of English Literature in the University of Edinburgh, and one of the most eminent of living critics.

The publishers have confidence in announcing this edition as the most complete and the only authorized rendering of the Saintsbury Balzac. It contains four new volumes, never before included in any set of Balzac: "The Physiology of Marriage," "The Dramas" (in two volumes), and a "Repertory of the Comédie Humaine." The addition of this valuable material renders the edition without a rival.

The paper employed is a superior quality of laid, deckle edge, made especially for this edition, and the text is printed from new type with

Illustrated Cabinet Edition

OF THE WORKS OF

James Fenimore Cooper

James Fenimore Cooper may be properly called one of the great novelists. His stories are full of sustained interest and are possessed of a power which always fascinates, but his greatest strength lies in the description of scenes and narration of events.

In "Leather Stocking" Cooper added a character to the small gallery of the world's fictitious personages, — something no other American has ever done, except Mrs. Stowe; — and in Harvey Birch, the hero of "The Spy," Long Tom Coffin of "The Ariel," and Uncas and Chingachgook, the friends and supporters of the famous "Leather Stocking," he created characters of undying interest.

While Cooper was the author of many novels, he will probably be best remembered by the stories included in the two groups, the "Sea Tales" and the "Leather Stocking Tales." Of the "Sea Tales," it is said by an English critic, "The faculty with which the scenes of the waste of waters are depicted, and the living interest with which Cooper invests every part of a ship as if it were an individual being, can not be excelled and has never been equalled by any other author." It is in his "Leather Stocking Tales," however, that we find Cooper at his best. This was an altogether new field of fiction, and it was here that Cooper's unbounded imagination was given full play. Though for a time Cooper's Indians were held to be the creations of a romantic fancy, ethnologists now tell us they are far from overdrawn portraitures, and that many of the characteristics with which he invested them really belonged to these early inhabitants of our country.

In addition to the above, Cooper wrote much which dealt largely with the burning questions of the time. The three novels, "Satanstoe," "The Chainbearer," and "The Redskins," present Cooper's views concerning the anti-rent controversy which agitated seriously the State of New York, and particularly the regions of the upper Hudson, during the early '40's. "Homeward Bound" and "Home as Found" have for their main purpose the correction of certain American manners and methods. "The Monikins" also is one of the satires on certain American faults. "The Ways of the Hour" had for its special purpose the exposure of the defects of trial by jury.

This edition is without doubt one of the finest ever put on the market. It is beautifully printed on laid deckle-edge paper, handsomely and substantially bound, and is illustrated with nearly 100 full-page photogravure, etching, and steel plate illustrations, among which are included the well-known Darley plates, and special illustrations by J. W. F. Kennedy.

Illustrated Cabinet Edition

WORKS OF

Charles Dickens

In 30 volumes

Uniform with our Illustrated Cabinet Editions of George Eliot, Victor Hugo, and W. M. Thackeray

Innumerable editions and bindings of Dickens's Works have from time to time appeared on the market, but it is a remarkable fact that none have yet appeared that in the judgment of competent critics are worthy of this great revolutionizer of English literature, or which possess the true artistic character in illustration and typography.

Confident in the belief that the times demand really fine work, the publishers have planned an edition which will from the outset create a new and widespread interest, not alone in the author's novels, but in the perfection of their presentation.

As much of Dickens's early success was due to the marvellous illustrations made by Cruikshank, Phiz, and others, which were submitted to and approved by Dickens before they were accepted (early impressions of which command enormous prices), it has been deemed of the first importance that these be used in preference to anything else. Many illustrations have since been made by talented artists, but the fact that they have never been accepted by the public as really illustrating Dickens is convincing proof that the original designs could not be improved upon. Early impressions have accordingly been obtained at great expense, and competent artists secured to reëtch them line for line. Some of the original volumes were illustrated by wood engravings, as "Barnaby Rudge," "Old Curiosity Shop," etc., and the publishers have been so fortunate as to obtain from the English publishers, Chapman & Hall, electrotypes from the original wood blocks, which have never been printed from. These, over three hundred in number, will be printed on metallic surface coated paper, and the patrons of this edition are thus guaranteed excellent impressions of the finest illustrations ever made for Dickens's works. Among the great artists whose work is included in these volumes are: CRUIKSHANK, SEYMOUR, H. K. BROWNE (Phiz), MARCUS STONE, CATTERMOLE, F. WALKER, DOYLE, LEECH, MACLISE, LANDSEER, BARNARD, AND DARLEY.

In many instances extra plates are given, which are contained in no other similar edition of the present day. By far the most attractive and most easily read Dickens ever made.

It is hard to imagine any way in which this edition could be improved. Small, handy volumes, uniform in size with the Eliot, Hugo, and Thackeray, printed by the University Press, from a type page that is simply perfection. English finish paper of the best quality, and bound in silk-ribbed cloth, gilt tops.

Celebrated Crimes.

By Alexandre Dumas. In three volumes, uniform with and forming a continuation for our Cabinet Dumas.

This series, unique even among the writings of this great author, constitutes a work of such rare and peculiar interest as to be deemed essential to any approved edition of his works. The translating and editing have been done with highest skill and judgment, and the result shows a work of unsurpassed merit, not only as literature, but also as history. M. Dumas, not only in these stories, but in those which he has derived from other sources, has been scrupulously accurate with regard to facts, having collated the authorities and given every incident according to the evidences obtained by his researches.

Only a faint idea of these remarkable volumes can be given. The romantic portions of the history of Europe, from Russia to Spain, from Turkey to Scotland, are given only as Dumas could write. The works describe the crimes and intrigues of the royal courts of Europe in the most remarkable manner. These great works are now offered for the first time in a handy volume, complete edition, at a price which places them within the reach of all.

The illustrations include nine full-page photogravures from original drawings by E. H. Garrett, as well as reproductions from famous paintings of historical characters, the secrets of whose lives are discovered in the pages of the work, and many plates.

The set contains the following:

WORKS OF

George Eliot

AND LIFE

Edited by J. W. CROSS

The works of George Eliot have within our own time become recognized as standard literature with which all intelligent persons are bound to become familiar. Their position in the literary world, if not, indeed, entirely unique, is certainly unexampled in the history of English-speaking peoples. The author has been aptly denominated "the intellectual daughter of Shakespeare," and several of her novels are ranked by many good judges of literature as worthy of a place beside the immortal work of Cervantes and other of the masterpieces of the world's fiction. No series of novels was ever written with a higher moral purpose or more conscientious literary effort. The publishers of the present edition enter with enthusiasm upon the production of what they believe to be the nearest approach to an appropriate mechanical and artistic reproduction of these incomparable works ever projected. This edition will be unique in point of illustration and manufacture.

Illustrated with 120 etchings and photo-etchings. In 24 volumes. 12mo. English silk-ribbed cloth, with ornamental cover stamped in gold.

Illustrated Cabinet Edition

WORKS OF

Victor Hugo

In 24 volumes

Uniform in size and style with the Illustrated Cabinet Editions of George Eliot, W. M. Thackeray and Charles Dickens

Victor Hugo occupies not only an enviable place among the really great men of this century, but one that may be said to be entirely unique. His genius is brilliant and unquestioned, and his intellect bright, noble, and enlightened. He is at once novelist, poet, philosopher, artist, prophet, and moralist; a thinker of the highest rank, whose writings are growing in popularity, not only in his native country, France, but throughout the world; and at a time when the greatest works of many authors, who during his lifetime were considered his equals or superiors, are now unread ornaments on thousands of library shelves. The increasing demand for his works indicates most significantly the presence of certain qualities which commend them to the rising generation, and adapt them to the intellectual of all classes and all countries.

They appeal to the refinement of thought of the present age, and among them are found masterpieces of fiction and drama which will rank among the highest of all times and all countries. Among the novels, "Les Miserables" and "Notre Dame" are ranked as among the very greatest works of fiction ever produced in any age or country.

The illustrations will consist of etchings and photogravures by the most notable French artists, who have vied with one another to produce fitting designs to illustrate these masterpieces of modern literature. The photogravures have, in the main, been executed in Paris, by the celebrated firm of Goupil et Cie. There may be also especially mentioned etchings of many original compositions by the celebrated artist,

François Flameng, the exclusive right to which, with editions in this country, has been purchased by the publishers of this edition. In addition to these will be several portraits of the author. Among the famous artists and etchers whose work appears in this edition are Detaille, Leloir, Vibert, Perrault, Bonnat Merson, Lefevre, Frere, Hagborg, and others equally famous.

This is the only complete edition of Victor Hugo's Romances, and it contains also his celebrated Last Days of the Condemned, Things Seen, Poems, Dramas, etc.

Printed by the University Press, on the finest English-finish paper, from large, clear type, well leaded, and set in a small page. Bound in English silk-ribbed cloth, with a particularly unique and appropriate full gold back design, gilt tops, uncut edges.

The works will be sold separately as follows:

Illustrated Cabinet Edition

WORKS OF

Captain Marryat

Uniform in size and style with our Illustrated Cabinet Editions of John Ruskin and William H. Prescott

Captain Marryat, as a novelist and story-teller, possessed a lively imagination and a keen sense of humor, as well as sound literary talent, but he is dependent on none of these qualities for the lasting success and popularity of his works. He had, besides, the advantage which no other writer except Smollet had, of having passed his life among the events and scenes he used in his tales, and readers of Marryat do not have to content themselves with description at second hand. The sailor-author himself found in his own heroic career real events and incidents enough to fill his twenty odd volumes. That he has bestowed them on fictitious personages, instead of relating them as his own, does not detract from the vivid force and reality of his descriptions. This quality constituted the chief interest in his works, and has given them a prominent place among standard works of fiction.

The times he lived in and wrote of are of exceptional interest to the lover of sea tales. Ships and sailors battled for, and controlled the destinies of the world. The man-of-warsman was in the zenith of his glory. It is no wonder that Marryat, who wielded so ready a pen, and who passed his life among such stirring scenes of tempest and battle, should be the favorite author with lovers of the sea.

In announcing an authorized edition of Marryat's works, the publishers have availed themselves of exceptional facilities, and can promise all book lovers an extraordinarily fine work.

The set is complete in twenty-four tall 12mo volumes, which is bound in cloth, gilt tops. The text of the work is printed from new plates on Dickinson all rag deckle-edge laid paper. There are about 150 illustrations in photogravure from original drawings by F. W. Hayes, A. R. C. A., W. H. Overend, E. J. Wheeler, and Frederick Barnard, printed on Royal India etching paper. Valuable and interesting introductions to the different novels are contributed by W. L. Courtney, M. A., LL. D.

The set will be the best trade edition ever published in America. The works will be sold in sets or separately as follows:

OF WORKS ABOUT

Napoleon

The extraordinary revival of interest in the life and times of the great Napoleon has made it possible to issue in its present form, and in a uniform style, the three greatest works ever written on the subject, Hazlitt's Life, Bourrienne's Memoirs, and Madame Junot's Memoirs, which have been acknowledged by modern historians as being the most elaborate and impartial records of Napoleon's life ever published. It is not within the scope of any one historian to view the varied sides of this wonderful career and do the subject justice. It is for this reason that no one "Life" yet written contains the necessary data to properly judge the man.

There has been no question in the minds of the publishers as to the best works to be chosen, as the present selection remains in its entirety the most complete and reliable Life of Napoleon ever issued. The "Life" written by William Hazlitt was first published in 1830, and is a clear history of the period commencing with the causes which eventually resulted in the French Revolution and ending with the death of Napoleon at St. Helena. Hazlitt occupies a front rank among the great historians of the world.

For a number of years, commencing with his school-days, Bourrienne, the close friend of Napoleon, and later his private secretary, had an opportunity to watch the events which culminated in the greatest reign of modern times, and which permitted him to give to the world a work which would never have been written but for these favoring circumstances. He does not claim to have written a work which could properly be termed a "Life," but a recital of incidents which it is necessary to read in order to properly understand the causes and results which make this epoch of French history so fascinating. He deals almost exclusively with the Cabinet, and in his narrative the reader comes in personal contact with all the great statesmen of that period.

Madame Junot, Duchess d'Abrantes, occupied a position at court from the establishment of the Consulate to the completion of Napoleon's reign. Her acquaintance with him ripened into a warm friendship and admiration for his wonderful ability; and her cheerful, happy disposition made her a great favorite. Her opportunities for studying the social side of this period were many. Her husband was a favorite general of the Empire, and under such favorable auspices she could not be other than interesting. She has not attempted to deal with the political side of this career, but confines herself exclusively to her reminiscences of facts occurring at court.

The form selected will be a tall 12mo, with large, open-spaced type and ample margins. The illustrations — over eighty in number — will consist of proofs on Royal India etching paper of etchings and photogravures, made expressly for the work, and include a portrait of every marshal, general, and statesman who took a prominent part in Napoleon's reign. Many of the great battles will be represented, and are reproduced from originals which are owned by the French Government.

Particular attention will be paid to the portraits of Napoleon; and of these there will be a large number, showing him at various stages in his life; and in each instance they are made from the original painting or engraving.

The paper used will be a fine laid deckle-edge paper.

The work will be printed at the University Press, Cambridge, from new electrotype plates set from new type.

Illustrated Cabinet Edition

OF THE COMPLETE WORKS OF

Edgar Allan Poe

The works of Poe, both verse and prose, are increasingly in demand. This author has at last taken his rightful place as the greatest imaginative genius, with one possible exception, whom America has produced.

The Cabinet Edition contains all of Poe's immortal short stories, which some hold to be the greatest ever written, as well as his complete poetical works, criticisms, and general essays. It is prefaced by a sympathetic memoir from the pen of the late Richard Henry Stoddard, occupying over 220 pages, and embellished with facsimile autographs. It contains also brief appreciations by James Russell Lowell and Nathaniel Parker Willis, as well as a remarkable critical essay by Mr. Stoddard, entitled "The Genius of Poe." Of Poe's Tales Mr. Stoddard says: "There is nothing in English literature with which the stories of Poe can be compared, and nothing in American literature, except the stories of Hawthorne." The text is printed in large, clear type, with wide margins, on a handsome laid deckle-edge paper. The edition contains nearly 40 etchings and photogravures.

These works will be sold in sets or separately as follows:

Illustrated Cabinet Edition

WORKS OF

John Ruskin

In 26 volumes

John Ruskin stands, without a peer, the most eloquent and original of all writers on nature, art, and architecture in the world.

As a writer of beautiful English, too, his "Sesame and Lilies," "Mornings in Florence," etc., have long been recognized as masterpieces.

His picturesque Saxon style, graphic, clear, and forcible, is justly considered one of the glories of modern English literature, and, as Charlotte Bronté says, "He writes like a consecrated priest of the abstract and ideal."

The "Spectator" says (Autumn, 1884): "No other critic ever occupied such a position. He is one of the best known and most appreciated figures in our generation. His older books are among the treasures of the bibliophile, his later works are purchased like scarce plates, his opinions are quoted like texts from a holy book."

Carlyle writes to Emerson, in the last letter he ever sent to him: "No other man in England that I meet has in him the divine rage against iniquity, falsity, and baseness that Ruskin has, and that every man ought to have."

No previous edition of Ruskin has fully met the requirements of exacting book lovers; the Illustrated Cabinet Edition, we believe, will.

Printed from beautiful, clear type, well spaced with indented side notes on deckle-edge, soft laid paper, equal to the finest hand-made as far as results in printing are concerned, and producing a volume light in weight.

The full-page illustrations number 288, and include all the colored plates, steel engravings, etchings, and process cuts, in all the original tints. In addition to the full-page illustrations are the cuts in the text — many hundreds of them altogether. A large proportion of these are from drawings by Mr. Ruskin, and are not only attractive in appearance, but are absolutely necessary for a proper interpretation of the text.

The volumes are bound with flat backs and uncut edges, gilt tops, in a handsome cloth, with an especially appropriate full gold back design. Size, a tall 12mo.

THE ROMANCES OF

Eugene Sue

Uniform in size and style with our Illustrated Cabinet Editions of John Ruskin and William H. Prescott

Although forty years have elapsed since the death of Eugene Sue, no fitting edition of this great author's works has ever been published; and yet he stands to-day the third member of the great triumvirate of French authors who not only did much for the literature of France, but did their share toward revolutionizing many old ideas. If choice of the three greatest French novels were made, the selection would undoubtedly consist of "Les Miserables," "The Three Musketeers," and The Mysteries of Paris, and hardly less great is The Wandering Jew.

This edition is printed on Dickinson's all rag deckle-edge laid paper, from a new set of plates set in a most artistic manner, and contains about 100 fine etchings by well-known French artists, printed on Royal India etching paper.

The volumes are bound with flat backs, gilt tops, and uncut edges, in cloth, with a handsome gold back stamp. Size, a tall 12mo.

The Romances of Eugene Sue consist of the following works:

The Mysteries of Paris	6 volumes	$9.00

Illustrated Cabinet Edition of

Scott's Poems

In 6 volumes.

Uniform with the Cabinet Edition of Scott's Waverley Novels, with introductions, glossaries, and notes for each volume by Andrew Lang, illustrated with more than thirty photogravures, besides numerous beautiful etchings by W. H. W. Bicknell. Six volumes, sold in complete sets or as separate works:

Vol. I. Lay of the Last Minstrel
Ballads
" II. Marmion
" III. Lady of the Lake
Miscellaneous
" IV. Rokeby
Vision of Don Roderick
" V. Lord of the Isles
Occasional Pieces
" VI. Bridal of Triermain
Minor Poems

This is the most sumptuous trade edition of Scott's Poems ever offered to the public, and the publishers anticipate for it a success commensurate with the large sale of the Cabinet Waverley. No library shelves are thoroughly furnished which lack the poems of the great Scotch Wizard, who first made his wide reputation, it will be remembered, by his verse rather than his prose. His "Lay of the Last Minstrel," "Marmion," and "The Lady of the Lake" have a rush and energy which recall the best passages of Homer, and many readers who do not care for poetry as such are devoted admirers of these great descriptive epics of the North. According to Lockhart "'The Lay' is generally considered as the most natural and original; 'Marmion' as the most powerful and splendid, and the 'Lady of the Lake' as the most interesting, romantic, picturesque and graceful of his great poems." The success of Scott's poems may be gathered from the single fact that twenty thousand copies of the "Lady of the Lake" were sold within a year after its publication. Scott was offered the position of Poet Laureate before he had published even one of his Waverley Novels. It will be seen, therefore, that the reader who owns only the prose romances can by no means lay claim to possessing the Works of Sir Walter Scott. The publishers are now able to offer the book buyer an opportunity of completing his set of Scott's collected works.

The Waverley Novels

By SIR WALTER SCOTT

With New Introductions, Notes, and Glossaries

By ANDREW LANG

An acquaintance with the Waverley Novels is a necessity to every intelligent reader, and no library should be without a set of these works. All other writers appreciate the rational and virtuous tendencies of Scott's works, and the historical knowledge which a careful reader gleans from them is of great value. A feature of these inimitable fictions is the delineation of national character with a fidelity the most exact, and the description of scenery with a picturesqueness almost unequalled.

The publishers of this edition propose to place before the American public these romances in a more appropriate form than they have ever been offered before in either Europe or America. The text will be reprinted from the author's favorite edition, and will contain all of his introductions and notes. To these will be added new introductions, notes, and glossaries by the world-renowned critic and author, Andrew Lang, who has had the coöperation of the Hon. Mrs. Maxwell Scott, of Abbotsford, the great-granddaughter of Sir Walter Scott, in preparing this edition, and who has had access to all of the manuscript and other material now at Abbotsford, so that new points of interest may consequently be expected in this edition.

This edition will also excel all previous editions in points of artistic merit. The illustrations will consist of two hundred and fifty etchings from original designs by some of the most distinguished artists in the world, printed on Japanese paper.

Among the artists and etchers whose work will appear in this edition may be mentioned the following:

Artists.

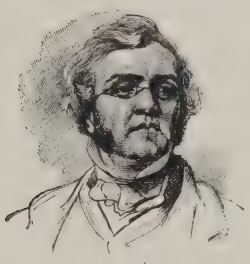
COMPLETE WORKS OF

William Makepeace Thackeray

In 20 volumes



Of the many editions hitherto published in Europe and America, it is believed that none are so well adapted to the requirements of those persons who really appreciate the masterpieces of these great novelists, and wish to preserve them in an elegant and convenient library form.

This edition of THACKERAY contains all of the novels and miscellanies contained in the best standard edition, issued in England with the author's approval.

A companion set to the Illustrated Cabinet Editions of George Eliot, Victor Hugo, and Charles Dickens, printed on the finest English-finish paper, from beautiful type, well spaced and set in a small page. Press-work by the University Press.

The volumes are a small 12mo, uniform in size with the Illustrated Cabinet Edition of Eliot, and bound with handsome full gold backs in English silk ribbed cloth, gilt tops.

One of the distinguishing features of this edition is a greater variety of illustrations than has ever appeared in any edition of THACKERAY'S WORKS, consisting of 210 woodcuts, mainly from the drawings of the author, which have become as thoroughly identified with his literary works as have the drawings of Cruikshank and Phiz with those of Dickens. These will be supplemented with reproductions of drawings by the celebrated English artists, Millais, Barnard, and Luke Fildes; and to these will be added two etched portraits, a series of original etchings, drawn and etched by Pailthorpe especially for the publishers of this edition, together with the famous etchings by George Cruikshank, six photo-etchings from the Character Sketches of Frederick Barnard, and many photogravures reproduced for this edition from photographs of real scenes referred to. Illustrated Cabinet Edition

Count L. N. Tolstoy

Translated by Leo Wiener

We take pleasure in announcing a wholly new, complete, and authentic presentation of the works of Count Tolstoy, translated entirely afresh from the original Russian (uncensored) by Leo Wiener, professor of Slavic languages and literature at Harvard University. A famous critic has recently pronounced Tolstoy the foremost living writer of to-day, and very few would care to challenge this deliberate estimate. His works have a wider circulation than those of any living author, having been printed in more than seventy different languages and dialects. A special feature of value of this edition consists in it being the work of one single individual, a feature possessed by no other version; thus securing a uniform style and method of treatment. A final volume is added to the set, containing the life of Count Tolstoy, which has been as remarkable as his writings, and is the most trustworthy and brilliant biography of the great Russian novelist in print. Correct Russian spellings have been given to the proper names, with accents to obviate the difficulty of pronunciation to English readers. This edition will contain fully seventy full-page illustrations from very rare Russian books and manuscripts, or reproductions from the most celebrated paintings of famous Russian artists, among whom may be mentioned Vasili Vereschagin, L. O. Pasternak, I. E. Ryepin, and A. Kevshenko, together with the following European artists, Edouard Detaille, A. Desnoyers, Carl Buddeus, and others. Illustrated Cabinet Edition

OF THE WORKS OF

Alfred, Lord Tennyson

IN 12 VOLUMES.

Although the last century has been a grave of brilliant reputations, the fame of Tennyson is as secure as it was in 1842 or 1850. He belongs to the succession of the great English poets. In fact, after Chaucer, Shakespeare, Milton, and possibly Wordsworth, he stands in the opinion of not a few critics indisputably at their head. Every bookbuyer, even of the most limited means, has come to feel that it is a matter of imperative necessity to own a good set of Tennyson's Works. It is a gratification to the publishers that they can offer the finest edition of this great Victorian master which has ever been placed on the American market. This edition is edited and annotated by Prof. William J. Rolfe. It may be confidently pronounced the most beautiful edition of Tennyson's Poetical Works ever offered to the trade. It is issued in twelve volumes, with about five illustrations to each, including photogravures and etchings from paintings by Edward Lear, one of the poet's lifelong friends, and also from landscapes and figure paintings by Doré, Edwin A. Abbey, Frederick Dielman, and others. The text of the edition was collated and edited by Doctor Rolfe, with all of that scrupulous care which has made his name a synonym for accuracy, and the variorum readings and other critical memoranda are invaluable to the reader. In the prosecution of his work, the editor obtained the cordial approval and coöperation of Lord Tennyson and his family. This edition is in the most literal sense definitive. Sold only in sets, 12 volumes, cloth, 12mo, half calf or morocco.

THE VULTURE'S CLAW

By C. F. WIMBERLEY.

Author of "New Clothes for the Old Man," "A Cry in the Night," etc., etc.
12mo; cloth. $1.50.

A story of interesting incidents, quaint sayings, and a certain irresistible humor that makes the whole book appeal to the reader. The originality of the plot and the moral it carries cannot help but be recognized and appreciated. It throbs with human feeling and energy; from the standpoint of an entertaining story it is easily the peer of the writings of John Fox, Jr., and Harold Bell Wright.

From the lovely bluegrass regions of Kentucky to the rugged Ozarks we are taken, and it is in the portrayal of the simple dwellers of the hills that the author is at his best.

THE MONKSGLADE MYSTERY

By HEADON HILL.

Author of "The Duke Decides," "The Epsom Mystery," "Unmasked at Last," etc., etc.

12mo; cloth; illustrated. $1.50.

"At the last session of the Criminal Court I had occasion to sentence to a long term of penal servitude a criminal of the most dangerous character. He was one of a gang of rogues possessing infinite cunning and resource, and he was the only one of the associates whom the police, after years of patient work, have been able to bring to justice. Since passing that sentence I have received a series of anonymous letters threatening me with the vengeance of the convict's former colleagues," and so Dr. Penfold, an athlete, goes to Monksglade as bodyguard to the judge.

THE INVADERS

By JOHN LLOYD.

12mo; cloth; illustrated. $1.50.

The story is one of ranch life and of the troubles with the so-called cattle-thieves, which eventuated in one of the most dramatic incidents of the ever-dramatic West—the famous "Rustler War."

The cattlemen alleged that their fight was one against "Rustlers"; their opponents contended that they were but honest homesteaders, whose only crime was that of fencing in their possessions, thereby destroying the open range. Owen Wister's great story, "The Virginian," gives the cattlemen's side of the controversy; "The Invaders" is written from the opposing viewpoint.

Into this stirring history, the hero, John Thorpe, a tenderfoot, is precipitated, and it is his part in the struggle that furnishes the thread of the story. The love plot introduced early in the tale enlivens the story and sustains the reader's interest throughout.

THE BLUE LAWN

By LORETTO E. KOLLE.

12mo; cloth; illustrated. net, $1.00.

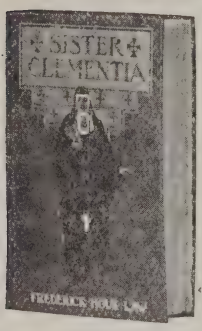
Is the story in which the child of a mother of high social position is reared in the very lap of low but honest peasantry, with all the superstitions and customs common to the fisher-folk of Brittany. It shows the innate struggle against the narrow thought and life, the sameness of days, of the age of centuries, and the application of the love of a childless fisherman for the tender youth that lies beyond his own human garden, yet upon whom he tenderly exerts his care as of the wild flower.

The book gives a deep insight into the lives of these hardy Brittany folk, with their quaint, unchanging customs and religious superstitions.

SISTER CLEMENTIA

By FREDERICK H. LAW.

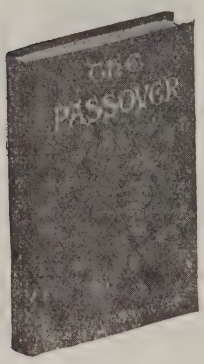


"Sister Clementia" is a story of deep, passionate and lasting love. Like Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," it is also a story of sin and its consequences. The heroine, who is the central figure throughout, is young, sweet, womanly, passionate, impulsive, and thoroughly charming—a character that one loves from the first, and whom the reader will not forget when he has read the book. Having become involved in an unusual situation, she is seen struggling between two ideals of duty. Impulsive and always ready to sacrifice herself for others, she entangles herself in a series of strikings events, with such unexpected terminations that the reader is interested from page to page. The story tells how she takes the failure of her life, repairs its wrong, and at last succeeds in finding a well-deserved happiness. 12mo; cloth. $1.50.

THE PASSOVER, An Interpretation

By CLIFFORD HOWARD.

Author of "The Story of a Young Man," "A Life of Christ," "Did Jesus Live in Nazareth?" etc., etc.



The author has Jesus say to John in commenting upon his betrayal by Judas: "No man would forsake his friend except he was constrained by some untoward temptation." Orthodox records and traditions offer no hint as to the nature of this untoward temptation, of the extraordinary and ruthless, overmastering impulse which alone could have led a chosen friend, and a friend who for more than two years had proved himself faithful and worthy, to suddenly renounce his love and confidence and plot to kill him who had been his constant companion alike in trial and disappointment and triumph and success. Certainly, the lure of thirty pieces of silver—less than twenty dollars—cannot be accepted as anything like an adequate explanation of so remarkable and tragic a revulsion of feeling.

16mo; cloth. net, $1.00.

FOR CHARLES THE ROVER

By MAY WYNNE. Author of "Henry of Navarre," etc., etc.

12mo; cloth. $1.50

A rattling good story of love and intrigue in good old Ireland in the days and for the cause of Charles the Rover.

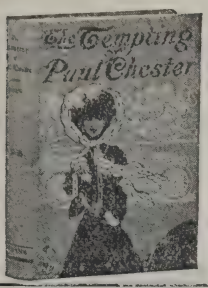
"Of all the days that's in the year
The tenth of June I love most dear,
When sweet white roses do appear
For sake of Charles the Rover.

"Our noble Ormond, he is drest,
A rose is glancing at his breast;
His famous hounds have doffed his crest,
White roses deck them over."

The Tempting of Paul Chester

By ALICE AND CLAUDE ASKEW.

12mo; cloth; Authors of "The Shulamite." $1.50.



Henrietta, Duchess of Berkshire, is the wife of the Premier of England. We cannot but believe, from the evidence of the book, that this is another attempt to project on paper the personality of the woman that poet Watson lampooned in The Woman with the Serpent's Tongue.

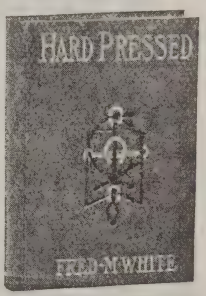
She takes Paul Chester, a coming man, in hand, and the story is the playing out of her game with him. From the start she is put at desperate disadvantage in the reader's eyes, so that it is all the more credit to the authors that at the end she half holds your sympathy.

Hard Pressed

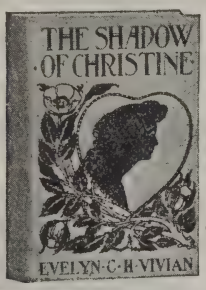
By FRED M. WHITE.

Author of "The Crimson Blind," "Yellow Face," "A Crime on Canvas," etc., etc.

12mo; cloth; $1.50.



A racing story, in which the plot revolves around the winning of the classic event, the Derby, with a lovable heroine, the inevitable foolish father, involved in debt, and consequently subject to the machinations of the villain—the latter a turf blackleg who is masquerading as a nabob who has struck it rich in one of the colonies; the hero a young gentleman who has left his native land under some stress, but who returns in time to take a prominent part in the undoing of the rascal.



The Shadow of Christine

By EVELYN C. H. VIVIAN.

12mo; cloth; $1.50.

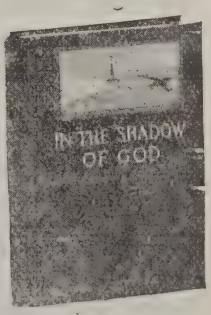
In the character of Christine the author has scored a success. The girl's childlike nature, from which a latent womanliness arises to meet a supreme trial; her reticent patience, her unselfish courage, stand out clearly, giving dignity as well as pathos to the creation. Her conception and handling of this character lead us to look with interest for her future work.

In the Shadow of God

By GUY ARTHUR JAMIESON.

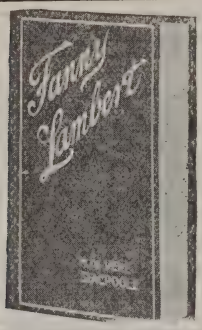
Author of "At the Edge of the Yellow Sky."

12mo; cloth; net, $1.00.



The story begins in the West, picturing the struggle of a youth between what he thinks his duty and a compelling instinct, but as the story progresses the duty becomes a superstition, the instinct the call of God; he follows it, and in doing so finds his soul, rejoices in it, and wins from it at last great power and success. It is a big book with great surprises.

New and Forthcoming Publications



FANNY LAMBERT

By HENRY DE VERE STACPOOLE.

Author of "The Crimson Azaleas," "The Blue Lagoon," etc., etc.

The two chief figures in this story are Fanny Lambert and her father, two entirely unconventional characters, delightfully simple and unworldly. The book is full of irresistibly humorous touches, irresponsible fun being, in fact, its charac eristic feature. The lesser figures, down to the merest thumbnail sketches, are all incisively drawn.

PERSONAL PURITY BOOKS

By ERNEST EDWARDS

Information FOR BOYS
" FOR GIRLS
" FOR YOUNG MEN
" FOR YOUNG WOMEN

Size, 4¼ x 7¼; cloth. Price, 50 cents each

These books are prepared to supply a long-felt want by parents, teachers, ministers, doctors and others having the care of young people by whom verbal instruction or such matters is sometimes considered to be distasteful.

The result of the lack of teaching on this subject is certainly a bad one. Ignorance is one of the worst mind conditions that can obtain. Lack of instruction is the prime cause of ignorance. There is now no reason for that condition to obtain, as these cheap books provide the necessary information in a splendid form, and are being well received by all.

The Modern Mother

A GUIDE TO GIRLHOOD, MOTHERHOOD AND INFANCY

By Dr. H. LANG GORDON

Size, 6 x 8¾; 278 pages; fully illustrated. Price, $2.00

This work marks in its own line the opening of a new epoch. Hitherto such works have been devoted to treatment and a study of the abnormal; here these subjects yield precedence to prevention and a common-sense exposition of the normal. The author, imbued with the spirit of modern preventive medicine, points out the errors and abuses of modern life (so easily avoided and yet so easily yielded to) which affect injuriously the health of women and children. At the same time he clearly assists the mother and others to understand the physiology of womanhood and motherhood, the care of the infant and young girl, and the detection and treatment of common complaints. The subjects of heredity, environment, education and schools, the home-training of children, the physical development of the body and the position of woman in modern life, are among the topics of the day which are touched upon in a new light in this concisely written book. Each of its three sections, Girlhood, Motherhood, and Infancy, provides the mother, the schoolmistress, and the intelligent nurse with a fascinating and easily understood guide and high ideals.

JUST FOR TWO

A COLLECTION OF RECIPES FOR TWO PERSONS

Third Edition Revised.

12mo, cloth, 223 pages Price, 90 cents net

RECIPES are usually designed for five or six people, and the waste caused by using such recipes for a family of two is apparent. Unfortunately any attempt of the young housewife to divide the recipe results in failure.

These recipes are the result of years of patient study and enthusiastic practice and have established for the author an enviable reputation.

An appropriate and useful gift for a bride.

A. B. C. of PHILOSOPHY

12mo Cloth, 148 pages. $0.75

"Once in a while some gifted person has an inspiration, and the world is benefited thereby. Grace F. Landsberg, author of "A B C of Philosophy," certainly had an inspiration. In her preface she says that she hunted for some time for a book which would give her, in a simple, clear and concise manner, the elementary theories of Philosophy, but in vain. The books which she could secure were not only miles beyond her comprehension, but the language used was so confusing that she was really worse off than before. She went to work to compile a book such as she had searched for. She has succeeded, and she should receive the thanks of every college student and lay reader who has found himself in deep water many times, groping around for the sure foothold which her book of reference now provides."—Boston Courier.

BLAND—SUTTON

Tumors, Innocent and Malignant, Their Clinical Characters and Appropriate Treatment. By J. Bland-Sutton, Surgeon to the Chelsea Hospital for Women, Assistant Surgeon to the Middlesex Hospital, London. Fourth Edition. Over 300 Illustrations, Cloth. 556 pp. Price, $5.00, net; postpaid, $5.23.

This work is the latest as well as one of the most complete treatises on Tumor in English. It is written by an acknowledged authority who has practised widely in his specialty, and who has attained high rank in England. The author says, "The widespread interest manifested in this scourge of mankind has induced me to adopt the suggestion of many critics, and include an account of the prevailing but irreconcilable opinions held by competent men in regard to its origin. Nothing is known as to its cause, but the hypotheses, or guesses at truth, concerning it are impartially set forth in these pages.

Some valuable observations have been collated regarding tumors of the ovary and of the testicle : new growths in these remarkable organs where we can almost see life begin are the despair of taxonomists. To avoid difficulty two essays have been devoted to their consideration independently of the general principles of classification contained in the rest of the book. To accommodate this new matter, a chapter on heterotopic teeth and fifty new illustrations, one hundred extra pages have been added to the book."

"We think Bruce has the best section in the action of drugs of any text-book. Certainly there is none in which the student can get such a clear idea of the action of a drug and its preparations. The work which enables the student to learn something of the use and purposes of drugs at the same time as the details of preparation and dosage are being gained has certainly a great advantage. . . . The latter part of the book deals with general therapeutics. . . . Throughout this section the treatment is rational and sound. Self-Control. By Paul Dubois, M.D. Translated from the French by Harry Hutcheson Boyd. 12mo, Cloth. $1.50, net; postpaid, $1.60.

In the present volume he provides a philosophical and direct discussion of what self-control may accomplish and how it may be secured. He takes by chapters the emotions and the impulses and analyzes them critically. He shows the influence of CONSCIENCE, that collection of moral conceptions, and how education founded upon the ideal of determination, develops conscience. He makes plain the importance, the necessity of moral clear-sightedness and expounds the distinction between mere egoism and so-called altruism. He discusses and praises in turn the virtues of MEDITATION, OF TOLERANCE, OF INDULGENCE, OF HUMILITY, OF MODERATION, OF PATIENCE, AND OF CHASTITY, and he exhorts to COURAGE, SINCERITY, and KINDNESS.

Nervous States—Their Nature and Causes. By Paul Dubois, M.D. Authorized translation by E. G. Richards. Just Published. 12mo, Cloth. Price, 75 cents, net; postpaid, 80 cents.

Dr. Dubois points out in this new work that neurasthenia, contrary to general impressions, is not a new disease created entirely by the conditions of modern life. Most men and women are subject to various degrees of neurasthenia, due to the influence of fatigue by which are brought on psychic debilities, so that nature reacts and they become irritable or sad. The most healthy of men may become temporarily neurasthenic.

HUTCHINSON

Syphilis. By Sir Jonathan Hutchinson, F.R.S., LL.D., F.R.C.S. Consulting Surgeon to the London Hospital, and to the Royal London Ophthalmic Hospital. Tenth Thousand. Entirely New Edition and largely rewritten with 12 colored and 24 black and white plates. Octavo, Cloth. 600 pp. Price, $3.00, net; postpaid, $3.17.

This volume has long been out of print, the publication of the present Edition having been delayed by the Author's desire to take full advantage of the demonstration of the Spirochæta pallida as the immediate cause of Syphilis, with the experimental work which has followed that discovery. He suggests that the spirochete is not to be regarded as representing the sum total of Syphilis, and that the complex group of symptoms which results from a spirillum invasium is often more importantly due to the patient's proclivities than to the parasite itself. Among other questions dealt with in the volume is the use of the salts of arsenic in the treatment of Syphilis.

An amazingly instructive volume. It answers many of the objections to Christianity which thoughtless youths of to-day are apt to offer. Translated by J. E. Rankin, D.D., LL.D., President of Howard University. 16mo, Cloth, 58 pp. 50 cents.

This book must prove most serviceable reading placed in the hands of those verging upon manhood, and, read at the right moment, is likely to determine the destiny of the reader.—The Religious Herald, Hartford, Conn.

Bertram, Rev. R. A.

A Homiletic Cyclopedia of Illustrations in Morals

It contains 5,000 useful illustrations and extracts relating to over a thousand religious and theological topics. The quotations are taken from the best authorities in the United States, England, and Continental Europe. The work also embraces the features of a homiletic commentary, throwing light on more than 4,000 texts of Scripture. Large 8vo, Cloth, 896 pp., $3.50; Sheep, $5.00.

The entire book is one extended index—each subject and all its heads and subdivisions are so arranged typographically that everything can be most readily found. In addition, there is a triple set of indexes, the first being an index of arrangements, with all the subdivisions. It serves as an exhaustive homiletical analysis of each topic. The second is the index of subjects, and the third is a textual index.

No book of illustrations for fulness, and, above all, suggestiveness, is worthy to be compared with this work.—Literary World, London.

I like Bertram's Homiletic Cyclopedia better than any collection of illustrations I have ever seen. Its analysis of subjects makes it much superior to a mere mass of quotations alphabetically arranged. It is not simply an orderly collection of beautiful stories, but a series of mosaics.—Josiah Strong, D.D.

To the average minister it will prove a library of valuable and suggestive sermonic material.—Arthur T. Pierson, D.D.

Nearest to our ideal of what such a cyclopedia ought to be.—The Congregationalist, Boston.

If one must read a book through, as usually he should before giving an opinion of its merits or defects, it will be some time before I can give you one about Bertram's Homiletic Cyclopedia. But if sipping at a spring may fairly test its waters, or if eating a bunch of grapes may leave a just impression of a fruit of a vine, I don't know why my scattered readings in this encyclopedia may not justify me in saying that it appears to me an immeasurably rich collection of instruction and suggestive thoughts collected from many writers, evangelical in tone, and sure to be helpful to the mind and heart of one using the volume.—R. S. Storrs, D.D.

Its ground plan is an alphabetical list of subjects, beginning with Adversity and ending with Worship. Each topic is divided sermon-wise into heads, and indeed is a sermon in itself. Under each of these illustrative quotations are given. Writers of every age and school have been laid under contribution.—The British Quarterly.

Its arrangement renders it a useful aid to all religious writers and preachers, and indeed to all religious readers also.—The London Times.

Any pastor who, by reading for fifteen minutes, could not find a sort of inspiration seizing him to go to work upon his sermon must be a man whom the Lord never made for a "preacher."—Bishop Coxe, D.D.

The ease with which any illustration is found is a commendable feature. . . . We are prepared from our examination to indorse the words of Spurgeon: "A very valuable compilation—a golden treasury—an important addition to a minister's library"—and to say that it is remarkably low at the price for which it is published.—The Christian Evangel, Chicago.

No one is likely to overestimate the influence of such a rich collection in a place where it is very difficult or even impossible to command the works of the best religious authors. For many it must necessarily serve as a library of reference and a cabinet of gems.—N. Y. Observer.

Jesus as Problem, Teacher, Personality, and Force

The authors of this volume (W. Bornemann, W. Veit, H. Schuster, and E. Foerster), in which much interest has already been awakened among Continental theologians, belong to a new school of so-called modern theology, the impulse of which was given at Gottingen in 1889 by Albrecht Ritschel. Among its well-known adherents are Harnack, Hermann and Rade. They have been commonly and collectively known as "the friends of the Christian World"; indeed they have so designated themselves, altho they do not form an organized party. Their concern chiefly has been to work out problems in theology by employing methods of modern science; they aim to reconcile the conflict between modern thought and the piety of ancient days. In this field they have shown an intense activity and in Germany have produced notable results. Many German cities have unions that work in the same direction. Frankfort-on-the-Main is generally recognized as the headquarters of the movement. Its leaders aim alike at the elimination of a worn-out orthodoxy and of a radicalism which is opposed to the Christian religion. Translated from the German by George William Gilmore, Associate Editor of the "New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge." 12mo, $1.00, net.

This little book, with its dry humor and its logical sifting of evidence, will do much good in warning people against dietetic fads which are chiefly dangerous, because they reduce the tone of the system and lay it open to attack by disease.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The author points out the happiness missed by those who are unreceptive to the charms of nature. 12mo, Cloth, 282 pp., cover design, gilt top, deckle edges. $1.25.

Forbush, William Byron

Boys' Life of Christ, The

With the same vividness and movement that is found in the favorite juvenile biographies of popular heroes the author portrays the heroic Jesus. He is seen playing the games of boys; camping out with the fishermen; sailing the lake in the storm; braving the enmity of the Mighty; dying like a soldier for a holy cause. The book is dramatic; made of short sentences, crisp descriptions, plenty of dialog. It approaches the divine Jesus through human greatness. 12mo, Cloth, beautifully illustrated, ornamental Cover, 320 pp. $1.25.

Teachers' Edition. Specially prepared by the author to be used as a text-book containing, beside the text, questions and answers for class and home study. 12mo, Cloth, 320 pp. $1.25.

In the art of "writing down" to boys Dr. Forbush is a master. There is no sanctified Sunday-school book touch in the pages, no silly story-telling appealing to sentimentality, but a good, square, honest account of the life that was lived with such tremendous results for the good of the human race.—Newark Advertiser.

Abraham Lincoln, the Emancipator

Vol. V of "American Reformers" Series. This book deals with the man rather than with the statesman and the President, and seats us in cozy chat at the fireside, while the subject of its pages seems to tell his own story. 12mo, Cloth, 398 pp. $1.50.

This biography of Abraham Lincoln subordinates all environing conditions to their proper functions of presenting the personality of the subject in its true light, but also furnishes one of the most interesting ideals of the true American manhood.—The Southern Star, Atlanta.

Mr. French's enthusiasm is impressively genuine, his judgments of men and events notably wise and even-tempered. Nor is any fault to be found with him concerning matters of fact; and author and reader will do well to remember that plain truth about Abraham Lincoln has the charm of romance and almost the uplift of revelation.—Times, Boston.

Funk, Isaac K., LL.D. (see also Standard First Reader and Teachers' Manual)

The Next Step in Evolution

The Present Step—A Study. The author believes that "Christ came the first time into men's vision by coming on the plane of their senses; He comes the second time into men's vision by lifting them up to his plane of spiritual comprehension. It means a new step in the evolution of man." 16mo, Cloth, frontispiece, 106 pp. 50 cents.

The Psychic Riddle

A record of psychic investigation since the publication of "The Widow's Mite and Other Psychic Phenomena," giving new typical cases of the several classes of phenomena. 12mo, Cloth, 243 pp., indexed. $1.00.

Without bias one way or the other, Dr. Funk neither condemns the spiritualistic explanation, nor accepts as conclusive the apparent evidence of a future life disclosed by his painstaking investigations. His point of view is that of an honest, intelligent reporter of things that he has seen and heard, or that have been fully substantiated, by testimony derived from unimpeachable sources. . . . The whole book is, in fact, a suggestive and highly important addition to the rapidly increasing number of treatises on this subject.—Boston Transcript.

The Widow's Mite

And Other Psychic Phenomena. This book brings psychic investigations and the best thought concerning them down to date. It presents hundreds of experiences along psychic lines, and reasons most carefully concerning them. It gives fairly all sides. The author says: "I say neither 'No' nor 'Yes' to telepathy, the subjective-mind theory, spiritualism, etc., for I don't know. I simply give the facts I and others have seen, and ask 'What is it?'" The answer of nearly forty of the world's best-known psychologists are here given with these marvelous experiences of a quarter of a century's careful investigations of psychic phenomena. Large 8vo, Cloth, 538 pages. $2.00.

This is a great book. . . . It makes men think.—Elbert Hubbard, Editor of The Philistine.

Grasset, Joseph, M.D. (Professor of Clinical Medicine, University of Montpelier, France)

Marvels Beyond Science (L'Occultisme Hier et Aujourd'hui)

Being a record of progress in the reduction of occult phenomena to a scientific basis. With a preface by Emile Faguet of the French Academy. Authorized English translation by René Jacques Tubeuf, Fellow of the University of Paris. Emile Faguet, of the French Academy, says of the present work, which deals with the success of scientific investigation in reducing occult phenomena to a scientific basis, that Dr. Grassett has succeeded thus far in his efforts to do what sailors do when they "calculate the reckoning of the ship." He has aimed scrupulously to mark the boundary between things already known and those which still remain beyond our understanding. The author presents "a disocculated realm"—that is, he presents phenomena that formerly were looked upon as occult, but which are now fully explained and accounted for. Among these are hypnotic sleep, the unconscious will of movers of tables, the unconscious imagination of mediums, and the unconscious memory of hypnotized persons. M. Faguet declares that Dr. Grasset is "endowed with a scientist's cardinal virtues." Readers of the book will confirm this judgment. Dr. Grasset has no prejudice. He seeks out causes in the known forces of life, and thus shows how remarkable is the progress that has been made in reducing these phenomena to science. He believes that such phenomena as are still regarded as occult will, in a comparatively short space of time, be included in the catalog of accepted scientific principles. Among these are mental suggestion, direct intercourse of thought, articles removed without touch, sight through opaque substances, telepathy, premonitions, materializations, etc. Beginning with the earliest manifestations of these phenomena in Europe, including Mesmer and Cagliostro, he brings within his survey the whole range of phenomena from that day down to our own, including Palladino. 8vo. $1.75, net.

The Semi-Insane and the Semi-Responsible *

"Demifous et Demiresponsables" by Joseph Grasset, M.D., Professor of Clinical Medicine at the University of Montpelier, France; National Member of National Academy of Medicine, and Laureate of the Institute. Translated by Smith Ely Jelliffe, M.D., New York. Authorized American Edition. No contribution to psychiatry could be more opportune than this. Dr. Grasset discusses the medico-legal aspect of crimes committed by persons who, through genius, heredity, up-bringing, or trouble, are not wholly insane, and yet are not wholly sane. This is the only literature on this particular classification. 8vo, Cloth, 415 pp. $2.50, net; by mail, $2.68.

Well written and destined to become the expert's vade mecum in future medico-legal discussions.—The Nation, New York.

It presents, in a striking manner, many questions which well merit extended consideration and discussion.—Judge Victor J. Dowling, Supreme Court, New York.

The Dethronement of the City Boss

Being a Study of the Commission Plan as begun in Galveston, developed and extended in Des Moines, and already taken up by many other cities, East and West. 12mo, Cloth, 285 pp. $1.20, net; by mail, $1.30.

It is a clear-cut, comprehensive exposition of the Des Moines or commission plan of government, not only carefully analyzed but written in excellent English. Certain chapters alone would give one the best conception he could possibly get of the Commission Plan of City Government—better, perhaps, than he could get elsewhere. . . . The author has been interested in municipal government for many years, including the adoption and initiation of the Commission Plan in Des Moines, and has been familiar with its workings ever since. The book should be in the hands of everyone; especially should it be distributed largely in those cities where the adoption of the commission plan of government is under consideration.—Mayor James R. Hanna, of Des Moines, May 21, 1910.

Mr. Hapgood has undertaken in this volume to present a record of his actual experience in observing unusual phases of life in the underworld in New York. Hexaglot Bible, The Comprizing the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments in the original tongues. The work presents the Scriptures of the Old Testament in six languages, the Hebrew, Greek, Latin, English, German, and French, and the New Testament in Greek, Syriac, Latin, English, German, and French. The texts are conveniently arranged in six parallel columns, three columns on each of two opposite pages. Edited by the Rev. Edward Riches De Levante, M.A., Ph.D. Assisted by competent Biblical scholars. Six volumes, quarto, Cloth. $40.00.

The texts are those of the highest authorities. The Hebrew is that of Van der Hooght, carefully revised. The Greek in the Old Testament is Dr. Tischendorf's latest edition, with gaps supplied in brackets, from various sources, and in the New Testament, Dr. Tischendorf's eighth edition similarly supplemented. The Latin of the Old Testament is the Clementine edition of the Vulgate, and in the New Testament, Dr. Tischendorf's edition of the Codex Amiatinus, with gaps supplied in brackets, from the Clementine edition. The Syriac (in the New Testament only) is based on the noted "Biblia Sacra Polyglotta." The English is the Authorized Version; the German, Martin Luther's translation, and the French is the translation by David Martin with revisions.

It is not only a sumptuous book for a library, but is also a book of comparative versions which will be of incalculable convenience and value. . . . Each version has been committed to a scholar specially qualified for editing it, and the whole has been produced in a style of printing which places the work at the head of the Biblical texts of this country.—British Quarterly Review.

It seems to me to be a very valuable work, and is edited competently and correctly. The arrangement of the New Testament is excellent, and gives us every version of primary importance as well as the original Greek.—The Very Rev. the Dean of Canterbury.

I have satisfied myself that "The Hexaglot Bible" is useful to students.—His Grace the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury.

We have tested its accuracy in several passages, and certainly with gratification and success. It is clear that no pains and no expense have been spared on the production of this work, which does infinite credit to the enterprise and good taste of the publishers. It is a marvel of accurate and beautiful typography.—The Evening Standard.

Love and the Soul Hunters ‡

A novel which is considered to be one of the most successful literary achievements of this gifted author. The world in which it moves is the world of high aristocracy and high finance. It gives vignettes of the people who live in these high circles, their characters, their manners, and their mode of life. The book touches the notes of luxury, materialism, rank, and immense wealth, and is a brilliant picture of that modern society in which the royalty and pride of birth of the Old World clash with the wealth, enterprise, and liberal ideas of the New. 12mo, Cloth, 343 pp., ornamental cover. $1.50.

Profit and Loss in Man **

The New Gospel of Patriotic, Economic, and Political Common Sense on the Temperance Question. The most up-to-date and powerful plea for Prohibition upon purely economic grounds that has been written in years. It is calm and dispassionate and discusses the problem from the cold matter-of-fact standard of dollars and cents. Contents:—I. The Cost of a Boy. II. Boy and Bar. III. Manhood and Gold. IV. Labor, Liquor, and Law. V. Christian Loyalty. VI. Barabbas. VII. Moral and Political Force. VIII. Moral Facts and Political Factors. IX. Dictionary Politics. X. A Curse, a Crime, and the Cure. XI. Publicans and Republicans. XII. Democrats and Drink. XIII. Methods of Settlements. 12mo, Cloth, 376 pp. $1.20, net; by mail, $1.32.

The unique idea of placing temperance on a commercial basis, of considering the difference between the actual cash value of a man who drinks and a man who abstains, is intensely interesting and profitable. Prof. Hopkins claims that each young man twenty-one years of age represents a cost to society of two thousand dollars ($2,000). Will he pay—will he "make good"—on the investment if he becomes a drinker? That's the question! In the United States are one and a half million of drunkards—a stupendous loss of an investment aggregating over five billions of dollars ($5,000,000,000).—Cumberland Presbyterian, Nashville, Tenn.

This is an exceptionally fine work. The cyclopedia is a model of selection and classification. Jefferson's noblest thoughts and most convincing arguments will be found in this volume.—The Sun, Baltimore.

Not only a compendium of Jefferson's writings but a manual of Jeffersonian doctrine, accurate, complete, and impartial, giving Jefferson's views, theories, and ideas in his own words. Mr. Foley has done his work sympathetically and well. The cyclopedic form is admirably suited to this preparation as being the most convenient possible for reference. Naturally the work as thus presented has peculiar interest at this moment when so many new international questions confront the United States.—Philadelphia Times.

There has been nothing like "The Jeffersonian Cyclopedia." Altogether it is such a presentation of the thoughts of Jefferson as we remember to have been equaled in the case of no other person outside of sacred history.—Buffalo Express.

The text has been done with care and discrimination. The respectable but handy volume, in so far as it is representative of the opinions of the statesman, is an admirable substitute for his entire works. And for purposes of quick reference it is of course superior. And those whose acquaintance with his works is slight will get a very good idea of the extent of his wisdom and experience by turning over these pages. The work is so satisfactory that it makes one wonder why it was not done before.—The Evening Sun, N. Y.

Lodge, Henry Cabot, LL.D. (and others)

The Best of the World's Classics ‡ (Restricted to Prose)

Henry Cabot Lodge, Editor-in-Chief; Francis W. Halsey, Associate Editor. As Senator Lodge sets forth in his Introduction, this work represents "an attempt to give, from all periods and languages of Western civilization, examples of what is best and most memorable in their prose literature." In this endeavor, personal preferences have been suppressed and general principles followed on broad and enduring lines. The term "classics" has been used, not in a narrow or technical sense, but rather in the sense of Thoreau, who defined them as "the noblest recorded thoughts of mankind." Examples, therefore, have been taken from great writings which have moved and influenced thought; from writers historically important, and from works representative of the various literatures of the world, including specimens from the masters of English prose. Senator Lodge's Introduction is an essay, notable in itself, comprizing, as it does, twenty-five pages of the work. 10 volumes, illustrated with frontispieces. Bound in Cloth, Half Leather, and Full Leather. Sold only by subscription.

Oehler's "Theology of the Old Testament" has for a generation been considered as at the head of all treatises on the subject—a subject which just now has assumed unusual prominence, especially to those who are persuaded that the Old Testament and the New stand or fall together.—T. W. Chambers, D.D.

Oehler represents the best results of the study of "Progress of Doctrine in the Old Testament," and prepares the way for the construction of Biblical theology proper, in the unity of a system founded on theological principles, viz.: the relations of divine self-manifestations and communications, and operations throughout the period of the history of revelation to the ends of revelation.—Joseph T. Duryea, D.D., Boston.

This elaborate work of Dr. Oehler is one of the most valuable in modern theological literature, and is frequently cited as a standard of the highest authority.—The Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.

FEATURES OF THE WORK AND ARRANGEMENT OF THE VOLUMES.

In the ordinary sense of the term the "People's Bible" is not a Biblical Commentary. The scope is broader. It is a work not only for the minister and student, but for the people. It is not intended to take the place of verbal or critical commentaries. It is not a series of sermons. There are no sermons, as such, in the entire work. The volumes are arranged as follows : 1. Genesis; 2. Exodus 3. Leviticus–Numbers, xxv.; 4. Numbers, xxvi.–Deuteronomy; 5. Joshua–Judges, v.; 6. Judges, vi.–I Samuel, xvii.; 7. I. Samuel, xviii.–I. Kings, xiii.; 8. I. Kings, xv.–I. Chronicles, ix.; 9. I. Chronicles, x.–II. Chronicles, xx.; 10. II. Chronicles, xxi.–Esther; 11. Job; 12. The Pulpit Bible ‡

The entire text of the Bible is printed in large clear type with bright and suggestive illustrations in an ample margin opposite each significant verse. The author's notes alone run to over 750,000 words. The notes are all original and they indicate the special pulpit use of each verse (where available) in the Bible. Each note is thus a suggestion for a sermon. Where space has not permitted a sufficient treatment of any passage, a copious and most carefully detailed Index indicates in which of Dr. Parker's other books the particular interpretation is provided. Quarto, Full Morocco, 1,351 pp., one volume. $15.00.

A page of Parker is worth a whole volume of some sermons that we have seen in print, and the preacher who studies him and makes an honest adaptation of his pungent expositions can not fail to make himself a more interesting and profitable teacher of the Word.—The New York Observer.

FEATURES OF THE CONTENTS.

IT BRINGS TO THE PREACHER'S ATTENTION hundreds of texts heretofore almost wholly passed over by the pulpit. Spurgeon, in his Commenting and Commentaries, says: "We have next to nothing on Kings." In the Homiletic Commentary we have on Kings alone 743 treatments of texts. The same is true of other books, as Jeremiah. New expositions, critical notes, illustrations, etc., are poured in upon neglected texts, and additional light thrown upon old texts.

IT IS THE ONLY COMMENTARY that supplies a sermonic treatment of homiletic suggestion on every verse of both the Old and New Testaments that can be used to advantage as a sermon text.

IT CONCENTRATES THE LIGHT of all ages and of all countries on the text.

IT IS WHOLLY FREE FROM DENOMINATIONAL BIAS, being strictly evangelical.

IT SUGGESTS THOUSANDS OF THEMES AND ILLUSTRATIONS for sermons, also many hundreds of useful illustrations.

IT THROWS NEW LIGHT upon the present controversies over the Old Testament.

THE COMMENTARY IS WHOLLY IN ENGLISH, avoiding Hebrew and Greek, except here and there in the critical notes.

THE INDEXES are useful and practical.

The "History of Ferdinand and Isabella" is a work that unites the fascination of romantic fiction with the grave interest of authentic events. —H. T. Tuckerman: Sketch of American Literature.

The genius of Mr. Prescott as a historian has never been exhibited to better advantage than in this very remarkable volume ("Philip the Second"), which is grounded on varied and ample authority. It marches like a cavalry squadron; it is swift, animated, glittering; it is radiant, pictorial, and flushed, as tho the writer were exulting in his amplitude of materials and perfect mastery of details.—Lord Macaulay.

So long as in ages far distant, and not only in countries now refined and polished, but in those not yet brought into the domain of civilization, the remarkable epoch which he has described shall attract the attention of men; so long as the consolidation of the Spanish monarchy, and the expulsion of the Moors, the mighty theme of the discovery of America, the sorrowful glories of Columbus, the mail-clad forms of Cortez and Pizarro and the other grim conquistadores, trampling new-found empires under the hoofs of their cavalry, shall be subjects of literary interest; so long as the blood shall curdle at the cruelties of Alva, and the fierce struggle of the Moslem in the East—so long will the writings of William H. Prescott be read.—Edward Everett.

Prevention of Disease, The ‡

Rightly used, "The Pulpit Commentary" can not fail to be a rich resource for both intellectual and spiritual stimulation and culture to any student.—Prof. W. C. Wilkinson, D.D., University of Chicago.

The exposition is scholarly, without the slightest trace of pedantry, and is characterized not only by great historical knowledge, but by considerable freshness of treatment and spiritual insight.—The Literary World, London, Eng.

The volumes of this commentary complete an immense work; they are the ripe fruit of leading scholars and homilists. This commentary will be one of the greatest achievements of sanctified learning in the closing years of the nineteenth century. They admirably combine exegetical skill and homiletical application. One is filled with admiration at the wealth of sermonic material furnished in these remarkable volumes.—R. S. MacArthur, D.D., New York.

"The Pulpit Commentary" has the merit of giving, in advance of its homiletical suggestions, a thorough exegetical and expository treatment of the text, furnishing to the honest sermon-maker all the material for an independent outline, which he may afterward improve by comparison with the methods of other men as given in the homiletical section.—T. D. Witherspoon, D.D., Louisville Presbyterian Theol. Seminary.

I find it (i. e., the psychological basis from which the main thought of the book is developed) "new and valuable."—Dr. J. Mark Baldwin, Professor of Psychology, Johns Hopkins University.

Studies in all fields of esthetics and literature have given him a special power to present a great many current religious questions in a way that will prove acceptable to serious-minded people who find themselves on the borderland between the Christian and the non-Christian fields of belief. I predict that it will interest many and prove helpful to them all.—Hon. William T. Harris, formerly U. S. Commissioner of Education, Washington, D. C.

A book that everybody should read . . . medicinal for profest Christians, and full of guidance and encouragement for those finding themselves somewhere between the desert and the town. The sane, fair, kindly attitude taken gives of itself a profitable lesson. The author proves conclusively that his mind—and if his, why not another?—can be at one and the same time sound, sanitary, scientific, and essentially religious.—The Examiner, Chicago.

"Professor Raymond is a clear thinker, an able writer, and an earnest Christian, and his book is calculated to be greatly helpful to those in particular who, brought up in the Christian faith, find it impossible longer to reconcile the teachings of the Church with the results of modern scientific thought."—Newark (N. J.) Evening News.

As the gain to the idea of the organic brotherhood of man will be proportionate to the widening of the horizon and the deepening of the sympathies of each individual traveler, so will the gain be to the idea of the organic Christian unity on each spiritual traveler voyaging across the sea of truth, in search of new aspects of it for himself. The object of Prof. Raymond's book is to encourage him to make the voyage.—Book-News Monthly, Philadelphia.

Few have succeeded in treating the subject as convincingly as Prof. Raymond.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The author writes with logic and a 'sweet reasonableness' that will doubtless convince many halting minds. It is an inspiring book.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Atonia Gastrica *

Atonia gastrica, by which term is understood abdominal relaxation and ptosis of the viscera, is a subject of vast importance, as has been proved by the avalanche of literature it has caused during the last decade. The relation of some ailments to abdominal relaxation has only been recognized since the author's method of abdominal strapping has been adopted and extensively practised. This book gives in attractive form all we know in regard to the etiology of the subject; it describes and treats of the significance of the plaster strapping as the most rational therapeutic measure. The illustrations given with the description will prove of much practical value to those who wish to give the method a trial, but who have not had the opportunity to see the Rose belt applied. 12mo, Cloth. $1.00, net.

Carbonic Acid in Medicine *

This book to many readers will be a revelation. It sets forth facts about the healing qualities of carbonic acid gas, which were known centuries ago, and then strangely passed into disuse until they had became unjustly forgotten. 12mo, Cloth, 268 pp. $1.00, net; by mail, $1.08.

Rosenbach, Prof. O., M.D.

Physician vs. Bacteriologist *

Rosenbach has published a large number of clinical, experimental, and critical papers on diagnostic, therapeutic, hygienic, and general pathological questions. One of his works, forming part of Nothnagel's great encyclopedia, has already appeared in English translation. Among the prominent men of the medical profession of to-day Rosenbach is certainly, more than any other, an original thinker, observer, and investigator, who makes no concessions to the extravagant fashions in medicine at the present time. His aim is to place medicine on a rational basis, whence bacteriological aberrations have been endeavoring to banish it. This book treats on morbid proliferation of specialism in medicine and a one-sided organotherapy; it opposes unjustified and unwarranted claims of the bacteriologist, aiming at tuberculin and the legion of serums. Translated from the German by Dr. Achilles Rose. 12mo, Cloth, 455 pp. $1.50, net; by mail, $1.66.

The thorough and comprehensive manner in which the author has examined and discussed the subject can not fail to be of very great interest, if not enlightenment, to the medical profession.—The Medical Summary, Philadelphia.

Through this essay, which outlines the evolution of industry, he does not lose sight of his principles; namely, that labor and capital are but equivalents of each other; that the sum of the labor problem is the discovery of the just terms on which the exchange should be made; that the employer has failed to pay proper attention to the labor problem of to-day; that the workmen have studied the problem and have discovered means for the betterment of their own condition.—Current Literature, New York.

Sermon Bible, The

A sermon library, containing 4,800 sermon outlines with more than 24,000 homiletical references and embracing the whole of the Sacred Scriptures. It gives the essence of the very best homiletic literature of the present generation, and it is a source of inexhaustible help to the preacher, student, or other Christian worker. In 12 volumes. 12mo, Cloth. $1.50 per volume; $18.00 per set.

FEATURES OF THE CONTENTS.

The plan of the work, in general, gives under each text, each being in its consecutive order from Genesis to Revelation: (1) Outline of important sermons by eminent preachers which exist only in manuscript or periodicals, and are thus inaccessible; or, (2) less full outlines of sermons which have appeared in volumes that are not well known or easily obtained; or, (3) reference to or very brief outlines of sermons which appear in popular volumes such as are likely to be in a preacher's library; and (4) full references to theological treatises, commentaries, etc., where any help is given to the elucidation of the text. Thus the preacher, having chosen his text, has only to refer to the Sermon Bible to find some of the best outlines and suggestions on it and very helpful references to all the aids available. Blank pages are bound in the end of each volume for manuscript notes.

Disraeli: A Study in Personality and Ideas ‡

The utterances of Disraeli in his books and in his speeches, with the striking events in his life, private as well as public, form the basis of this study of the man and his message. His personality, the underlying principles of his brilliant statesmanship, his enduring theories on labor, church, monarchy, foreign policy, empire, society, literature, and many other subjects so full of light and guidance for to-day's problems are given clear and scholarly explanation. 8vo, Cloth, illustrated, 335 pp. $2.50.

The life-work of Benjamin Disraeli in literature, equally as in politics, is one of the most wondrous tales which sober truth has ever told. —John Morley.

The author has gone seriously into his subject, making a well-sustained effort to interpret Disraeli as a man and as a great public figure. He enriches it, we may add, by many apt bits of personalia, giving color and animation to his work.—New York Tribune.

The book abounds in interesting and humorous anecdotes—some old, some new—and quotations from its subject's writings and speeches, which illustrate both his remarkable literary gift of expression and his statesmanlike views and ideals.—Chicago Tribune.

The work as a whole gives one a broader and more intelligent appreciation than ever before of the strong, far-seeing, and commanding genius of the man, at the same time doing substantial justice to the statesmanship and great genius of his great rival, Gladstone, so far as it treats of him.—The Nashville American.

The volume is one of the few important bi, ographies of the year.—The World To-day-Chicago.

How Paris Amuses Itself

This jolly, handsome book is the very incarnation of that spirit of amusement which reigns supreme in the capital of the world's fun. The author unites the graphic skill of the artist, the infectious enthusiasm of the lover of fun and gaiety, and the intimate personal knowledge of the long-time resident in this great playground of the world. In spirit the reader can visit with a delightful comrade all the nooks of jollity known only to the initiated, and enjoy all the sparkle and glitter of that ever-moving panorama of gaiety. 135 illustrations, six in colors, 16 full-page half-tone inserts, 58 full-page text drawings, 55 half-page and smaller text drawings by the author and several French artists. 12mo, Cloth, ornamental cover, 334 pp. $1.50.

If you wish to thoroughly soak yourself with the concentrated essence of enjoyment, read this book quickly. It is too good to miss.—Phila. Item.

Few men since Thackeray have succeeded in making Bohemian Paris such a living, breathing thing.—Baltimore Herald.

In London Town

This is the fourth book from the pen and brush of this talented author, the first three presenting vivid and highly entertaining prose and picture studies of life in Paris. In his new book he has changed his sphere of action and "In London Town" he will be found at his best. The hotels, the music halls and those who frequent them, the gay procession on the Strand, and in fact all the phases that go to make up every-day (and night) life in the great British maelstrom are flashed before the reader's eyes in a captivating fashion. Cloth, profusely illustrated with sketches and photos. $1.50.

It is brilliantly written. The glimpses of London are not at all like anything we are accustomed to in descriptions of London. Mr. Smith knows London well and has written a charming and graceful sketch of its life.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Parisians Out of Doors

It is said of the French that they live out of doors, and Mr. Smith in this book gives a true picture of this real life of the Parisian. On the land and on the water, in the gardens, the parks, at the summer resorts in the mountains and at the seashore, the automobile trips, the reader mingles with the throng of pleasure-seekers, of dilettanti, of workers. 12mo, Cloth, water-color frontispiece by F. Hopkinson Smith, and numerous drawings and photographs by the author. $1.50.

It is a kaleidoscopic miscellany of anecdote, grave and gay; brief bits of biography and impressionistic portrayal of types, charming glimpses into Parisian life and character, and, above all, descriptions of the city's chief, and to outward view, sole occupation—the art of enjoying oneself. Tourists have learned that Mr. Smith is able to initiate them into many mysterious uncatalogued or only guardedly hinted at by more staidly respectable and professional guides.—The Globe, New York.

The Real Latin Quarter

Racy sketches of the life and characters of the famous Bohemia of Paris. So real are its descriptions that the reader feels that he has taken an actual trip through the Quarter, enjoyed the good cheer at Lavenue's, listened to the chansons at Marcel Legay's, looked down upon the giddy whirl of the Bal Bullier, peeped into studios, chatted with models, and seen every nook and corner of this celebrated community. With 100 drawings and camera snap shots by the author, two caricatures in color by the French caricaturist Sancha, and water-color frontispiece by F. Hopkinson Smith. 12mo, Cloth, 205 pp. $1.20.

It is like a trip to Paris.—Charles D. Gibson.

It is the real thing.—John W. Alexander.

You have left nothing undone.—Frederic Remington.

When you have read this book you know the "Real Latin Quarter" as well as you will ever come to know it without living there yourself.—The Mail and Express, New York.

Smith, Goldwin, D.C.L., LL.D.

The Moral Crusader: William Lloyd Garrison

A biographical essay, founded on "The Story of Garrison's Life, Told by His Children." With Portrait. 12mo, Cloth, 200 pp. $1.00.

Each year brings a new book about William Lloyd Garrison, but one of the best stories comes to us from a foreign pen—that of Goldwin Smith.—New York Herald.

This essay is worthy of a place in every American library.—Morning Star, Boston.

It presents him as he was, indomitable, persevering, careless of the opinion of others, believing in the one cause to which he was devoted, and fighting on in immovable self-confidence until the day of his triumph came, and slavery was abolished throughout the land.—The Presbyterian, Philadelphia.

There is hardly a phase of Christian labor within the limits of church development which does not find adequate and intelligent treatment. —The Outlook, New York.

It wastes no space in discussing the need of work in the perfecting of the Christian character; that it takes for granted. After spending but a few pages in enforcing the need of some real method in arrangement of church work, and in a second chapter discussing the value of the pulpit, pastoral work, praying bands, cards, etc., etc., in stirring a church into activity, our author plunges boldly into the practical work. . . . We heartily commend this book. It is clearly written. It is practical. It is rich in answers to questions occurring to every active pastor, as well as to every one interested in the active work and prosperity of God's cause.—Church Press, New York.

COMMON MEANINGS GIVEN FIRST.—The common meaning of the word is given first, the rarer meanings and etymology afterward. This makes the Standard Dictionary easier to consult and more useful for practical purposes than any other dictionary.

DISPUTED SPELLINGS AND PRONUNCIATIONS have been dealt with more thoroughly than ever before. Not only were they referred to a committee of fifty-seven of the most eminent philologists in English, American, Canadian, Australian, and East-Indian universities for consideration, but the preferences of each member of the committee, and also of all other dictionaries, are given in a special appendix. This is an exclusive feature of the Standard Dictionary.

THE PROPER USE OF PREPOSITIONS has been explained with many illustrations throughout the Standard. This helpful feature is not equaled in other dictionaries.

A VALUABLE SYSTEM OF GROUP INDEXES is provided exclusively in the Standard Dictionary. By this system all the facts concerning important classes of words—such as coins, fruits, flowers, measures, weights, carpentry, printing, astronomy, colors, etc.—are easily ascertained.

COMPOUNDING AND SYLLABICATION OF WORDS have been, for the first time in dictionary-making, reduced to a scientific system in the Standard Dictionary.

THE PROPER USE OF CAPITAL INITIAL LETTERS is indicated throughout the vocabulary, only such words as should be written with a capital being so printed. No other dictionary is a guide in this matter.

THE SOURCES OF QUOTATIONS used to verify or illustrate the meanings of words have been fully indicated, so that any quotation can be easily found in the book or periodical from which it was taken.

THE MANY COLORED PLATES in the Standard are marvels of exquisite art work and definitive value, and far excel in number and beauty anything of the kind in other dictionaries.

THE APPENDIX, containing over 47,000 additional entries, brings together in one alphabetical order the important proper names that are pronounced and explained.

A VALUABLE DEPARTMENT OF "FAULTY DICTION" gives many examples of the wrong use of words, and corrects many common errors.

Standard Family Physician, The **

This work is a translation and American edition of Reissig's "Das Aerztliche Hausbuch," a work by thirty or forty leading German medical specialists. It has been edited and Americanized by equally eminent authorities in this country, including Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffe (Nervous Diseases, Professor of Pharmacognosy and Instructor in Materia Medica and Therapeutics Columbia University, Attending Neurologist City Hospital, Managing Editor Journal of Nervous and Mental Disease); Dr. Frank E. Miller (Nose and Throat, Consulting Laryngologist St. Joseph's Hospital, Consulting Laryngologist Metropolitan College of Music, Member of American Laryngological and Rhinological Association); Dr. Geo. R. Fowler (General Surgery, Consulting Surgeon St. Mary's Hospital, Surgeon Methodist Episcopal Hospital, Surgeon-in-Chief Brooklyn Hospital, Senior Surgeon German Hospital, Member American Surgical Association); Dr. Isadore Dyer (Genito-Urinary Diseases, Lecturer and Clinical Instructor in Dermatology Medical Department of Tulane University, Dermatologist to the Charity Hospital, Consulting Dermatologist Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital, Professor of Diseases of the Skin, New Orleans Polyclinic, Member of American Dermatological Association); Dr. G. R. Butler (Heart and Lungs, Attending Physician Methodist Episcopal Hospital, Author of "Diagnostics of Internal Medicine"); Dr. H. V. Wurdemann (Eye and Ear, Professor of Ophthalmology and Otology Milwaukee Medical College and Chief of Eye Clinic; Ophthalmic and Aural Surgeon Trinity Hospital, Milwaukee County Hospital, Children's Hospital, Milwaukee County Hospital for the Insane); Dr. Arthur R. Elliott (Internal Medicine); Dr. William A. White (Mental Diseases, Superintendent Government Hospital for the Insane, Washington, D. C., Professor of Nervous and Mental Diseases, Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., Professor and Clinical Professor of Mental Diseases, George Washington University, Washington, D. C.); Dr. Douglas W. Montgomery (Skin Diseases). While the text of the work is couched in clear, plain language, making it easily understood by the layman, the work is absolutely authoritative and is officially indorsed by the Congress of Physicians which recently convened at Rostock. It is the first medical book that has been compiled in a popular manner by recognized professors and physicians. It treats of the construction of the body; the origin, the diagnosis, and treatment of diseases; the relation of physician and patient. In the second part it gives in about one thousand pages alphabetically arranged all that is worth knowing about the origin, the course, treatment, and prevention of diseases; about nursing, nutrition; the several kinds of treatment (water, light, air, massage); first help in case of accident; the relation between vocation of the patient and the disease, and many other things. Nearly 500 illustrations, including 24 colored plates scientifically executed. Two volumes, Buckram. $15.00 per set, net. Three-quarter Morocco, $20.00, net. Carriage extra.

I have examined with care the Standard Family Physician, and I am glad to recognize in it a work which the medical profession can safely endorse. I hope it will meet with a large sale, and thus help to dissipate the deplorable ignorance of the masses regarding hygiene and health which is daily brought to the attention of this department. No home should be considered complete without it.—Thomas Darlington, M.D., Pres. Board of Health, New York City.

Standard First Reader, The (see also under "Teachers' Manual")

This is the first book of the Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reader Series, and is the result of many years of careful labor and of consultation with prominent educators both in America and in England. Throughout the making of this Reader the editors have kept constantly in mind the fact that a child learns words by trying to understand or by trying to tell some thought, and that he will learn these words as readily if the thought is something worth while as if it is trivial. Of the various instructive thoughts preference is given in this Reader to those that give in-form-ation, that build character. Edited by Isaac K. Funk, LL.D. (Editor-in-Chief of the Standard Dictionary), and Montrose J. Moses, B.S. With illustrations by Charles M. Relyea, Louise L. Heustis, Harrie A. Stoner, Oliver J. Nugent, and music by Harriet Ware and Harvey Worthington Loomis. Square 12mo, Cloth, 112 pp. 35 cents.

DISTINGUISHING FEATURES.

I. WORDS ARE TAUGHT IN CONNECTION WITH THOUGHT.

In teaching words to a child the words should not be separated from the thought, and the child should be kept as free as possible from self-consciousness.

II. PUPILS ARE LED TO THINK THOUGHTS THAT ARE WORTH KNOWING AND THAT BUILD CHARACTER.

It is the aim in this series of Readers to make each lesson instructive and character-building.

III. CAREFUL PROVISIONS ARE MADE FOR DRILLS IN THE VOWEL AND CONSONANT SOUNDS.

The object is to have the children, by the time they have finished the book, familiar with the sounds that make up the language.

IV. THE SCIENTIFIC ALPHABET, INVENTED AND RECOMMENDED BY THE LEADING PHILOLOGISTS OF AMERICA AND ENGLAND, IS USED FOR PRONUNCIATION PURPOSES; ONE SOUND FOR EACH SYMBOL, ONE SYMBOL FOR EACH SOUND.

This system of diacritics is superior to all other systems in simplicity, exactness, and thoroughness for training the pupils to pronounce the sounds of the language.

V. THE PUPIL IS TAUGHT TO DETECT AND PRODUCE THE SOUNDS THAT MAKE THE LANGUAGE.

Experiments made by the United States Commissioner of Education, W. T. Harris, show that reading based upon a phonetic system is more readily learned than reading taught without any phonetic system.

VI. THE AIM IS TO GET RID OF EVERYTHING THAT HINDERS CLEAR ENUNCIATION.

Effort should be made to detect and overcome every defect in the action of the organs of speech, such as drawling, stammering, and weakness of voice.

VII. THE ILLUSTRATIONS ARE BY THE VERY BEST ARTISTS, AND HELP TO EXPLAIN THE TEXT.

The aim has been to help fasten thought, not simply to make a picture.

VIII. EVERY EFFORT HAS BEEN MADE TO BRING THE CHILD IN CLOSE SYMPATHY WITH NATURE THROUGH NATURE LESSONS.

A First Reader, especially, is fatally faulty that does not smell of the earth, of the woods, of the new-mown hay, of flowers.

IX. SIX SONGS, SPECIALLY COMPOSED BY MUSICAL EXPERTS, ARE USED IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE PHONETIC DRILLS.

A staff of music is given with each lesson, and all the staves under one group of sounds make a complete song.

X. THE SCRIPT LETTERS USED ARE SO SIMILAR TO PRINT AS TO MAKE THE LEARNING OF SCRIPT INCIDENTAL; THIS LEADS TO NO CONFUSION.

XI. EFFORTS ARE MADE TO INSPIRE PATRIOTISM, HONESTY, COURAGE, CONSCIENCE, INDUSTRY, LOVE FOR FELLOWS, THE BEGINNINGS OF PUBLIC SPIRIT; TO MAKE THE PUPILS SELF-DEPENDENT AND RESOURCEFUL.

No better service can be rendered a child than to give him noble thoughts of his being and of his destiny.

XII. THE TEACHERS' MANUAL, WHICH ACCOMPANIES THE FIRST READER, PRESENTS SUGGESTIVE MATERIAL FOR ALL LESSONS.

A marvel of attractiveness and good sense. Founded upon best methods of the new education and in accord with advanced psychological theories.—The Bulletin, Norwich, Conn.

No other word than "charming" will apply to the appearance of this text-book. No other word than "admirable" will describe its methods. It should be in every school.—The Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky.

It is the most ambitious attempt in the direction thus far noted. Every aid that it is possible to arrange and that will assist the child has been brought out, and all in a scientific manner. It is the greatest First Reader ever published, and ought to be used in the Cleveland schools.—The Daily World, Cleveland, O.

A book that ought to inspire any teacher.—The Boston Times, Boston, Mass.

At last we have the scientific, practical, pedagogical primer. . . . The book makes a distinct and new epoch in the production of primary readers.—Education, Boston, Mass.

Represents a new idea in education.—The Spy, Worcester, Mass.

If a teacher using your book and following your Manual does not accomplish as much in one year as is usually done in three, something is radically wrong with the teacher and not with the book.—Leo Elskamp, Principal, McKinley, Minn.

Standard First Reader, The

Phonetic Edition

On account of a demand for a First Reader entirely in phonetics, the Funk & Wagnalls Standard First Reader has been issued in a new form for the advocates of a phonetic system. This new edition contains all the features to be found in the common edition of the Standard First Reader with but a few changes where absolutely necessary. Adhering entirely to the phonetic idea, this edition of the Standard First Reader contains only those spellings that are in phonetic forms; but it is so arranged that the Teachers' Manual, published with the common edition of the Reader, may be used to advantage with the Phonetic Reader. 12mo, Cloth, 112 pp. 35 cents.

Standard Second Reader, The

The second book of the Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reader Series contains many distinguishing features of great practical value. It adheres to the idea that only those thoughts are worth remembering that give in-form-ation, that build character, and the editors have aimed to give unity to the entire text of the book by preparing lessons along definite lines. Edited by Isaac K. Funk, LL.D. (Editor-in-Chief of the Standard Dictionary), and Montrose J. Moses, B.S. With illustrations by Reginald B. Birch, Dan Beard, Carter Beard, Oliver J. Nugent, Charles M. Relyea, etc. 12mo, Cloth, 208 pp. 50 cents.

DISTINGUISHING FEATURES.

I. The Second Reader aims to be a literary reader without confining itself entirely to literary subjects.

II. Six systematic lessons on simple subjects in science, easily demonstrated by actual experiments in the classroom, are introduced.

III. Six lessons on flowers, with full-page colored illustrations, make the pupil familiar with some of the common flowers of field and home.

IV. Six lessons dealing with trees tell in story-form and in description much about some of the most familiar trees. These lessons are accompanied by accurate pictures.

V. Six lessons introduce some of the most common animals in such a way as to give the pupil a clear idea of the difference between domestic and wild animals.

VI. In this practical age it is well for children to become familiar with some of the crafts that have entered into and furthered the progress of the nation. Six lessons dealing with crafts have been written with this idea in mind.

VII. The child of seven or eight begins to take interest in the past. Six lessons dealing with events in American history have been carefully graded.

VIII. In literature, lessons have been based upon Washington Irving and his "Knickerbocker History of New York"; Tennyson and his "Idylls of the King"; Longfellow and his stories of "Hiawatha"; Shakespeare and the story of "As You Like It" told from the nature standpoint.

IX. In the belief that where it is possible, subjects taken from literature should be told by the literary men themselves, many quotations showing the simplicity of great literary style have been taken directly from the masters; hence, quotations from Benjamin Franklin, John Ruskin, John Burroughs, and from the poets will be found throughout the book.

X. With the idea that the imagination of a child is dependent largely upon fables, many of the lessons deal with some of the most familiar legends in literature. The story of Lohengrin is told in simple language; many of Æsop's fables have been given in full, all illustrated with pictures that lend themselves readily to special talks by the teacher.

XI. Believing likewise that children enjoy reading for the mere fun of reaching quaint ideas many poems and jingles, to be read and to be memorized, are introduced throughout the book.

XII. Believing also that hands at times should be as busy as brains, a graded series of drawing lessons have been introduced dealing with the simple elements of drawing.

XIII. Each lesson has had a special illustration made for it. Carter Beard, Dan Beard, and Oliver J. Nugent have done some of the nature-drawings; Edwin Willard Deming, the famous Indian artist, has been employed for the lessons on Indian life; Reginald Birch of "Lord Fauntleroy" fame has done some of his best work for the "King Arthur" and "As You Like It" lessons. These are but a few instances to show the care with which the book, from an artistic standpoint, has been prepared.

XIV. The strong educational features so marked in the Funk & Wagnalls First Reader have been further advanced along the same lines in the second book. The Scientific Alphabet is used to a limited degree for pronunciation purposes only, and pronunciation drills and phonetic drills have been carefully mapped out.

XV. All of the lessons have been specially prepared with the idea that they are to appeal to children of a certain age. The editors believe that children will learn only so far as they become interested in a subject. They believe that a simple vocabulary should be aimed at, but that simplicity should not sink into a simpleness that makes the text stiff and artificial. Children are very susceptible to style, without knowing definitely what is meant by the word.

XVI. A Teachers' Manual has been specially prepared to go with this Reader. In it are to be found valuable suggestions regarding the manner of treatment in each lesson, with references to classroom literature, outlines of stories, outlines for lessons apart from those given in the Reader, bibliographies of nature-books, song-books, fables, etc.

Tolstoy, Count Leo (see also under Crosby, Hawthorne, and Maude)

Esarhaddon, King of Assyria, and Other Stories (see "Hour-Glass Stories")

Plays: Also Annotated List of Works ‡

This volume, a new translation by Louise and Aylmer Maude, contains Tolstoy's three great plays, together with the Russian folk-tale, of which one of them is the dramatized version. It also includes a complete annotated and chronological list of Tolstoy's works of special helpfulness to all readers and students of the great Russian writer. List of the plays: The Power of Darkness, or if a Claw is Caught the Bird is Lost.—A drama in five acts. The First Distiller.—A comedy in six acts. Fruits of Culture.—A comedy in four acts. Including also, The Imp and the Crust.—This is a Russian folk-tale, of which "The First Distiller" is the dramatized version. 8vo, photogravure frontispiece, ornamental cover, deckle-edged, gilt top, ribbed olive Cloth. $1.50.

To their literary merit Tolstoy's plays add the quality of being excellent acting dramas, as their success both in Russia and elsewhere has abundantly shown. Mr. Laurence Irving lately wrote: "I suppose England is the only country in Europe where 'The Power of Darkness' has not been acted. It ought to be done. It is a stupendous tragedy; the effect on the stage is unparalleled."

"Between Tolstoy's two great plays," says the translator, "'The Power of Darkness' and 'The Fruits of Culture,' the contrast is very striking. The first is intensely moral, terrible in its earnestness and force. . . . Very different is 'Fruits of Culture': a play brimful of laughter and merriment."

Sevastopol and Other Military Tales ‡

A new translation by Louise and Aylmer Maude, specially approved by the author. This book relates the author's own experiences, sensations, and reflections during the most noted seige of modern history The translation has been authorized by Count Tolstoy, who has specially commended it for its accuracy, simplicity, and directness. Cloth. $1.50.

No other modern book approaches 'Sevastopol' in the completeness and directness with which it unveils the realities of war. There are picturesque glimpses in Mr. Kipling's vulgar stories of fighting. But the strongest meat Mr. Kipling can provide is milk for babes beside Count Tolstoy's seemingly casual sketches, which yet comprehend with merciless amplitude the whole atmosphere of war.—The Morning Leader, London.

Thoroughly competent and satisfactory, not to say authoritative.—The Athenæum, London.

Tolstoy's Letters and Essays ‡

Containing new translations and fresh matter translated by Aylmer Maude. 12mo, Cloth, 372 pp. $1.00.

As an interpreter, Mr. Maude is excellent, and his earlier chapters have real value in establishing exactly what Tolstoy has meant by his religious speculations and his moral reforms.—The Saturday Review.

Tolstoy on Shakespeare

A Critical Essay on Shakespeare by Leo Tolstoy. Translated by V. Tcherkoff and I. F. M. Followed by "Shakespeare's Attitude Toward the Working Classes," by Ernest Crosby, and a letter from G. Bernard Shaw. Also other remarks on the subject. With characteristic vigor and keen insight Tolstoy analyzes the works of the immortal bard. In relentless fashion he strives to show that Shakespeare's genius as a dramatist is much overrated. To do this he measures the man and his works by the modern rules and axioms of the drama. Many readers will not accept Tolstoy's verdict as final, but none can gainsay his wonderful gift of penetration, and his clear method of presenting his view. 16mo, Cloth. 75 cents.

The style throughout is strikingly picturesque and frequently dramatic, while many of the emendations are peculiarly felicitous.—Rev. Adam Stuart Muir, D.D., Leith.

A translation of the Scriptures would be of invaluable use that would be an exact counterpart of the Hebrew; in a word, causing the Scriptures to present to the English reader not only the same general meaning, but even the same minute shades of thought and feeling which they present to those familiar with the original tongues. Mr. Young's translation seems to be admirably adapted to meet this want.—Rev. W. G. Blaikie, D.D.

A very fresh, readable account of the life of this eccentric and remarkable man.—The St. Louis Central Baptist.

Zangwill, Israel

Blind Children ‡

The essentially poetic character of Mr. Zangwill's genius in his prose writings has been recognized by the critics. This volume, the first book of poems which Mr. Zangwill has published, supports the truth of this criticism in a remarkable manner. The material of the collection is largely personal, the spirit is imaginative, and the message which reaches his readers is subconscious in its revelation. 12mo, Cloth, ornamental covers, 141 pp. $1.20.

A broad intellectuality flows steadily along, absorbing little rivulets of humor, pathos, keen analysis, wholesome criticism, and practical ideas, forming a definitive connection between the apparently widely separated themes of the poems.—Philadelphia Item.

The strength and depth of their meaning will recur over and over again. . . . The material is largely personal, but wrought together with lively imagination and a subtle charm, which descends to wonderful depths without the slightest effort.—Washington Post.

Zenos, Prof. Andrew C., D.D. (see also under Bible Dictionary, Standard)

The Elements of the Higher Criticism

The object of this work is not to advocate or oppose any set of theories, but to state and explain the principles and methods of the higher criticism, with reference to the large and growing periodical and book literature on the subject. 12mo, Cloth, 268 pp. $1.00.

While the work is neither a plea nor a philippic, it is eminently reassuring as to the Divine Source of the Holy Scriptures, the Bible.—Arena, Boston.

This is a book of intense interest to all religious folk.—George A. Hepworth, D.D., in the New York Herald.

Zwemer, Samuel M., D.D., F.R.G.S.

Raymund Lull

The life story of the first Christian missionary who carried the gospel to the Moslems. The record of Raymund Lull's life reads like a romance. From the dissolute life of a gay knight in the Court of King James II. of Aragon, he became a monk. So numerous were his literary productions on philosophy, sociology, logic, and theology that their number is unknown. His daring trips to Africa, his unflinching courage, his great strength of faith, his intense suffering, and his tragic death after fifty years of saintly devotion to his mission of converting the Saracens to Christianity, all form some of the most glowing pages in the lives of the world's illustrious Christian heroes. 12mo, Cloth, ornamental covers, 172 pp., 12 full-page half-tone illustrations, introduction by Robert E. Speer, complete bibliography, etc. 75 cents.

It appeals strongly to those who love the heroic, and are fascinated by a picturesque personality.—Chicago Evening Post.

Told in Dr. Zwemer's inimitable style, and with the scope and grasp supplied by his almost unequaled understanding of things Mohammedan, this little biography is sure to be of great value to the cause in behalf of which it was written.—The Mission Field.

It is with fellowship of spirit that the author introduces his readers to this hero of the thirteenth century, this little-known man who ranks among the greatest missionaries of all ages.—The Children's Missionary, Baltimore.

This admirable biography emphasizes Lull's own motto: "He who lives by the life can not die!"—Boston Times.
